

Reforming the Reform of Teacher Education

A Critical Grounded Theory of a Social Approach to Change and Continuity

Colette Alexander
BEd, GradDipEd, MEd(Hons)

Faculty of Arts
School of Education

May 2016

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Table of Contents	iii
List of Tables and Figures	vii
Abstract.....	ix
Declaration.....	xi
List of Acronyms	xv
Chapter 1: Introduction	1
The Regulation of Teacher Preparation in Queensland.....	5
Regulating the Profession	5
Regulating Higher Education	8
The Growth of the Regulatory Climate	11
Reviewing Teacher Preparation	12
The Caldwell and Sutton Review	13
Focussing the Study	19
Chapter 2: The Contemporary Context of Teacher Preparation.....	25
An Overview of Contemporary Teacher Preparation.....	25
A Short History of Teacher Preparation in Australia	27
The Apprenticeship Model.....	29
The Training Model	30
The Education Model	34
Questions that Emerge from the History of Teacher Preparation	38
Teacher Preparation Providers in the Australian Context.....	38
Employer-Based Provision of Teacher Preparation.....	39
Independent Provision of Teacher Preparation	40
Questions that Emerge in Relation to Teacher Preparation Providers	41
Teacher Preparation Models in Contemporary Context	41
The Regulation of Teacher Preparation in Australia	43
The Origins of the Regulatory Climate	47
Questions that Emerge in Considering the Contemporary Context.....	50
The Professional Identity of Teacher Educators.....	50
The Academic Standing of Teacher Educators	51
Engaging the Work of the Academy.....	51
The Development of Scholarship and Research.....	53
Questions that Emerge about the Professional Identity of Teacher Educators	57
Reading The Story of Teacher Preparation Differently	57
Philosophical Foundations for Alternative Readings.....	58
Knowledge and Power in the Provision of Teacher Preparation.....	60
The Research Question	62
Chapter 3: Methodology.....	65
Elucidating the Foundations of Research/Inquiry	65
A Four-Fold Philosophical Frame for Research.....	66
Engaging Critical Inquiry	69
Exploring Methodological Possibilities.....	71
Examining Grounded Theory	73
The Origins of Grounded Theory.....	73

Interpretivist Grounded Theory	74
Postpositivist Grounded Theory	76
Constructivist Grounded Theory	76
Postmodern Grounded Theory	77
The Need for a Critical Grounded Theory	77
Elaborating Critical Grounded Theory	78
Developing Critical Grounded Theory	79
Enacting Critical Grounded Theory	83
Sequencing the Research Process in Critical Grounded Theory	85
Research Methods across the Phases of Critical Grounded Theory	86
Presenting the Outcomes of Critical Grounded Theory	98
Chapter 4: An Analysis of Narratives in the Story of Teacher Preparation	99
Constructing and Deconstructing the Narratives	99
The Continuity of Teacher Training in Victoria	100
The Foundations of Teacher Preparation in Victoria	101
Coping with Crisis – The Depression Years	104
The Outworking of the Exigencism of the Depression Years	105
Deconstructing the Victorian Story: Situational Analysis	107
Situational Mapping: Change and Continuity in the Victorian Context	107
Positional Mapping: Competing Perspectives in the Continuity of Teacher Training	112
The Rise of Teacher Education in Western Australia	115
The Foundations of Teacher Preparation in Western Australia	116
Coping with Crisis – Depression and War	119
The Outworking of the Exigencism of the Crisis Years	121
Deconstructing the Western Australia Story: Situational Analysis	124
Situational Mapping: Change and Continuity in the Western Australian Context	124
Positional Mapping: Competing Perspectives in the Development of Teacher Education	130
Critiquing the Narratives	135
Setting	135
Characters	137
Narrative Plots	138
Themes	141
Theorising from the Narratives	142
Chapter 5: Theorising from the Historical Context	145
Theorising Change and Continuity	145
The Social Process of Change and Continuity	149
Negotiation as the Core Variable in the Social Process	152
Category 1: Participants in Negotiation	154
Category 2: Negotiation Matrix	158
Category 3: The Practices of Negotiation	166
Drawing Theoretical Conclusions	171
Chapter 6: Theorising Change and Continuity in Contemporary Contexts	175
An Analysis of the Contemporary Interviews	176
Themes in the Interview Data	178
The Social Context of Change and Continuity	181

