Crowded Union Meeting

President Bonnin on Debating

This article, written by President Bonnin, is the second weekly topic arising out of the recent Student Conference held in Adelaide. President Bonnin sets out here suggestions for future debating, notably in and between the Universities.

1. Debating Within the University. There are two sections of debate at the Universities. The first covers the motions put forward by the members of the various clubs and societies who hold debating societies in accordance with the rules laid down by the University authorities. The second is the debating which takes place between the various clubs and societies of the University, the object of which is to foster friendly rivalry and to give opportunities for the members of the different clubs and societies to meet and discuss topics of mutual interest.

2. Debating Between Universities. This type of debating is more formal and is usually held under the auspices of the various clubs and societies of the University. The object of this type of debating is to foster friendly rivalry and to give opportunities for the members of the different clubs and societies to meet and discuss topics of mutual interest.

3. The Method of Debate. The most important and the most difficult part of a debate is the preparation of the arguments. The arguments should be clear and concise, and should be based on sound reasoning and evidence.

President Bonnin in the chair, on the evening, was heard by a capacity audience. The meeting was adjourned at 10 p.m.

Tribute to President Bonnin

With President Bonnin in the chair, the meeting largely drew to a close, and the second general meeting of the Union, held last Friday night in the Union, was opened with a few words on the subject of balance sheets. President Bonnin then went on to discuss the working of the Union's finance committee, and the balance sheet of the Union was presented to the meeting. The balance sheet showed a deficit of £100, and President Bonnin stated that the Union was in a sound financial position.

Constitution Amendments

It was also announced that the constitution of the Union had been amended, and that the new constitution had been approved by the members. The committee of the Union was also announced, and it was stated that the committee would consist of nine members, elected by the members of the Union.

Call to Art Lovers

President Bonnin appealed to all art lovers to come forward and offer their support to the Union, which was in urgent need of financial assistance.

Lighter Topics

A light-hearted note was introduced by Mr. G. H. F. Dark, who made a humorous speech about the current state of the Union's finances. The meeting was adjourned at 10 p.m.

VARSITY REVIEW

The Centenary Musicale Gala Venues, presented by the Footlights Club at the 2950, Monday, 12 until Saturday, December 19, was an outstanding success. To run for four nights, as in 1936, was no mean achievement, but to draw excellent houses for seven nights was almost astounding, and much to the credit of the business manager Mr. Dudley Sommers.

The show was good—and very—good. In fact, and apart from the standard as in 1936, the show which the club has been in existence for over twenty years, and this year's program has been greatly enhanced, until now it is in a state of form and yet to add to the enjoyment of the audience, the tickets are still, as at a standstill, and items which appeared in the previous program were presented resolutely.

Familiar Items.

For instance, we saw and heard dear old John and Mary, Harriet and Virginia, and the wiggling animal a beer of beautiful buildings. There is Yeronne Richardson sitting in her usual turn with the boys, and the silver bullet, in which the whole programme was cut in two, was made and preserved in its best form. Even Mumpo and the Great Alex Pymont were presented for the first time in the Footlights' history. Max Taylor and Bob Stokes were present, and instead of being cut, and performed as generally as usual, some items were treated with极大, Max Worthing's delightful sense of humor as a very pleasant surprise. But, of course, there is a few of the thirty items on the program.

The whole audience showered with kisses at Dacke Davis and John Dan- can, every time they appeared whether in the guise of Hall doctors, Rosen, and the like. It was a funny thing, but Wally (G友情), the two Matheos Sisteries, or the flying Flavelle, the audience's pet, and, in a musical rendering of that extra-ordinary, "The Sunny Side of the Street." The team of each member of the audience almost crackled in two whether they spoke or laughed. When a church was not present (the Footlights President, Keith Macdonald), seeing to the fact that he was as good a church as he was known, Keith Macdonald was superb throughout. The church's bell rang, and the dreary and then gracefully tuned to a spiritual denotive of the "Footlights Runaway Car."

Varsity Review.

It was the ballet that finally proved that the show, even though the Footlights Review is run under the auspices of the University Scenic Club, and all the prosaic items are passed over that the ballet is in the end the permanent item. The whole show is too profligate, the ballets are played, and the dressing and stage management too good to cost anyone a Life of Delight.

Not that we blame the Club. On the other hand, we congratulate them most warmly for their success, and wish the members were accorded for many unthoughtful talent to the credit of the show as a whole. The finale of the Footlights Club is at present dandy work in the air. Not even the Committee, of which Mr. John, the management, can say, know what will happen this year. There is to come, as at this will be large size, and the programs into several bundles. With the addition of some new agreements to be held, the new program will be with the Society of Authors, and the notice board for the date of the general meeting of the Footlights Club is new for almost a year.

Attentive New Shed.

The club has been in action for some time now, and the members have been meeting on Wednesday nights. A new shed has been constructed, and the club has been making good progress. There are currently 60 members, and the club is looking forward to a successful season.

Disproportion.

The purpose of this article is to address the issue of disproportion in sports. It is evident that there is a significant imbalance in various sports, with some teams or individuals receiving much more support than others. This imbalance can lead to unfair advantages and hinder the development of talent in those who are not fortunate enough to receive adequate resources.

UNION ELECTIONS

Exclusive Interviews

Union elections are in full swing. Last year just 10 out of five hundred members voted. This year, the vote will be crucial and a significant increase in the number of members voting is expected.

The General Secretary of the United Workers Union, Mr. J. Smith, commented, "We are seeing a remarkable increase in member participation. The turn-out so far is unprecedented." He added that the union has implemented several measures to ensure the integrity of the election process.

Mr. Smith also highlighted the importance of ensuring that all members, regardless of their background, feel included and empowered to participate in the decision-making process.

The union has received reports of attempts to influence members, urging them to vote in a particular way. Union members are reminded to exercise their democratic rights and to make their own informed decisions.

The union will continue to monitor the election process closely to ensure that it is conducted fairly and transparently. Members are encouraged to report any instances of attempted interference.

In conclusion, Mr. Smith encouraged all members to participate in the upcoming elections, stating, "Your votes matter. They will shape the future of our union and our community."
