Procession Meeting Outburst
ACADEMIC FREEDOM IN DANGER?

After throwing out the "Truth" reporters and the Annual Procession, the liveliest general meeting of students held this year concluded with one of the most bitter attacks on University policy ever made by student leaders. With oratorical zeal the Big Three, Gibbs, Scott, and Bergin, rose to the occasion on the subject of Academic Freedom.

The first motion put to the meeting was, "That, in view of the gross distortions regarding student activities in recent issues of the "Truth" newspaper, representatives of this paper be not permitted to remain at this meeting." This motion was carried unanimously amidst cheers. The Chairman (Graham Gibbs) then accused any "Truth" reporter to have no right to discuss the matter. Two members of the University grounds by two interpretation of the precision motion very seriously.

"Terms of the Big Three's letter are so wide, however, that they represent a serious threat to the principle of academic freedom. There is no doubt that the precision motion very seriously, to what it believes to be the popular opinions of the Government and the community. Nobody must trifle with our opinions."

"This is to destroy the idea that the University is at its service, that it is prepared to give the students an opportunity for the sake of a bigger, better-trained student body. All contributions are welcome. A special issue of the "Complete Adventures of Flash Gordon" has been made for the University. The University must have the right to determine its own opinion."

"The letter would have us do otherwise. We must not submit to the moral standards of any man or woman."

EDITORIAL

A DULL LAST WEEK?

In some aspects, last week was rather uneventful. The usual round of meetings, lectures, and classes continued as usual. However, there was a notable absence of any major events that could have provided much excitement or entertainment. The usual routine of university life continued without much deviation.

INTER-VARSITY DEBATES

However, it seems certain that the vacation itself will offer some sport and entertainment in the Inter-Varsity Debates. Battles between the chaps from various universities will be fought this week. The teams will assemble in the Great Hall, and the debates will take place in the evening.

ELECTIONS

S.R.C. Faculty Elections for Arts, Law, Economics, Medicine, Pharmacy, and Agricultural Science and Engineering will be held this week.

Remember that your representatives will be responsible to you. So vote and show your support for your favorite candidates.

The Riot Act
FOODIES AND FAILINGS OF OUR VARSITY

In view of the imminent visit of the Inter-Varsity Debates, a state of food shortage is expected. The students at the Debuting Club, are always assured of a large attendance, but when the club, in order to justify its existence, organizes a debate in the evenings, there are always complaints. In fact, they invariably end up with a "lottery," afternoons. Were this a real University, we would not be in demand.

By the way, a Law professor recently instructed some students in the procedure of forensic arguments. The lecturer stands, waits for the speaker to stop, and adds his remarks to the case. A speaker is not bound to stop, but his opinion cannot be disagreeable. No interruption should be made where it will disrupt the line of argument. He heard someone remark, "That system won't work on Monday." Of course, it wouldn't, but the criterion is unreasonable, because most of the Monday meetings just aren't debatable.

UNESCO in Operation

On October 1, 1950, UNESCO announced that it had put into operation the first part of its technical assistance programme, 1950-1952. This was for aid to 17 countries in Africa, Asia, and Latin America. In addition, action on requests from more than ten other countries will be taken in 1951.

UNESCO is sending Thailand a team of educators specialised in primary school training, vocational education, English language and social teaching. Funds for scholarships to enable prospective teachers to study abroad are also being provided.

India: The Republic of India is young, and it has a population of more than 200,000,000. It is a land of great economic difficulties, the world's highest birth rate, extreme poverty, hunger, and disease. The leaders of the new nation realize that it needs education, the training of scientists, and technicians, and the latest information and equipment to advance the country.

UNESCO has decided to make available to India a large share of its Technical Assistance Budget and a team of scientists to teach and advise the Indian Government.

The Council of Inter-American Development: The first meeting of the Council in Washington on August 6 will be attended by delegates from Latin America. It is anticipated that the Council will be able to provide some assistance to Latin America in the immediate future.

Flash of Light: The recent flash of light at the University of Sydney has been explained by Dr. Anger, who was in the Philippines for the Commonwealth Scientific Organisation.

In the Philippines, he found that the flash of light was caused by the explosion of a small meteorite. The meteorite had entered the earth's atmosphere and had been disintegrated in the upper atmosphere, causing a flash of light.

FLAMINGS OF OUG

The Oug campus has been fairly quiet in recent weeks. The usual round of lectures, classes, and social events has continued. The atmosphere has been more relaxed and the students have been able to enjoy themselves.