The Cultural Field of Education	186
The Political Field of Teacher Preparation	190
Reform as the Core Variable in the Social Context	202
Category 1: Purposes; Goals for the Educational Reform of Teacher Education	204
Category 2: Practices; Promoting Educational Reform of Teacher Education	210
Category 3: Principles; Applying Educational Reform to Teacher Education	221
Drawing Theoretical Conclusions	231
Chapter 7: Conclusions and Recommendations	237
Comparing Theoretical Outcomes.....	238
Comparing Core Conceptions.....	238
Theorising a Social Approach to Change and Continuity.....	241
Responding to the Research Question	244
Change in Teacher Education	244
Knowledge and Power in the Social Approach to Change and Continuity	246
Emerging Paradigms for Teacher Education	248
The Future of Teacher Education	250
Further Considerations	252
Issues in Teacher Education for Further Investigation	252
Methodological Issues for Further Consideration	254
Issues for Investigation beyond the Scope of this Study.....	255
Limitations of the Study	257
Hope for the Future of Teacher Education	259
Reference List.....	261
Legislation	282
Appendices	283
Appendix 1: Ethics Documentation	283
Appendix 2: Exemplar Memo – Phase Two Core Category: Negotiation	289
Appendix 3: Exemplar Memo – Interview Analysis.....	293
Category 1: The Political Field	294
Category 2: The Cultural Field	296
Category 3: Political - Cultural Interface.....	297
Category 4: Teacher Education for Building the Profession	299
Appendix 4: Exemplar Memo – Phase Three Category: Influences on the Field of Teacher Education	303
Political Influences on Teacher Education.....	303
Educational Influences on Teacher Education	310

LIST OF TABLES AND FIGURES

Table 1.1 Comparison of ATEA Conference Proceedings: 2012-2014	2
Figure 1.1 The Categorisation of Preservice Teacher Education Recommendations	15
Figure 1.2 Categorisation of Recommendations across Calwell and Sutton's (2010) Reports.....	16
Figure 1.3 Representation on Expert Panels	17
Figure 3.1. Model of an Authentic Paradigm of Inquiry	68
Figure 3.2. Framework of Paradigms for Social Research (adapted from Crotty 1998)	73
Figure 3.3 Methodological Sequence	85
Table 3.1. Key Historical Texts in Teacher Preparation	90
Table 3.2. Example of Initial and Focussed Coding of Interview Data	95
Figure 3.4. Example of Reflective Memo Using Writing Strategies	97
Figure 3.5. Example of Reflective Memo Using Brainstorming	97
Figure 4.1 The Victorian Context: Abstract Situational Map	108
Figure 4.2 Continuity of the Training Model: Abstract Situational Map	109
Figure 4.3 Core Contestation in the Continuity of Teacher Training: Abstract Positional Map	113
Figure 4.4 The Western Australian Context: Abstract Situational Map	125
Figure 4.5 The Rise of Teacher Education: Abstract Situational Map	126
Figure 4.6 Core Contestation in the Rise of Teacher Education: Abstract Positional Map	131
Figure 5.1 Change and Continuity as a Social Process: A Theoretical Model	150
Figure 5.2 Classification of Participants in the Social Process of Change and Continuity	155
Figure 5.3 The Negotiation Matrix	158
Figure 5.4 Conceptions of Influence in the Social Process of Change and Continuity	159
Figure 5.5 Types of Hope for the Future of Teacher Preparation	168
Figure 6.1 Two Exemplar Conceptual Models from Contemporary Interviews	177
Figure 6.2 Change and Continuity for Preferred Futures in Teacher Education	182
Figure 6.3 Practices Promoting Educational Reform in Teacher Education	211
Figure 6.4 The Structure of Human Activity (Engeström, 1987, p.78)	234
Table 6.1 The Core Elements of Human Activity in the Reform of Teacher Education	235
Figure 7.1 Core Conceptions of Theoretical Models: Phase 2 and 3	239
Figure 7.2 A Social Approach to Change and Continuity	242

