The history of the rise of civilization is the story of how men have overcome their natural impulses. It is the story of how men have used the resources of the world to improve their living conditions. It is the story of how men have used their minds to create new things and to discover new ways of doing things.

This is not an easy task. It requires courage, perseverance, and hard work. It requires the ability to see things as they really are, and to act on that knowledge.

The history of the rise of civilization is also the story of how men have overcome their natural impulses. It is the story of how men have used the resources of the world to improve their living conditions. It is the story of how men have used their minds to create new things and to discover new ways of doing things.

This is not an easy task. It requires courage, perseverance, and hard work. It requires the ability to see things as they really are, and to act on that knowledge.

DEBATING

The National Union of Students (N.U.S.) held its annual conference in Sydney last week. The conference was attended by delegates from all parts of Australia, and was a success.

One of the main topics discussed at the conference was the future of Australian education. The delegates agreed that education should be free and compulsory up to the age of 16.

The delegates also discussed the issue of student unionism. They agreed that student unions should be able to run their own affairs, and that they should be able to make their own decisions.

The conference was a great success, and the delegates went home feeling inspired and ready to continue their work for Australian education.
THE BIRTH OF MODERN PAINTING

Giorgio (1657-1675) and Paris Angiolo (1658-1655)

Though their art was so eminently different in kind and style, they were both destined to be the forerunners of a movement that was to revolutionize the art of painting. The work of Giorgio was characterized by a love of form and color, while that of Paris Angiolo was more注重于 the use of light and shadow. Both artists were greatly influenced by the works of Caravaggio, and their painting styles reflect this influence. Their works are notable for their simplicity and their ability to capture emotion and feeling through the use of light and shadow. They are considered to be among the most important painters of their time.

REV. RUBIN-ZACKS AT THE P. & R. I. C.

Addressing a disappointingly small audience of about 50 at the P. & R. I. C. Thursday, May 18, the Rev. Rubin-Zacks mentioned that he had just returned from a trip to the Jewish Museum in New York. He said that he had been impressed with the exhibition of modern Jewish art that was being held there. He also spoke about the importance of education in the Jewish community and the need for more funding for Jewish educational programs.

SHELLEY DUVALL erupts into the chit of the chit with Valerie Beecher on Variety and Inconspicuous. We advise that the University should get the Fred to her own TV show before airing the A.B.C.'s.

The dedication of a new sculpture by an artist known as "The Stone" has been proposed. This sculpture is designed to be a symbol of the university's commitment to the arts. It is a large stone sculpture of a human figure, standing tall and proud. The sculpture is intended to be a statement of the university's support for the arts and its dedication to the idea of progress and change.