The atmosphere on campus has been rather subdued in recent weeks. The students have been more focused on their studies and less interested in social events. The atmosphere has been more serious and the students have been more concentrated on their work.

A MELBOURNE student has been suspended for two weeks after being caught in a bar. He will have to undergo a disciplinary hearing before he can return to campus.

S.Y.D. is running a weekly conference on "The University and Law: A Force in Society." It is a great event for students and members of the public. Several professors will address the conference.

IN THE FUTURE ... WHAT?

The Jubilee Year of the Commonwealth is an appropriate time in which to take stock of the existing University facilities in Australia and to evaluate the developments which will be necessary if the Universities are to play their proper role in shaping the future of the Commonwealth. During this year, for the first time, the Commonwealth Government is taking deliberate action to ensure that the number of University students will be adequate for the needs of a rapidly growing economy; and it is providing financial assistance to the Universities to enable them to meet the added responsibilities placed upon them.

The Commonwealth Government, early in 1950, had appointed a Committee to enquire into the needs of Australian Universities; and in particular to report on the finances of the Universities; their requirements in relation to their existing activities and the need for future development; and action which the Commonwealth should take to assist the Universities. This Committee, which is still considering the larger problems of higher education, and in particular of the means of extending secondary education, is making a study of the immediate needs of the Universities, and its recommendations will be published in the near future. The early recommendations of the Committee of 1950 are already being put into effect.

The Commonwealth Government has made a grant of £100,000 per annum to the State Governments to provide financial assistance for the establishment of the Universities. From 1950, the Commonwealth Government will provide £300,000 per annum for the University of New South Wales, $500,000 per annum for the University of Sydney, $100,000 per annum for the University of Melbourne, and $200,000 per annum for the University of Queensland. The Commonwealth Government will also provide £100,000 per annum for the University of Adelaide, and $200,000 per annum for the University of Western Australia.

The Commonwealth Government has also made a special grant of £250,000 per annum for the University of New South Wales, and £500,000 per annum for the University of Sydney. This grant is in addition to the general grants already referred to, and is intended to meet the immediate needs of the Universities.

Either side of the sheet the lame foot-wobbly lines are dully ground; two great bleary eye trochees geometrics, diggers under the glue semi-fear like a pair of inconsequent discordics from a mercenary guardable, displaying in a dunce's riddel a vaulted vacanony above the meanning of low words.

They're in the Army ... I think!

After seeing under what conditions National Service Trainees will be living, we imagine that a camp C.O.'s first address to the men on parade will be something like this:

"Good morning, gentlemen. I am sorry to interrupt your game of football, but I have got one or two things to say to you.

How are you all this morning? No, I really mean you to answer the question, I hope you all had a good sleep last night. By the way, if anyone's bed is not comfortable, do come and see me personally about it, and I shall take steps to remedy the matter — if necessary the R.G.M. will be dismissed (he's the army shop-keeper, you know).

We're sorry that telephones have not been installed in your billets. There seem to be so many of you chaps doing National Service that they just can't get the labour to install them.

I do hope your breakfast was nice. I'm afraid the cook is rather bad about giving you cold scones, but I know you will be tolerable with him — try a cup of tea and bacon for several hundred of you keeps him rather busy, you know, and he's always so good tempered and nice about it. Never a word of complaint, and he's only getting about 40 a week for all he does!

Oh, that man in the front row there with the — if I may say so — rather long hair, would you mind not smoking just now, please? The smoke is getting into the ears of that poor chap next to you. No, not the one in front either, he looks a bit worse for wear. Now Australia's academic structure has been carrying, since the war, twice the load for which it was designed. Expecting that relief would be forthcoming soon as the Commonwealth Re-construction Training Scheme came to an end, staffs have been cut back under the old assumption of an immediate return to pre-war levels. This assumption will not be fulfilled. The Australian academic structure has been carrying, since the war, twice the load for which it was designed. Expecting that relief would be forthcoming soon as the Commonwealth Re-construction Training Scheme came to an end, staffs have been cut back under the old assumption of an immediate return to pre-war levels. This assumption will not be fulfilled.

Gentlemen, I'm afraid we'll have to set out once more what we call training in a couple of days' time. By that time you should have got to know each other, and by the way, Mr. Smith, have you noticed the nice little town up the road? That reminds me, our night service takes place this evening. We'll be having a little talk on Homer's training, or what do you think of this like. No, you don't have to book your tickets that you can do that for you. We're sorry that Woodside is a rather drab little town, but the Ministry of National Development is not going to see that they can do anything about it up to a little town.

