S.R.C. votes its support

At its last meeting the S.R.C. overwhelmingly voted its support for academic dress. Amid cheers, a motion to this effect, proposed by Vice-President "Earl" Ashwin, was passed by the Council.

The motion read: "That this Council supports the principle that students should wear academic dress to lectures and on all formal University occasions, and urges individual councillors to wear academic dress."

The question was hotly debated by Engineering and Science representatives. Mr. Ashwin, speaking for the Science faction, said that academic dress might help fellow students in the University. "Once established, it would be acceptable," he said. "The impression people have of us is that we are upright, as it is never worn at Adelaide. Gowns are always worn at Cambridge. Then why not Adelaide?"

Brux (Science) - "It would not be too good for the students, we'd be putting on and taking off gowns all day.

Cypcar (Science) - "Would not be of any use for the students, we'd be putting on and taking off gowns all day.

Wright (Engineering) - "If we adopt academic dress it will add to the prestige of the University in this country."

Randall (Commerce) - "Public opinion is very much against it."

Scott (Science) - "If we adopt academic dress it will add to the prestige of the University in this country."

But the motion was carried by a majority of one.

ALL THIS AND £4/4/- TOO!

The House that Cudmore Built

Some students from overseas, interstate, and country centres are living in quarters which are entirely unsatisfactory for so many students are concerned.

One such place is Cudmore House, a boarding house for 1,000 students, just beyond Kingston Park. Mr. Fred Hood (Teachers' College representative) examined and submitted a report to the S.R.C.

"On Dit" takes a Gallup Poll on Gowns

In the past week "On Dit" - ever on the alert to butt student reaction to the decisions of that not-so-august body, the S.R.C. - has been conducting a Gallup Poll on the vexed question of Academic Dress.

The results show that under present conditions the students are 90 per cent opposed to academic dress, 9 per cent not sure, 9 per cent in favour, and 2 per cent not in favour.

Gowns are splendid in principle, but the students are of the opinion that in the present state of affairs the students are not able to afford the extra expenditure required for academic dress.

In his report, Mr. Hood said: "A survey of the conditions in Cudmore House showed that the students were not satisfied with the conditions. The house was overcrowded and the living and sleeping conditions were not satisfactory."

Mr. Hood recommended that the S.R.C. should take action to improve the living and sleeping conditions in Cudmore House.

My better, and the dinner table for the past month, has been a sorry affair. The house is overcrowded and the living and sleeping conditions are not satisfactory.

Two tours would be included in the Adelaide University Theatre Group's programme for 1981. President of the Group, Brian Bergin, announced at the first meeting in the Lady Symon Hall, that these would be to the USA, US, Drama Festival, to be held in Robert this year, and a tour of the Gulf ports as part of a N.A.F.L. tour in which other University groups would also participate. High tours would be held in August.

Besides giving this information to a presidential address, Mr. Bergin extended a warm welcome to Fremantle, both students and staff, and expressed the hope that his group would be able to satisfy the curiosity of the Forces for death counts from overseas.

COMPLIENCY TRAINING

The 15th Annual Report of the N.U.A.C. Com- munity contains a record of two months passed relating to Complimentary Military Training. The first month reads as follows: That this Council strongly recommends that the Federal Government ensure that the National Service Bill, when passed, will be used in a manner that will jeopardise the rights of students and its activities by carrying out their training, and that military training for students be continued to the long vacation.

Further that the Commonwealth Government be asked to reflect on the reparation of the basic, at least.

SIR EDMUND HERBERT

Sir Edmund Herberg, the Director of Recruiting in Australia, is going to give an address to students today in the George Murray Hall, during the lunch-hour.

A problem caused when a train was stranded in Queensland recently when a front-page story vigorously opposing Sir Edmund Herberg’s views, given in an address in Queensland University paper, “Ginger Florus”, with the headline: “We asked the Herberg for bread—and he gave us the inevitable peanut. Recruiting Director drags the Herberg across till”. His talk was described as “ominous” and “obscenity”. It is of interest to be hearing this man, whom Queensland students are so vigorously opposed. However, we should not judge him before listening to him.

Professor Mackerras, visiting Professor of Commonwealth Geology at the University of Sydney, has been making notes on the state of the Tasmanian fisheries, and his report has been welcomed by the local authorities as a valuable contribution to the knowledge of the fisheries of the island. It is the first time that a Tasmanian report has been published in the Commonwealth. The report is divided into two parts: the first part deals with the general condition of the fisheries, and the second part is devoted to the results of a special survey of the fisheries of the island. The report is very interesting and important, and it is hoped that it will be widely read and studied.

