

studied his text books carefully and conscientiously for the better part of the year to find that he is expected to answer questions on something he has never learnt. But happily it is not often that such complaints are justified.

These criticisms, however, are criticisms of examiners and not of examinations. The success or otherwise of any examination depends on the examiner; he has a big responsibility, and I am glad to be able to bear ungrudging testimony to the fact that so far as the University Public Examinations of South Australia are concerned, that responsibility is not shirked.—I am, Sir, &c.,

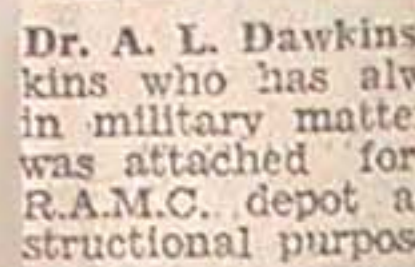

H. L. WARD, King William street South.

financial situation of the State was realised in June, 1930, officialdom instinctively turned again to Sir Walter, whose public-spirit and profound knowledge of economic affairs had already been amply proved by the successful appeal which had been made to him in a far less serious emergency by a former Government. In spite of the fact that the increasing depression had enormously increased his immediate responsibilities, as the head of one of the most important commercial concerns in South Australia, Sir Walter accepted the honorary appointment of chairman of the State Advisory Committee on Finance, and acted in that capacity, with indefatigable energy and splendid patriotism, until the Premier's Plan, the logical development of his own scheme of reform, had been given legislative effect, and was actually producing its hopeful first fruits.

To Sir William Goodman, the people of South Australia are indebted in a number of ways. The distinction now conferred upon him would hardly be excessive, if it were merely intended as an acknowledgment of the signal success of the Adelaide electric tramway system, which, in its original layout and subsequent control and development, owes so much to his outstanding capacity as an engineer and organiser. In the accepted sense of the term, Sir William Goodman has been no more a public character than Sir Walter Young; but an admiring community has always instinctively regarded him as the power behind an excellent tramway service; and the employes of the Trust, with whom he has maintained extraordinarily good relations, have had as little reason to suppose that his authority could be successfully challenged, as to fear that it would ever be misused to their detriment. Among tramwaymen, the distinction conferred upon their chief will certainly be popular; and among tram travellers, too. But an even larger public has reason to be grateful to Sir William Goodman, if only for the untiring energy and rare skill which he exhibited as chairman of the Railways Royal Commission. In this capacity, he has already been chiefly instrumental in lifting a heavy burden from the shoulders of South Australian taxpayers; and, when the recommendations of the Commission are given full effect, the saving will probably be greater still. In his case, as in the case of Sir Walter Young, even a Labor Government felt bound to make the only fitting return within its power; and the outcome of its decision will be cordially approved by the South Australian public.

ADV. 31-12-31

Dr. Alec L. Dawkins, who returned to Adelaide on Monday, left Adelaide in March, 1929, studied in London and Edinburgh, and passed F.R.C.S. (Edinburgh) last January. He then held a surgical appointment at the Southend - on-Sea Hospital for nine months. While in Edinburgh, Dr. Dawkins, with two other South Australians, the Rev. H. F. T. Heath, and Dr. H. M. Fisher played for the Carlton cricket team. Dr. Dawkins who has always been interested in military matters in January, 1930, was attached for 16 days to the R.A.M.C. depot at Aldershot for instructional purposes.

Dr. A. L. Dawkins

The Advertiser

ADELAIDE: FRIDAY, JANUARY 1, 1932.

TWO NEW KNIGHTS

The emergence from the New Year's honors list of two new South Australian knights, Sir Walter Young and Sir William Goodman, will be exceedingly gratifying to the great majority of the people of this State. In each case, this Royal distinction is a fitting acknowledgement of distinguished and disinterested public service. At the cost of a great deal of self-sacrifice and ungrudgingly hard work, both the new knights have conferred signal benefits upon their fellow South Australians, and have placed the whole community in their debt, in circumstances in which it is powerless to make any effective return. The Government, however, is not without resources in a matter of this kind; and Mr. Hill and his Ministers obviously felt that, though the debt could hardly be repaid, it could at least be suitably acknowledged. His Majesty the King has been pleased to approve the recommendations made to him, and has conferred marks of his favor upon two gentlemen who, in the opinion of everyone who is in a position to know, are singularly deserving of this distinction. The conspicuous public-spiritedness with which Sir Walter Young and Sir William Goodman have placed their exceptional talents at the service of the people of South Australia, could not adequately be recognized in any other way.

