Evidences of Profound Unrest

Music in the Air

The first move has been made this year towards making better use of the excellent collection of prints and pictures given to the University by the Carnegie Corporation. Miss M. L. Harris, from the School of Arts and Crafts, has agreed to write a series of articles on art on Off. These will be illustrated by a number of prints to be lent by the Library each week. The first article appeared last week, but owing to being the only picture, the pictures were late in appearing. It is hoped that this will not happen again.

The pictures hanging in the Union building will be changed within a few weeks. Changing pictures is a big job, and more responsible undertaking than most people realize, and it requires a lot of thought and careful planning, which are not always given.

Although an enthusiastic group of students has become interested in securing the Carnegie grantees in the hands of the Union, the(Convictions, where it is found that it may be shown at any convenient time, the art collection. The Convictions are a group of students who were questioned about it, generally admitted that they had heard of it, and had the impression that it was not likely to be brought convenient under the foundations of the Bursary Hall.

They can easily verify for themselves that this is not so by looking for it on the ground floor of the Bursary Hall.

The collection comprises about 800 framed colored prints, hanging in the Union building, and a corresponding number of prints, water colors, and other art objects, in the administration office. These are entirely available to students, and can be seen when convenient.

The collection is a very valuable one, and is known to the students for whose use it was originally acquired. It is of great interest in art and cultural education.

Should We Have a Diploma in Journalism?

The calendar of the University of Western Australia recently ran into a period in which it was no longer possible to offer the Diploma of Journalism. The lack of interest in this course and its facilities, as expressed by graduate and advanced students, led to the decision that it would be better to close the course and concentrate on developing other areas of study.

The situation for the Diploma of Journalism is one of a number of instances where the University has had to make difficult choices in response to changing needs and priorities. However, it is important to note that the University remains committed to providing a diverse range of programs that meet the needs of our students and the broader community.

MODERN CIVILIZATION FRILLY PERSONALITY

Mr. J. (pro) defined personality as the mental and emotional characteristics that distinguish one individual from another. In his view, personality is a complex and ever-changing phenomenon that cannot be fully understood or explained by a simple formula or equation. He argued that personality is not just a matter of individual traits, but is also shaped by social and cultural factors. He urged students to explore these factors in their study of personality.

Mr. J. (para) expanded on this theme, emphasizing the importance of understanding the role of personality in shaping human behavior. He noted that personality traits can have a significant impact on how we relate to others and how we respond to different situations.

Mr. J. (para) also discussed the challenges of trying to maintain a healthy balance between personality and society. He noted that while personality is important, it is also essential to understand the social and cultural contexts in which we operate.

Mr. J. (pro) concluded by emphasizing the importance of recognizing the complexity of personality and the factors that influence it. He encouraged students to approach the study of personality with an open mind and a commitment to understanding the diverse and multifaceted nature of human behavior.
CORRESPONDENCE

THE EDITOR

Considering the late hour at which this letter reaches you, I am not sure that it will reach you at all. Nevertheless, I feel that I must write you, as there is something that I feel you should know. You see, I have been spending a great deal of time these last few weeks, and I have not had much time to write letters. But now I have some time, and I feel that I must tell you about what has been happening.

The Hard Heart of the University

The University is not a place where people go to learn. It is a place where people go to forget. The professors are not interested in teaching, they are interested in research. The students are not interested in learning, they are interested in getting good grades. The administration is not interested in providing a good education, they are interested in maintaining the status quo.

But despite all this, there are still some students who are interested in learning. They are the ones who work hard, who study, who ask questions. They are the ones who deserve our support.

The YAPORS

The YAPORS is a group of young people who are working to change the University. We are tired of the way things are, and we want to do something about it. We are organizing protests and demonstrations, and we are not afraid to speak the truth.

The Future of the Footlights Revue

The Footlights Revue is a student-run organization that puts on shows every year. This year, the show is called "The Great Depression." The cast and crew have been working hard to put together a show that will entertain and inform.

The Value of Emotion in Pictorial Art

Art is not just about beauty, it is about emotion. Pictorial art, in particular, has the power to evoke强烈 emotions in the viewer. It is not just about what we see, but also about what we feel.

Orchestral Concerts for 1939

The schedules of music concerts have been released for the year 1939. The concerts will feature a wide range of music, from classical to contemporary.
