COMMONWEALTH OF AUSTRALIA
Copyright Regulations 1969

WARNING

This material has been reproduced and communicated to you by or on behalf of The University of Adelaide pursuant to Part VB of the Copyright Act 1968 (the Act).

The material in this communication may be subject to copyright under the Act.
Any further reproduction or communication of this material by you may be the subject of copyright protection under the Act.

Do not remove this notice.

External Copyright permission (if applicable) - permission received 2006.

For personal use only.

Further information about the conditions of use of this item is available from Special Collections at the Barr Smith Library.
On Dit

The Citizens of Woodside, 100 miles away, have been working hard for the past several years to improve their quality of life. They have been building new roads, expanding their farm lands, and setting up new factories. This has led to a significant increase in their economic prosperity. The people of Woodside are now able to enjoy a higher standard of living than ever before.

Meanwhile, the people of Woodside have been working hard to improve their quality of life. They have been building new roads, expanding their farm lands, and setting up new factories. This has led to a significant increase in their economic prosperity. The people of Woodside are now able to enjoy a higher standard of living than ever before.

The people of Woodside are now able to enjoy a higher standard of living than ever before.

Ninety-Eight Days Tabu

What Price Freedom?

This world's finest and the Father of Nationalism and Freedom as the prophet of this year's most successful and moving words on the stage of liberty.

Read all about Woodside's unique and successful history at the preparations of this year's most successful and moving words on page 3. Don't miss the spectacles of the year!
The Case Of Prof. Cragg

As a further contribution to the discussion of our last edition of the withdrawal of the Chair of Zoology of Prof. J. B. Cragg, we publish the following letters...

S.R.C. Constitution Amended

At a Special General Meeting of students convened by the S.R.C. on Friday, April 4, S.R.C. Vice-President, Bob Reid proposed to amend the S.R.C. Constitution by moving the motion "that the four men’s general representation on the S.R.C. should not be necessary from this date.

This motion had the effect of nullifying provisions that were set out in the first motion but which would not even reach the community if they were determined in the future.

The motion was seconded by Mr. Guthrie and was carried by a large majority.

The amended Constitution was received by Jeff Scott, who noted that "The number of men’s General Representation on the S.R.C. should be increased to five from six.

In the motion, Mr. Scott and Mr. Guthrie proposed that the amendments should take effect immediately.

The motion was carried by a large majority.

The new Constitution was received by Jeff Scott, who noted that "The number of men’s General Representation on the S.R.C. should be increased to five from six.

In the motion, Mr. Scott and Mr. Guthrie proposed that the amendments should take effect immediately.

The motion was carried by a large majority.

The amended Constitution was received by Jeff Scott, who noted that "The number of men’s General Representation on the S.R.C. should be increased to five from six.

In the motion, Mr. Scott and Mr. Guthrie proposed that the amendments should take effect immediately.

The motion was carried by a large majority.

The new Constitution was received by Jeff Scott, who noted that "The number of men’s General Representation on the S.R.C. should be increased to five from six.

In the motion, Mr. Scott and Mr. Guthrie proposed that the amendments should take effect immediately.

The motion was carried by a large majority.

The amended Constitution was received by Jeff Scott, who noted that "The number of men’s General Representation on the S.R.C. should be increased to five from six.

In the motion, Mr. Scott and Mr. Guthrie proposed that the amendments should take effect immediately.

The motion was carried by a large majority.

The new Constitution was received by Jeff Scott, who noted that "The number of men’s General Representation on the S.R.C. should be increased to five from six.

In the motion, Mr. Scott and Mr. Guthrie proposed that the amendments should take effect immediately.

The motion was carried by a large majority.

The amended Constitution was received by Jeff Scott, who noted that "The number of men’s General Representation on the S.R.C. should be increased to five from six.

In the motion, Mr. Scott and Mr. Guthrie proposed that the amendments should take effect immediately.

The motion was carried by a large majority.
Greetings, gentlefolk! This week you are to be treated to what promises to be the most spectacular, stupendous, super-colossal, thrilling star-studded extravaganza ever to be presented for the entertainment of the undergraduates of this University!!! What show, you ask? With pride the S.R.C. announces that on Wednesday of this week, April 23, at a special ceremony in the Refectory Cloisters, Richard Makepeace Bentley, star of such well-known B.B.C. radio shows as "Take It From Here," "The Bentley Half-Hour," "Bentley's a Laugh," "Breakfast with Bentley," "Ignorance is Bentley," and "Bentley Questions," will be admitted to the title and dignities of Yeoman Bedell of the University of Adelaide.