ABSTRACT

The reform of teacher education in Australia has been an issue of significant challenge to higher education providers in recent decades. The granting of autonomy to state-based teachers' colleges in 1972 heralded in a supposed era of autonomous university level teacher education as an exclusive model of teacher preparation. Subsequently, the context of teacher education has been in an almost constant cycle of political review and reform. Across the period of this study, 2010-2015, the pace of these cycles has increased to the point where the the outworking of one review has not been completed before the next wave of actions are rolled out. One notable example being the release of the second iteration of the National Program Standards for initial teacher education courses in December 2015 (AITSL, 2015). Considering the length of an undergraduate initial teacher education course and the time taken in accrediting a course, the review and reform of the first iteration of the program standards, released for commencement in 2012, has come before any evidence of their usefulness could ever be collected. In the climate of review and regulation that has taken hold, the impact of political intervention on the processes and practices of teacher education is significant.

The outworking of political review and reform is experienced by teacher education as change and continuity. While change and continuity are often described as externalised abstract conceptions, the thesis developed from this study has identified change and continuity as subjective, contextualised social processes. From this perspective, it is argued that change and continuity are the key means that individuals, institutions and organisations engage in seeking to improve or develop teacher education and its outcomes towards a preferred future. Given the multiplicity of voices consistently present in the practice of teacher education, the reform of teacher education through the outworking of change and continuity has always been a deeply political activity. As such, the core issue facing teacher educators is finding the space to be both heard and heeded amongst the cacophony of voices that have influence in political review and reform processes.

A critical grounded theory methodology was designed for this study into the political practices surrounding the reform of teacher education. In doing so, it specifically employed two core purposes identified from the integration of critical theory with grounded theory. These were to; critically analyse the knowledge and power relations at work in the political practices of reform, and to consider emancipatory possibilities for teacher educators. With this in mind, the methods employed gave purposeful voice to teacher educators through historical texts written by and contemporary interviews conducted with teacher educators. Two substantive theoretical models emerged from the critical analysis of the data. These models highlighted the; nature of the social process of change and continuity evident in the historical context of teacher preparation in Australia, and importance of the local social context of change and continuity across contemporary international teacher education.

The conclusions drawn from this study have used a comparative analytical process to theorise a social approach to change and continuity. The thesis presented is that the outworking of reform towards educationally justifiable outcomes is predicated upon the employment of educational voices in socially mediated decision-making processes. For social engagement in the political practices of reform to be successful, teacher educators need to foster carefully nuanced relationships, provide clear and purposeful communication, and maintain a positive psychological disposition. It is argued that the future of teacher education and its potential to impact the professionalisation of teachers is entirely dependent upon the capacity of teacher educators learning to productively occupy the space available for their voice in the political context of reform.

DECLARATION

I certify that this work contains no material which has been accepted for the award of any other degree or diploma in my name in any university or other tertiary institution and, to the best of my knowledge and belief, contains no material previously published or written by another person, except where due reference has been made in the text. In addition, I certify that no part of this work will, in the future, be used in a submission in my name for any other degree or diploma in any university or other tertiary institution without the prior approval of the University of Adelaide and where applicable, any partner institution responsible for the joint award of this degree.

I give consent to this copy of my thesis, when deposited in the University Library, being made available for loan and photocopying, subject to the provisions of the Copyright Act 1968.

I also give permission for the digital version of my thesis to be made available on the web, via the University's digital research repository, the Library Search and also through web search engines, unless permission has been granted by the University to restrict access for a period of time.

Signed:

Date: 31 May 2016

A task, such as the completion of a thesis of this nature, is never the work of just one person. While I have actually written everything that is included herein, there are many others who have made significant contributions and deserve honourable mention. I know I run the risk of missing someone important off the list, nevertheless I would like to thank...

