Professor R. A. Fisher, F.R.S.,
Galton Laboratory,
University College,
Gower Street,
W.C.1.

My dear Fisher,

1. I am afraid we have no room at the Zoo to keep the animals you mention indefinitely (we have a good many of both species already). We could, however, put them in the Sanatorium for a time, and have your laboratory man come up to study methods; and we might, with regard to the Opossums, put aside one of the old circus waggons in the Sanatorium yard, to try whether we could not breed them. Will you let me know if this will serve?

2. I don't think you answered my previous letter about coming to the British Association to take part in the discussion on Selection that is being organised by Section D., so I have been rather assuming that you were not coming. Could you just let me know definitely, because I must try and get on with fixing up the programme.

Ever yours,

Julian Huxley