The Yeoman Bedell
Edwards can tab

"My Life's Ambition"

The history of the negotiations which culminated in Mr. Bentley's acceptance of the position of Yeoman Bedell was outlined at a special press conference granted last week by the President of the S.R.C. (Mr. Nevill Reid). After announcing that he would not stand in the way of Mr. Roger Opie should he wish to return from Christ Church, Oxford, to conduct personally his campaign for the Presidency of the 1952 Council, Mr. Reid expounded at some length on Mr. Bentley.

"Late last year," said Mr. Reid, "the S.R.C. received a petition from a number of students requesting to consider offering the position of Yeoman Bedell to Mr. Bentley. Mr. Graham Gibbs, who held the post previously, offered to stand down in favor of Mr. Bentley and the following correspondence passed between the S.R.C. and Mr. Bentley."

November 22, 1952.
Richard Makepeace Bentley, Esq.,
Dear Sir,
The secretariat of your distinguished colleague, Mr. James Edwards, M.A. (Cantab.) in the Secretariat of the University of Adelaide was invaded by S.R.C. members last week. The students of the University were shocked to learn that the S.R.C. had been invited by the university authorities to have a say in the appointment of the next S.R.C. member. Mr. Reid, in response, sent the following letter.

Dear Mr. Reid,
I am writing to express my support for Richard Makepeace Bentley for the position of Yeoman Bedell. As a student at the University of Adelaide, I have been impressed by Mr. Bentley's dedication to the university and his knowledge of its policies and procedures. I believe that he would make an excellent Yeoman Bedell.

Yours sincerely,
HeLEN NORTENBY

You are invited..." Your Proposal to Build a New Rectory is Unanimously Accepted, ADelaide's Most Unusual Unusualness for Your Installation."

You are invited to attend the installation of Richard Makepeace Bentley as Yeoman Bedell of the University of Adelaide on Wednesday, April 23, at the Refectory Cloisters. Bentley will be presented with the title and dignities of Yeoman Bedell.

Installation Plans

Late last Friday evening the Master of the Revels granted the Editor of "On Dit" a brief audience in the Saloon Bar of the Richmond. The Editor recorded his tape recorder the following enlightening conversation...

M. of the R.: Well, what do you want?
Editor: Make me a Scotch and water, old man.
Barmen: Have you heard the one about...?
M. of the R.: Two Scotch and water.
Editor: What can you tell me about your plans for the installation of Richard Makepeace Bentley as Yeoman Bedell?
M. of the R.: I can assure you that it will be the most spectacular, stupendous, super-colossal, thrilling, star-studded extravaganza, etc., etc.
Barmen: Three bob, thank you.
Editor: When do you plan to hold an Academic Procession, believe?
M. of the R.: We do! The Procession will roll in the Arts Building and proceed to the main hall in the way of the University, the Elder Hall, the Conservatory, the dining halls, the Park, and to the Vice-Chancellor's domain.
Editor: What will be the Order of Procession?
M. of the R.: The following people will process in the following order: The Master of the Revels, the Provost, the President of the University, the Dean of the Faculty, the Vice-Chancellor, the Chancellor, the Proctors, the Students' Representative Council, the S.R.C., etc., etc.
Barmen: Time, gentlemen.
Editor: Well, thanks, old man.
Barmen: Goodnight.

M. of the R.: Goodnight, old fellow!
January 7... and so I shall wait my reaction to this sojourn, trying to achieve honestly a detached observation. When one is aware that one is being watched, even by oneself, it is fatally easy to act, to build a facade. But when the watcher is oneself, such deception is harder to get away with.

January 9:
An evening devoted entirely to the Wits, for what would the Waldekin and the fourth and fifth of the symphony, Richard Strauss, plies the Waldekin and we listen to passages from the Geisinger recording. I'm a Peter! I was Michael into an involvement in the singing of certain passages, with the understanding that nothing of the "vera" degree of seriousness would be involved. Needless to say, a "Ricordi edition," I find time to sit and have given time to little culture in a rough place.

January 11:
Blind and drunk to me for hours of "Hoon-um-up" speech, which was on the subject of the squirrel being the disease the Baron Mechainati's colleagues had to have said, among other things, that they had been fruitful and interested in understanding underground, saw them across the street from the ante-room of the Union, and on that occasion underestimated it. The squirrel was defeated by its mite. I can keep a blind and drunk. I have been conscious almost to the cracking in the back to keep back a laugh.

Saturday, January 19:
Today, when the temperature reached the fourties, friends and I went down to the afternoon drinking K.K.S. at the former school of the Mica, to enjoy from the outside at the latter. By about half an hour's lead, I was on the outside ready to mix with the students. After the evening, I must have written and read along. When I wake I find I am one when I wall again.

Monday:
No, not that, the young man is hell here — the people seem to have lost, while and exceedingly preoccupied, which is not unattractive that, at times, one feels one's own sheep when it looks upon them.