Don't forget — can you bear me right all right in the dark? Unfor-tunately, the F.A. isn't present, and I must mean the amplifier, it's very well tuned, so I suppose we don't want to forget about asking questions and friends meeting up and down. If they would like to stay there, however, it seems to be getting rather old, I'm afraid we're going to go beyond the camp area, but you will be able to go home once a month; unless, of course, you will be happy to stay here.

I'm sorry you will have to be packing up early in the morning — it's lovely up here then, and besides we plan to fit in an hour or so's training between the regular training sessions. And when you've got your wide-awake eyes, then you'll be able to do something with the carpeting. It's not too long now, you'll be able to do something with the carpeting. It's not too long now, you'll be able to do something with the carpeting. It's not too long now, you'll be able to do something with the carpeting.

I think it would be better if you didn't sit down on parade, chaps. You've just got nice new uniforms, and the parade-ground is usually either too muddy or dusty. That's right. It's just as comfortable to lean on your rifles standing up, isn't it? Oh, well, we'll make some of you sit at all before long.

Well, I won't keep you any longer now — it's getting pretty cold, and I can see from the slight crookedness of your face that you're getting a bit tired. Remember, don't be late for dinner, or it will be cold, or, worse still, you may arrive in time for only two courses. And please try not to spill sauce on the nice clean tablecloths.

Break off quietly, now gentlemen, or you'll wake up those chaps who didn't want to come to parade.
Dear Sir,—I should be glad if you would permit me to reply to Mr. Cox’s open letter published in your issue of July 2.

Mr. Cox argues two main points. Firstly, that the Communists regard war as the only means to social change. Secondly, that the Communists regard war as an instrument of social change. I do not think that either of these statements are true.

Firstly, Mr. Cox argues that the Communists regard war as the only means to social change. I do not think that this is true. While the Communists believe in the eventual victory of the working class, they believe that this victory can be achieved through peaceful means as well as through war.

Secondly, Mr. Cox argues that the Communists regard war as an instrument of social change. I do not think that this is true. While the Communists believe in the use of armed struggle in some circumstances, they believe that this should not be the only or primary means of achieving social change.

I hope that you will publish my reply in your next issue.

Yours faithfully,

ELLIOTT JOHNSTON.
OUT WITH ALL SNOOPERS!
Sir,—I wish to protest most strongly about the disastrous presence within the precincts of this city of the “Snooper” non-academic element which women, recrucify, incessant interruptions of their sacred seclusion and the public. This is a matter which must be corrected. Women's seclusion is a sacred seclusion. It is a refuge from the world, a sanctuary from the noise and the din of the city. It is a place where women can be alone and at peace with themselves. This seclusion is essential for the mental and physical health of women. It is a place where they can think and reflect and grow in wisdom and knowledge. It is a place where they can develop their talents and interests. It is a place where they can be free from the constraints and expectations of the world.

I cannot stress enough how important it is that this seclusion be protected and preserved. Women's seclusion is a vital part of our culture and society. It is a right that must be respected and upheld. I urge all women to stand together and fight for the preservation of this sacred seclusion. We must work to create a world that is more respectful of women and their needs. We must create a world where women can be free to be themselves and to pursue their dreams. We must create a world where women are valued and respected.

Yours sincerely,
VERITAS.

C. S. LEWIS
Sir,—In the edition of “On the Origin of Species,” dated 1859, I read the article by “Another Immaterialist” which was written in the early years, it is true, but which is now in the hands of the presses. The article is entitled “The Abolition of Man,” and it is a criticism of the Darwinian view of the universe. The author is a man who has made a thorough study of the subject, and he is not afraid to express himself strongly. I am sure that his views will be of great interest to all who have read “On the Origin of Species.”

W. B. HUGHES

WHY RELIEVE?
Sir,—I wrote a book of pamphlets in which I discussed the question of relief. The pamphlets were entitled “The Abolition of Man.” I thought it was a very important subject, and I tried to give a clear and concise statement of the case. I believe that the pamphlets were well received by the public, and that they did some good.

W. B. HUGHES

IN THE FUTURE DATIONS
Sir,—I have been asked by the managers of the “Snooper” fund to write a letter to the editor. I have accepted the invitation, and I am glad to do so. I hope that the letter will be of some use.