Sir Walter Young has acted, with extraordinary tact and ability, the invaluable role of chief financial adviser to the present South Australian Government; and it is now no secret that the policy which the Hill Ministry has so long pursued—which has not only averted the threat of insolvency from this State, but has afforded a salutary example to every other Government in Australia—has been very largely the reflection of his wisdom and experience. When the really desperate wood, shall henceforth bear the title of Princess Royal.

The honors list includes one viscounty, five baronies, three privy councillorships, three baronetcies, 28 knights, and a large number of appointments and promotions in the various orders of chivalry.

Following are the principal honors:—

VISCOUNT
Baron Sankey (Lord Chancellor).

BARONS
Mr. Clifford Allen formerly chairman of the Independent Labor Party.
Col. Wilfrid Ashley, M.P., Minister of Transport in the last Conservative Government.
Mr. Walter Guinness, M.P., Minister of Agriculture in the last Conservative Government.
Sir William Thomson, M.P., Postmaster-General in the last Conservative Government.
Mr. Stratton Jones, Liberal M.P. for Camborne Cornwall.

PRIVY COUNCILLORS
Major Walter Elliot (Financial Secretary to the Treasury).
Sir Thomas Inskip, M.P. (Solicitor-General).
Col. Sir Clive Wigram (private secretary to His Majesty).

BARONETS
Mr. Percy Harris, Liberal M.P., and formerly chairman of the London County Council.
Sir Harry Hope, M.P.
Mr. Arthur Samuel, M.P. (Financial Secretary to the Treasury in the last Conservative Government).

KNIGHTS
Mr. George Buckston Browne, surgeon, who endowed the house where Charles Darwin lived and gave it to the nation. He has given generous financial support to medical research work.
Dr. Henry Dale, director-in-chief of the National Institute for Medical Research and secretary to the Royal St. Andrew's University, for services to education.

KNIGHT COMMANDERS
Mr. Frederick Maze, inspector-general of Chinese Maritime Customs.
Mr. Stephen Tallents, secretary to the Empire Marketing Board.

Appointments in the Royal Victorian Order include:—
Sir Wilfrid Davies, Doctor of Music, to be commander. Mr. J. H. Whitley, formerly chairman of the Royal Commission on Labor in India.
A large number of officers in India and the colonial services are also receiving honors. Promotions in the Air Force include Air Vice-Marshal Sir John Steel to be air marshal, and Air-Commodore Maceman to be air-marshal.

ADV. 2-1-32

MANY HONORED BY KING

Lord Sankey To Be Viscount LABOR MAN AS BARON

LONDON, January 1.

One Viscounty, five Baronies, three Privy Councillorships, three Baronetcies, 28 Knights, and a large number of appointments and promotions in various orders of chivalry are announced in the New Year's honor list.

The principal honors are as follow:—

PRINCESS ROYAL
Princess Mary, Countess of Harewood, will, in future, bear the title Princess Royal.

VISCOUNT
Lord Sankey, who has been Lord Chancellor since 1929. For 14 years he was a judge of the King's Bench Division and a Lord Justice of Appeal from 1923 to 1929. He was a British member of the Permanent Court of Arbitration at The Hague in 1913. Lately he has done outstanding work at the India Round Table Conference.

BARONS
Mr. Clifford Allen, formerly chairman of the Independent Labor Party. During the war he was chairman of the No Conscription Fellowship and was three times imprisoned as a conscientious objector. He was one of the Labor delegates sent to Russia in 1920, and from 1924 to 1926 was a member of the executive of the Labor and Socialist International. He is now a director of the Labor newspaper, the "Daily Herald."

Colonel Wilfrid Ashley, M.P., chairman of the Anti-Socialist Union. Formerly Minister of Transport in the last Conservative Government and Under Secretary for War in the previous one. Lieutenant-Colonel Walter Guinness, M.P., who was Minister of Agriculture in the last Conservative Government.

Mr. Stratton Jones, Liberal M.P. for Camborne (Cornwall).
Sir William Mitchell-Thomson, Postmaster-General in the last Conservative Government.