Wednesday, January 23:
A day's rest at extreme physical discomfort. I have continued to suffer from a performance of the Beethoven Quartet, which is not a subject. Music each evening (last night was no exception), plus some time at the piano (not a special), fill me with delight and consciousness of the life. But as yet this knowledge finds its symbol in that which signifies "restricting," and as a fine.

February 2:
After lunch I drive us one day, - and I have to be in the town fifteen hours, the day before the New Year. By Friday it rains. It rains, and the newspapers and Glad's Journal. It is my feeling that this is the work of the world only free of connection and no continuous thought.

January 25:
My head is all over this. I have been reading the "odds" of a man's being a city and the newspapers and Glad's Journal. It is my feeling that this is the work of the world only free of connection and no continuous thought.

February 29:
A day or two before this, I was on a train. I have been reading the "odds" of a man's being a city and the newspapers and Glad's Journal. It is my feeling that this is the work of the world only free of connection and no continuous thought.

Microscopes from WPS:
Mechanical Stages, Heaters, and Swinging Chambers by the world's leading manufacturers.

For IMEDIATE DELIVERY
Convenient Finance Available to Students

Watson Victor
220 North Terrace
W 2216
THE MASTER OF LINCOLN WRITES ON THE CALL

I am a member of the Methodist Conference, one of those bodies which "it will no doubt take some time to admit their error" in supporting the "Call to the Nation." While I am still unrepentant, let me say a word in support of the "Call." The article in the issue of your paper published on "All Fools' Day" last (is that day a notable anniversary?) seeks its prime justification for discrediting the "Call" in the estimate of the character and purpose of those who sired it—
the Call!"

"Coina," said Sir Thomas Browne, "are to be judged by their metal, not by their superscription." (I trust the "Call" will not be addressed as evidence of my support of the "capitalist" system.)

Neither can it be pleaded that "The Call" ought not to be condemned apart from the "Callers" by those responsible for an article in which the Christian ideal is lauded, without any reference, explicit or implicit, to its Propounder, without any reference to the fact that its "Callers" are not "of the same mind".

Of course "The Call" is an appeal to all men but not to all men "of the same mind." The Press, as a whole, has rejected it, but the Press is not the "Callers". "The Call" itself is not an appeal to all men but only to those who accept and believe in its position, but it is an appeal to all men to the man or to the man who accepts and believes in its position. This is the position of the Christian Church. It is the position of the Christian Church that the Christian ideal is not to be considered as an appeal to all men but only to those who accept and believe in its position, but it is an appeal to all men to the man or to the man who accepts and believes in its position.

The "Call" is not an appeal to all men but only to those who accept and believe in its position, but it is an appeal to all men to the man or to the man who accepts and believes in its position.

The "Call" itself is an appeal to all men but not to all men. The" Callers" are not all men but only to those who accept and believe in its position, but it is an appeal to all men to the man or to the man who accepts and believes in its position. This is the position of the Christian Church. It is the position of the Christian Church that the Christian ideal is not to be considered as an appeal to all men but only to those who accept and believe in its position, but it is an appeal to all men to the man or to the man who accepts and believes in its position.

The "Call" itself is an appeal to all men but not to all men. The" Callers" are not all men but only to those who accept and believe in its position, but it is an appeal to all men to the man or to the man who accepts and believes in its position. This is the position of the Christian Church. It is the position of the Christian Church that the Christian ideal is not to be considered as an appeal to all men but only to those who accept and believe in its position, but it is an appeal to all men to the man or to the man who accepts and believes in its position.

The "Call" itself is an appeal to all men but not to all men. The" Callers" are not all men but only to those who accept and believe in its position, but it is an appeal to all men to the man or to the man who accepts and believes in its position. This is the position of the Christian Church. It is the position of the Christian Church that the Christian ideal is not to be considered as an appeal to all men but only to those who accept and believe in its position, but it is an appeal to all men to the man or to the man who accepts and believes in its position.

The "Call" itself is an appeal to all men but not to all men. The" Callers" are not all men but only to those who accept and believe in its position, but it is an appeal to all men to the man or to the man who accepts and believes in its position. This is the position of the Christian Church. It is the position of the Christian Church that the Christian ideal is not to be considered as an appeal to all men but only to those who accept and believe in its position, but it is an appeal to all men to the man or to the man who accepts and believes in its position.

The "Call" itself is an appeal to all men but not to all men. The" Callers" are not all men but only to those who accept and believe in its position, but it is an appeal to all men to the man or to the man who accepts and believes in its position. This is the position of the Christian Church. It is the position of the Christian Church that the Christian ideal is not to be considered as an appeal to all men but only to those who accept and believe in its position, but it is an appeal to all men to the man or to the man who accepts and believes in its position.
THINGS AND SUCH

When I call a Call, I gotta go

An Invitation...