Professor Tania Aspland, my principal supervisor, you have been a never-ending source of encouragement and perspective. You have given me space to explore and make mistakes and sound advice when it is needed. Your belief in my capacity to complete this task has been a rock across the many trying circumstances that come with a study of this nature. I am honoured to have been able to complete this journey with you.

Dr Robert Herschell, my co-supervisor, my professional and academic journey with you has been a long and illustrious one. You have been a constant source of encouragement and support. I consider it a blessing to have been your student, your colleague and your friend.

Mum and Dad, who have tirelessly contributed meals, ironing, gardening, housework, household repairs, lifts, ... all in the name of giving me time to finish that thesis! I trust that you know that even when I had my 'grumpy face' on I really did appreciate everything that you did to make the load easier. I count it an absolute joy and blessing to have shared my life with you – you are both an inspiration to me. I hope that when you finally read this thesis you'll be proud of yourselves... you helped make this happen?!

Professor Brian Millis and Christian Heritage College, who gave me a start in teaching and teacher education and contributed both time and finances to the completion of this study. Also, my colleagues (especially you Sadie Praeger) who had to put up with my constant need to talk through the things I was thinking and learning. Your patience and encouragement were really important; first as colleagues but most importantly as friends. I trust that you appreciate that there are too many others of you to name without forgetting someone important – but that you also all know that you are included.

Alison Stanton, who has read this entire thesis and provided editorial suggestions. For a long time you were both a colleague and a mentor in my professional life, yet most importantly I consider you 'family' (you too, Barry). Thank you for your support through thick and thin.

Elisha Keating, who has managed to remain my friend despite this thesis. Thanks for listening intently, and repeatedly, to my ramblings that made no sense. Thanks for turning up to cheer me up and feed me when you knew I was going to be all tired and grumpy. Thanks for putting up with text-books and computers and thesis writing even on holiday. Thanks for getting me out of the house (and my pyjamas) when I'd been in them too long. And for all the other things that kept me on the straight and narrow.

Finally, to my church family at Networx. Your encouragement and prayers have been appreciated. (and Taylor and Zac – here is your special mention, as promised;).

LIST OF ACRONYMS

AARE	Australian Association for Research in Education
ACDE	Australian Council of Deans of Education
ACER	Australian Council for Educational Research
ACP	Australian Council of Professions
AEYSOC	Australian Education, Early Childhood Development and Youth Affairs Senior Officials Committee
AITSL	Australian Institute for Teachers and School Leadership
APJTE	Asia-Pacific Journal of Teacher Education
APST	Australian Professional Standards for Teachers
AQF	Australian Qualifications Framework
AQFC	Australian Qualifications Framework Council
ARC	Australian Research Council
ATEA	Australian Teacher Education Association
AUQA	Australian Universities Quality Agency
BTE	Board of Teacher Education
BTR	Board of Teacher Registration
DEST	Department of Education, Science and Training
DET(Austl.)	Department of Education and Training (Australian Government)
DET(Qld)	Department of Education and Training (Queensland Government)
ERA	Excellence in Research for Australia
ERP	Education Research and Perspectives
HESF	Higher Education Standards Framework
ISI	Institute for Scientific Information
MCEECDYA	Ministerial Council for Education, Early Childhood Development and Youth Affairs
MCEETYA	Ministerial Council on Education, Employment, Training and Youth Affairs
NAPLAN	National Assessment Program Literacy and Numeracy
NHMRC	National Health and Medical Research Council
NPQTL	National Project on the Quality of Teaching and Learning
Ofsted	Office for Standards in Education, Children's Services and Skills
PISA	Programme for International Student Assessment
PSQT	Professional Standards for Queensland Teachers
QCAA	Queensland Curriculum and Assessment Authority
QCT	Queensland College of Teachers
QOHE	Queensland Office of Higher Education
SCEVT	Standing Committee in Education and Vocational Training
SCSEEC	Standing Council on School Education and Early Childhood
TEMAG	Teacher Education Ministerial Advisory Group
TEQSA	Tertiary Education Quality and Standards Agency
TQELT	Teacher Quality and Educational Leadership Taskforce