PRIVY COUNCILLORS
Major Walter Elliot, M.P., Financial Secretary to the Treasury. He was Parliamentary Under-Secretary for Health for Scotland from 1923-24 and 1924-26 and Parliamentary Under-Secretary for Scotland, 1926-29.
Colonel Sir Clive Wigram, private secretary to the King.
Sir Thomas Inskip, Solicitor-General.

BARONETS
Mr. Percy Harris, Liberal M.P., formerly Deputy-Chairman of the London County Council. At one time he lived in New Zealand for three years.
Sir Harry Hope, Conservative M.P., formerly president of the Scottish Chamber of Agriculture.
Mr. Arthur Samuel, Conservative M.P., one time Minister of Overseas Trade, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, and Financial Secretary to the Treasury.

KNIGHTS
Dr. George Buckston Browne, who endowed the house where Charles Darwin lived, and gave it to the nation. He has given generous financial support to medical research work.
Dr. Henry Dale, director-in-chief of the National Institute for Medical Research and secretary to the Royal Society.
Professor Patrick Geddes, late Professor of Botany at St. Andrew's University, and a director of the Cities and Town Planning Exhibition; for services to the cause of education.

ORDER OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE KNIGHTS COMMANDERS
Mr. Frederick Maze, Inspector-General of the Chinese Maritime Customs. He joined the Chinese Customs service in 1891, and since then has served in China. His wife hails from Queensland.
Mr. Henry Tallents, secretary to the Empire Marketing Board since 1926.

ROYAL VICTORIAN ORDER C.V.O.
Dr. Sir Walford Davies, organist of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, since 1927; Director of Music and chairman of the National Council of Music at the University of Wales, since 1919; and Gresham Professor of Music since 1924. Sir Walford Davies is a brother of Dr. Harold Davies, of Adelaide.
Mr. John Whitley, Speaker of the House of Commons from 1921 to 1928, and more recently chairman of the Royal Commission on Labor in India.

A large number of officers in the Indian and colonial services also receive honors.
Promotions in the Royal Air Force include:—
Air Vice-Marshal Sir John Steel, commander of the Wessex Bombing Area, to be Air Marshal.
Air Commodore N. D. K. MacEwan to be Air Vice-Marshal.

THREE HONORED IN QUEENSLAND

One A Woman Hospital Worker

Brisbane, January 1.

Three well-known Queenslanders, including a woman, were included in the New Year honors. Mr. James Walker Davidson, Commissioner for Railways, has been awarded the C.M.G.; Mr. William Ball Slade, pastoralist, of Ellangowan Warwick C.B.E.; and Miss Florence Chatfield, Superintendent of the Diamantina Hospital for Chronic Diseases, has been appointed O.B.E.

Sergeant Fahey, of Roma street police station, has been awarded the King's Police Medal for outstanding bravery.
Mr. Davidson, who was born in Scotland, was appointed Commissioner of Railways in 1918. He is in charge of the most extensive system of railways in Australia, and controls and administers more than 6,500 miles of railways.
Sergeant Fahey figured in a shooting affray at Breakfast Creek Hotel recently, when he tried to take a revolver from a man and his three associates who had entered the hotel bar. When the man got away Fahey continued the chase, despite the fact that the fugitive fired shots.
Miss Chatfield was trained at Brisbane General Hospital, and was appointed superintendent in 1904. She has held the position since. She has frequently been commended by various Ministers for her work, and a tribute to her organising ability she was appointed supervisor of the Government in 1918.
Mr. W. B. Slade is one of the oldest pioneers, and has been connected with Darling Downs for 67 years. He was born at Somersetshire, in December, 1864, and arrived in Sydney in 1861. He was sworn in as a magistrate in

News 1-1-32

BARONY FOR SOCIALIST

Imprisoned During the War HONORS LIST

(British Official Wireless)
LONDON, December 31.

THREE times imprisoned as a conscientious objector in 1916-17, Mr. Clifford Allen, formerly chairman of the Independent Labor Party, has been created a Baron.

This is the most interesting name in the New Year's honors list. Mr. Allen was educated at Cambridge University, was secretary and general manager of the first official Labor daily, "The Daily Citizen," from 1911 to 1915. He was chairman of the University Socialist Federation, chair-man of the No Conscription Fellowship, Labor delegate to Russia in 1920, and a member of the executive of the Labor and Socialist International. He is now a director of the Labor newspaper, the "Daily Herald."

It is announced that Princess Mary, Countess of Harewood, will, in future, bear the title Princess Royal.

Princess Royal