NOT AN OFFICIAL STUDENT REPRESENTATIVE, BUT...

Halley on Way to Berlin

Although at a Special General Meeting of Students last month it was decided that no official representative of Adelaide students should be sent on an observer to the Festival of Youth and Students for Peace to be held in Berlin next August, Peter Halley, a fourth-year Med. student and a member of the S.C.M., is already on the way to Berlin as an individual observer.

A motion passed at the special meeting read: "That this special general meeting of students of the University of Adelaide, called together by the S.R.C. to determine its attitude to the 'Festival of Youth and Students for Peace,' request the President of the University to invite any member who may be interested to attend as an observer."

A memorandum to the President, Dr. Curnow, stated: "The meeting of students is not forming a committee to request the President of the University to invite any of the students to attend as an observer. The meeting passes the following motion: 'That this special general meeting of students of the University of Adelaide, called together by the S.R.C. to determine its attitude to the Festival of Youth and Students for Peace, request the President of the University to invite any member who may be interested to attend as an observer.'"

"That the President be thanked and the secretaries be instructed to notify all students of the meeting and of the decision made at the meeting."

The motion was carried by a show of hands.

REGIMENT BUS TIPS OVER

Thirty-one members of the Adelaide University Regiment got a shock during the May camp at Victor Harbor when a bus in which they were travelling ran off the road and tipped over almost on its side.

They were on their way to carry out a speech at a meeting of the students' union of the University of Adelaide, and they were due to leave at 10 a.m. when, about 15 miles out of Victor Harbor, the bus veered off the road, ran into a ditch about three or four feet deep. The driver, unable to turn out of the ditch, stopped the bus as it lurched toward the left.

No one was hurt, but it was some time before all the occupants were able to crawl out through the emergency exit.

The driver was later discovered to have been drinking.

The bus was later taken to a garage to be repaired.

NO GROG HERE, SOLD CARAVAN

In order to control excess and enforce pro-fluoride behaviour, the Executive Council of the University has passed an amendment to the University Act which makes it illegal to sell or give away any drink containing alcohol.

The amendment also prohibits the use of any caravans or similar mobile devices for the sale of alcoholic beverages.

W.S.R. WEEK COMING

The publication of the next "On Dit," a special W.S.R. number on July 2, will again be something to look forward to. The W.S.R. will be made for cover the 1951 student's guide to confronting every member of the University with the programme of W.S.R. and to solicit a donation of $1.50.

This requires a definite attitude to W.S.R. There will be many groups who will want not only to maintain, but to increase this attitude to W.S.R. They will want to do this in order to maintain the momentum of the programme.

W.S.R. will be composed of the University, the Programme of W.S.R. and to solicit a donation of $1.50.

MEETING SAYS WAR IS INEVITABLE

After a high-class political debate—the second this year—on the subject "That War is Inevitable," between Mr. Jeffrey Scott (for motion) and Mr. Elliot Johnston (against it), the motion was put to the house and passed, 93 votes to 74.

Being a humanist, Mr. Johnston, maintaining that war is immoral, said: 'Mr. Scott said he rejected determinism and stressed the possibility of human intervention in peace and war.'

'How,' Mr. Scott argued, "can we say that World Peace is the only true solution to world conflict?" He pointed out the dangers of a "vicious circle" of wars and the necessity of a peaceful solution.

Mr. Scott said he was not an isolationist, but he was a "realist." He believed in "peace through strength." He argued that the U.N.O. was the only way to prevent war and that the U.N.O. had been weakened by the recent war.

Mr. Johnston, on the other hand, said: "I am a humanist, but I believe in human intervention. I believe in the possibility of peace through the U.N.O. and the World Court."

Mr. Scott replied: "I agree with Mr. Johnston in his belief in human intervention, but I believe that the U.N.O. is inadequate. I believe that peace can only be achieved through universal disarmament and the establishment of a world government."
A.U.D.S. TO DO MURDER

WIMMEN

Every female student at the University is a member of the Women's Union. This means everyone can take part in the Clean-Up party on July 9, with songs, ballets and sketches included.

Ballot papers will be held at 9 p.m. in either the Lady Smith or George Murray from A.U.D.S. on the notice-boards every day for alterations to the Union's constitution. No previous experience is necessary and please note that the A.U.D.S. is the only student body that has never changed the names of its members.

A.U.D.S. production of "The Flier" last term brought a host of newcomers to the theatre. It is understood that the President of the A.U.D.S. is going to play the leading role, and if you are interested, you should attend the A.U.D.S. meeting on Monday night at 7 p.m.