PARLIAMENT

A novel tour of debate was held by the Debating Society on Thursday evening, and the Australian Parliament may rest assured that this University will provide it with many building back-benchers. The debate was on the question: "Is the Government responsible to Parliament?" The arguments were presented by Mr. Fox and Mr. Smith, and the debate was well received by the students.

LITTLE ANECDOTES

SOMER Shoulder's students overstepped the bounds of proper behavior. Mr. Shoulder had promised to speak at the annual dinner, but he failed to appear. The students were disappointed, but they managed to carry on without him.

DOCTORS report that powers are scarce. They have had bad health, and they are not able to work.

Some of the students were singing in one of the dormitories, and the music sounded like the piper of the ghost.

The professor was speaking about his recent trip to the United States, and he seemed to enjoy himself.

The students were discussing the recent election, and they were very interested in the results.

In an article in "The Melbourne Herald" of February 13, on "Canberra and Face Facts," Sir Keith Robertson, editor of the Australian National University, argues that it is time to establish a University at Canberra with a staff of 50, many professors and lecturers, a first priority for its vast audience.

"It is a beautiful conception, but it is not semi-warp."

He goes on to suggest that Mr. Menzies might have made some top research man in the 1940s at the University, and that he is not satisfied with the current arrangement.

The public is left with the impression that there is no shortage of capable people at the universities, and that the only problem is to get them to work. If we are to have a first-rate University at Canberra, it is not enough to have a high status, but we must have a strong staff.

The Australian National University is a large university, and it is in no doubt that it will be successful. It is not only a great step forward for the Commonwealth, but it is also an indication of the country's determination to make its universities strong and effective. The University is already making a marked improvement in the quality of education provided, and there is no doubt that it will continue to do so.

The University will be a great addition to the Commonwealth's educational system. It will provide a strong base for research and training, and it will play an important role in the development of the country. The future of the University will be closely watched, and it is certain that it will be successful in its mission.

The Australian National University is a very important institution, and it is to be hoped that it will continue to play a major role in the development of the country. It is a great step forward for the Commonwealth, and it is certain that it will continue to be successful in its mission.
VARSITY AGAIN LOSE FINAL

Sturt Win Semi

Varsity A's reached the district cricket final four for the second time in succession, helped considerably by the new innovative joint systems. The team has generally been much more inconsistent, and patchy than last season. Under perfect conditions the semifinal was played on the University Oval.

After gaining a place in the final four by means of its second victory, the Varsity team began its first ever, one man, victory. The four had managed to win the District cricket final at a very high price but the last game was not to be towards the overseas. The Varsity's attempt to win their second game in a row was not to be. The team had been consistently, and was the best team in the District. Only a small number of the team were shunted to the final, by means of the Varsity's selection process. The match was the least interesting of the entire season.

TILLEY TO COACH

With Dr. C. E. Tilley as usual in the chair, the Football Club had about forty members present at its A.G.M.

The next meeting of the club was decided to take place in the new Tilley Hall, former site of the club's meetings. The club's first meeting was held in the new Tilley Hall, and the club's secretary, Mr. T. C. McAuley, took the chair. The meeting was a success, and the club's first meeting was held in the Tilley Hall.

LACROSSE

The A.G.M. was held on Wednesday, March 21, in the George Murray Library. Jim Hyde was elected Secretary in place of Murray Kaiser, whose resignation was accepted by the meeting, and Neil Crone, Assistant Secretary. Amongst last year's novices we were pleased to see several members, but the novelty of seeing a new year of men in the club's ranks was diminished by the recruitment of a large number of new members.

CRICKET CRISIS

Administrative Board Full of Four Runs

Hinthero batting with a great deal of the Smith, the Adelaide University side, let his team down when he was caught out by a rather wide ball from Professor Huxley. The scores were:

ACADEMICS 90.

A great spirit of fun prevailed throughout the evening's play. The game was another classic match, and the boys showed their usual high standard of cricket. The game was another classic match, and the boys showed their usual high standard of cricket.

WOMEN'S HANDY

The Annual General Meeting of the Adelaide University Women's Hockey Association was held on Thursday, March 1, in the George Murray Hall.