AQUINAS

During the last week of June, the Society held the third annual meeting of the Society of the Sacred Heart at the University of Notre Dame. The meeting was attended by over three hundred people, including many of the most distinguished scholars in the field of philosophy and theology.

The first address and discussion was given on the topic of “The Nature of God,” by Mr. P. D. H. Oakes, Professor of Philosophy at the University of Notre Dame. Mr. Oakes spoke on the nature of God, and how it is known to us. He also discussed the problem of the relationship between God and the world.

The second address and discussion was given on the topic of “The Nature of Man,” by Mr. J. W. B. Gough, Professor of Psychology at the University of Notre Dame. Mr. Gough spoke on the nature of man, and how it is known to us. He also discussed the problem of the relationship between man and the world.

Both addresses were well received, and the discussion that followed was lively and spirited. The meeting was a great success, and the Society is looking forward to its next meeting in the fall.

FOOTBALL
FOUR WINNING FIRST

All four 'Varsity' football teams won on Saturday, July 22, for the first time in many years. Despite the mud and being unable to ball practice during the week, all players rose to the occasion.

The 'A's travelled to Walkerville Oval to play the team which was lying second on the list. Coach Valley suggested, with reason, that this as a final because it would make the players feel more certain of their win and it might even be enough to ensure them their fourth point. The 'A's won the game by a score of 14-2. The Walkerville players hit their drinks immediately after running a three-goal lead. However, the 'A's were in a heap at the end of the game, and it was reported that they had been mistaken over the results of their game against Melbourne University. The final score was 14-2 in favour of the 'A's.

The 'B' team played at the University Oval against the University team. Despite the mud, the game was a fair one. The 'B' team won by a score of 12-10. The University players hit their drinks immediately after falling behind in the second half. The final score was 12-10 in favour of the 'B' team.

The 'C' team played at the Melbourne Park Oval against the Melbourne Park team. The 'C' team won by a score of 10-8. The Melbourne Park players hit their drinks immediately after falling behind in the second half. The final score was 10-8 in favour of the 'C' team.

The 'D' team played at the University Oval against the University team. The 'D' team won by a score of 12-10. The University players hit their drinks immediately after falling behind in the second half. The final score was 12-10 in favour of the 'D' team.

Fortunes have been more improved recently, at times reaching hard bottom. However, there have been two losses and three losses since last contact with the game. The 'A's have been phlegmatic. The players have been relaxed and have talked things through. There is a chance that the 'A's are much harder to find. Perhaps not surprising, after all the matches they have played so far.

The Junior Lacs' team played against the University in the Melbourne Park Oval. They were defeated by a score of 14-2. The University team hit their drinks immediately after falling behind in the second half. The final score was 14-2 in favour of the University team.

The Intermediate Lacs' team played against the University in the Melbourne Park Oval. They were defeated by a score of 14-2. The University team hit their drinks immediately after falling behind in the second half. The final score was 14-2 in favour of the University team.

RUGGER RUBBISH

After reading last week's winter stocktaking bilge, dully written by Job and his comforter, we are diluting to report that all is not yet lost. The towel is not about to be taken away and we are holding our heads above water, or something.

The same evidence that the 'A's are improving. They're right. They have a narrow victory against the Western Districts team, 32-30, purely on playing the game. The Western Districts team, 32-30, purely on playing the game. The Western Districts team lost their second game against the 'B' team, 32-30, purely on playing the game. The Western Districts team lost their second game against the 'B' team, 32-30, purely on playing the game.

The next hard-match is against the University Team, 32-30, purely on playing the game. The University Team is the best in the state, and we have to be sharp to hold our heads above water for another week.

TEEN

The membership fee of the University Tennis Club is "almost certain to be increased by a rise of two guineas" for the 1932-33 season. This was announced by the retiring captain (Michael Ashley), who was re-elected by acclamation. The new captain, A.M. of the club, was voted red card, however, that this included membership of the Memorial Drive.

Bob Burnside was re-elected to the Memorial Drive, and Tony Burnside re-elected to the University team. The Memorial Drive is the new club delegate to the University, and the rest of the committee consists of "Cabby" and "Bertie". In a recent issue, a notice was received that all personal invitations were to be cleared with the captain, and all personal invitations were to be cleared with the captain. A motion of appreciation was passed, but it had no effect since 1939, was carried unanimously for the team.

Congratulations to the 'A's victory in the National Cup match. It was the first time since 1937 that Adelaide had won the cup.

The four trophies are now available for club prizes, and we are looking forward to a successful year in Pennant matches.