"WE SHALL IMPOSE PEACE ON THE WARMONGERS"

Crowther on Pact Appeal

"We do not beg for peace; we shall impose peace on the warmongers," said Mr. J. C. O'Connor, a member of the World Peace Council, during a recent Press conference.

Mr. Crowther is the author of "The History and Social Relations of Science," including a number of books on Soviet science, and was the first British Chairman of the World Peace Movement.

"One of the features of the New Peace Movement," he said, "is that it shows that it is possible to think without using weapons."

"The number of people preparing for war is really quite small—" the vast majority of people want peace. With them to have peace by disarming the nations to enable people to live and work peaceably together."

"We want to strengthen moral and social solidarity and, in order to advance this we have launched the Five Power Pact Appeal."

"All that we demand is that the heads of peace representatives of the five great Powers—Great Britain, France, U.S.A., U.S.S.R., and the Chinese People's Republic—should meet to discuss and negotiate a reasonable conclusion, which would maintain their existence together in peace."

"This would work on among themselves, without the drawing up of any agreements."

"Anyone opposing such a reasonable request is either consciously or unconsciously a warmonger." Mr. Crowther said that the aim of the Peace Council was to express the desire of the people that such a meeting should take place.

"At this end," he said, "we are reviving the Five Power Pact Act and for it we aim to get a thousand million signatures—usually half the population of the world.

"If we get that number, the heads of the five nations will not be able to refuse."}

I.U.S.-sponsored Congresses

AN OPEN LETTER BY JOHN DAVID

As a matter of principle I normally would not think of opposing any meetings, conferences, or congresses, which would tend to a better international understanding. However, in the case of the I.U.S.-sponsored congresses, I am beginning to wonder.

In Melbourne last year, there was a technical film produced by the International Union of Students at their recent Congress in Eastern Europe. This film covered all activities from conferences, sightseeing, and cultural activities, to demonstrations and processions. It is the last I want to mention formal. I was amazed and disgusted at the occurrence of the processions, for they were apparently not concerned with anything but what was tantamount to the destruction of the festival. Many had been carried gigantic portraits of the Russian dictator, some reference to him, and the plain fact that we are not interested in his country and its rules for the rest of the world.

This is the first instalment of an open letter by John David concerning the Peace Congresses. The Editor wishes to make it clear that the views expressed in this article are not necessarily those of this newspaper, nor are they to be associated with it or with its staff.

"When the tides of war [are] with a mass-hysterical order to the people."

Facial expressions bore witness: a sad face, an evil face, a face of thunderous union, and thousands of other faces. "Peace!" "No War!"

The same was true of the people themselves. Australians from all races would be able to rise in unison, saying very strongly, I suppose that I am not in the extremities.

Moreover, I feel bound to say in favor of the Congresses that the 4,000 delegates were of an exceptionally high standard, and that the whole of the A.U.S. seemed to mix easily and well. But all this will be of no avail, if they are not united under a common sentiment produced by a condition almost approximating fascism.

On the 9th of July, 1961, the A.U.S. will conclude its letter.
The cards and the bottle are the only outlets for the last generation of Northern Territory aboriginals...

From GORDON WILLIAMS

Born in the County of East Loddon during the reign of Janet I of Scotland, Sawaney Beane, began his life in lasting and dishonour, died, perhaps, the only Englishman of the world has known.

In his youth Sawaney had shown vicious tendencies, and one time he was so violent in his conduct that he drove the finest coach and horses in the county from one town to another. Thereafter he lived a life of debauchery in the Company of women and children, and was so unashamed of his viciousness that he could not bear to be seen in public. In his old age he was reduced to a state of abject poverty, and lived a life of the most wretchedness.

Sawaney’s death was observed with great rejoicing, and his body was burned on the spot. The ashes were collected and scattered around the country, and are now regarded with veneration by all who pass through the town where he died.

FAMOUS MURDERERS

Sawaney Beane

(From the Complete New Calendar, 1855)

The white race has often been accused of taking over Australia without the least thought for the indigent aborigines. What of the aborigines’ treatment in the Northern Territory? The native’s circumstances are no better there. In the Hampit and its Human Rights Committee will do this. Without doubt whether the work very much harder or whether the government’s white public is employed to the wage picture: the the Australian Government should be wise enough and hold and the aborigines are employed as domestics, without the slightest shame, and though I have been told that some aborigines, including aboriginals, are now in the use of luxury.

Again is the matter of the "Aborigine Authority”. Nothing has been done since the Ordinance was passed, and the ordinance is still in effect. It is argued that the natives in the government go are not earning their wages; they are paid a fixed annual salary for their work. In this case, the natives are not aware of the ordinance, and therefore the government will not employ them. In other cases, the government will employ them, and a few will be employed, but the aborigines will not be aware of the ordinance, and therefore the government will not employ them.

Not all of Darwin’s aborigines are in Government employment. Many, however, are employed as domestics, doing the dirty work of the household at wages of 2 or 36 a week with keep.

Perhaps in all this I may have omitted some of the important information: the government orders and policies are not always followed. The government, it is true, pays attention to the welfare of the aborigines, but the aborigines are not always aware of the government’s policies. The aborigines are not given the opportunity to learn about the government’s policies, and therefore they are not aware of the government’s policies.

Truth about "The Flies"

SIR—The very interesting A.D.U.S. production of "The Flies" had one serious defect—namely, the absence of any programme note. The play was, of course, restricted propaganda, given its fundamentally anti-democratic and philosophical implications. As such, it should have been presented as such. However, the production was well-received by the audience, and the actors did an excellent job in bringing the text to life.

Forbes, Woodard gain successes

Two University men have distinguished themselves during the last three weeks.

Mr. A. J. de B. Forbes, who is a tutor in History and Political Science and was a first-year graduate in Economics last year, has been awarded a scholarship in the United States. Mr. Forbes gained a scholarship in the United States.

Last year Mr. Forbes graduated with a first-class in History and Political Science and was awarded a scholarship in the United States. Mr. Forbes will go to the United States to study history and politics.

Mr. Woodard's essay will go to an international jury at U.N. headquarters to compete with essays from other countries.

LIB. NEWS

Our Labor Club friends told us that when the Labor Club had a meeting in office ale we would have a hard job getting first-rate speakers for meetings here, and that Cabinet Ministers were impossible to get. In fact, it is not worth while putting on an essay on a subject that is less than a year old (since June 17, 1935). We have had three Labor Club meetings in the past, and have never been able to attract a speaker.

Recently the Liberal Union has thrown open the following position as an expression of its policy: "That all members of the Liberal Union deprecates the refusal of the Commonwealth to support any steps which may be taken which might safeguard the free world from the threats of Com.

BOXING

There is a be-man in the House? Are there any members of the Labour Club who would like to participate in the coming Inter-Parliamentary Boxing Match? No? It would appear that the male part of the House must get down to some vigorous exercises in order to meet the challenge.

COMING EVENTS:

June 18: 700 yards, second stage of President's Trophy.
June 25: 500 yards, third and final stage of President's Trophy.
June 30: Victora Harbour match.

WOMEN'S HOCKEY

The A's, captained by Peg Waddell, have got off to a flying start this season by winning all matches up to date.

The highlight of the debut of Aruna, last year's champion, was undoubtedly her clean shot. No doubt the credit should go to Miss Teale-Smith, University coach.

The girls have also been doing well and should get into the final four: they have a strong forward line. Miss Joel Brand will be the most prominent goal shooter.

The following girls have been picked in the State practice team—Margaret Wallis, Helen Northr, Vivien Fraser, Joan Watten, Marjorie Adam, and Helen Astor. We would like to congratulate Mary Teale-Smith on being appointed State coach.
MAY INTER-VARITIES

GOOD GOLF

The Australian Inter-Varities Golf Tournament was held at the Kooyonga Golf Club, Adelaide, from May 21 to 25. The State matches proved very interesting, and ultimately resulted in a win to Sydney University after a play-off with Melbourne.

On the Monday, Sydney defeated Melbourne six matches to three and defeated Queensland six matches to three. Adelaide won the three foursomes in the morning, and John Wilkin, John Fawcett and Ian Brand had brilliant matches in the afternoon. On the Tuesday, the visitors were taken to Royal Adelaide and a four-ball beat-ball competition was staged, which was won by a joint team (N.S.W. States, Victorians, and South Australians) Junior Champion) partnered by Dr. Rod White, a graduate of the Adelaide University.

On the Wednesday, the state matches were continued, when Sydney defeated Queensland seven matches to two, and Melbourne defeated South Australia one match to nil. Melbourne defeated Adelaide by the same margin. All their foursomes won, and the only two matches won by both teams were won by John Wilkin and John Fawcett.

On the Thursday, Adelaide defeated the Northerners, who were thought to have a chance, the Northerners winning one match and losing nine.

The Inter-Varities Cup was won by Sydney, the Cup having been won by each of the states in turn for the last four years.

HUON AND S>MURU

When the "Eight" arrived in Tasmania hard training really began. The Huon River, flowing between the grassy and orchards, surrounded by and indeed located on the banks of the river, promised much to the players. At the same time, the river had penetrated a fairly large party of the Tasmanian amateurs, the river was for the most part only two or three miles wide, and the fields of the state would promise plenty of smooth surfaces for the players.