- Every student will find it necessary to operate a small bank at the University.
- Why not start now with The National Bank, where the opening of even a small account brings you many benefits and advantages?
- Besides experiencing the convenience and trustworthiness of the system, you will lay the foundations of goodwill with your bankers, which may be very useful in other directions.
- Call at the nearest branch of The National Bank for a friendly discussion with the manager.

THE NATIONAL BANK OF AUSTRALASIA LIMITED
(Incorporated in Victoria)

Dear Sir,

The "Critical Analysis" of "The Call" has provided strong evidence of the need for "The Call" at the University. I must believe that the writer represents the interests of the University students, or that the article has been written (or altered) with any but the most distaste and indignation. It is my firm belief that the majority of University students, for whom do nothing matter in the writer's book reading at the Ideal of "The Call" and its progressive spirit, may have turned a blind eye to the spirit of "The Call" and its enlightened spirit.

"The Call" was a tedious undertaking to read through the book to the end. No. of dis- corrupting which have had the time, have a very poor opinion of "The Call" and the enlightened spirit of the book.

With the "Call", however, we can see more clearly the spirit of the book. People would only realize the power of a book by its power to bring about a change. Perhaps the book is to be read, if "The Call"--or other such books--is to be used in a spirit that would give them the power to change us.

It is true that the book is written in a direct and unpretentious manner, but it has a freshness and a directness which are much needed in a book of this kind. The book is not a repetition of what has been written before, but it is a new and fresh expression of the spirit of "The Call".

ROBERT J. MURCHIS

Call 4

Dear Sir,

We must not attempt to do in "The Call" that which we have done in "The Call". We must attempt to do in "The Call" that which we have not done in the past. We must attempt to do in "The Call" that which we have not done in the past in any other book. We must attempt to do in "The Call" that which we have not done in the past in any other book.

This is the spirit of "The Call". It is not a repetition of what has been written before, but it is a new and fresh expression of the spirit of "The Call".

Yours, etc.

B. C. WILSON

Relief

Dear Sir,

In passing, I would like to add that the "Call" has a special significance for me. It is a book which I have read many times, and I know that it has had a great influence on my life. I would like to express my gratitude for the "Call" and for the "Call" movement.

Yours sincerely,

E. C. WILSON

An Invitation...

- Every student will find it necessary to operate a small bank at the University.
- Why not start now with The National Bank, where the opening of even a small account brings you many benefits and advantages?
- Besides experiencing the convenience and trustworthiness of the system, you will lay the foundations of goodwill with your bankers, which may be very useful in other directions.
- Call at the nearest branch of The National Bank for a friendly discussion with the manager.

THE NATIONAL BANK OF AUSTRALASIA LIMITED
(Incorporated in Victoria)

Dear Sir,

The "Critical Analysis" of "The Call" has provided strong evidence of the need for "The Call" at the University. I must believe that the writer represents the interests of the University students, or that the article has been written (or altered) with any but the most distaste and indignation. It is my firm belief that the majority of University students, for whom do nothing matter in the writer's book reading at the Ideal of "The Call" and its progressive spirit, may have turned a blind eye to the spirit of "The Call" and its enlightened spirit.

"The Call" was a tedious undertaking to read through the book to the end. No. of dis- corrupting which have had the time, have a very poor opinion of "The Call" and the enlightened spirit of the book.

With the "Call", however, we can see more clearly the spirit of the book. People would only realize the power of a book by its power to bring about a change. Perhaps the book is to be read, if "The Call"--or other such books--is to be used in a spirit that would give them the power to change us.

It is true that the book is written in a direct and unpretentious manner, but it has a freshness and a directness which are much needed in a book of this kind. The book is not a repetition of what has been written before, but it is a new and fresh expression of the spirit of "The Call".

ROBERT J. MURCHIS

Call 4

Dear Sir,

We must not attempt to do in "The Call" that which we have done in "The Call". We must attempt to do in "The Call" that which we have not done in the past. We must attempt to do in "The Call" that which we have not done in the past in any other book. We must attempt to do in "The Call" that which we have not done in the past in any other book.

This is the spirit of "The Call". It is not a repetition of what has been written before, but it is a new and fresh expression of the spirit of "The Call".

Yours, etc.

B. C. WILSON

Relief

Dear Sir,

In passing, I would like to add that the "Call" has a special significance for me. It is a book which I have read many times, and I know that it has had a great influence on my life. I would like to express my gratitude for the "Call" and for the "Call" movement.

Yours sincerely,

E. C. WILSON
CLUBS AND SOCIETIES

RUGBY IS BEST

The Rugby Club held its Annual General Meeting for 1953 on April 9. Professor Portus was re-elected President, and Secretary Price's report was adopted. Much comment was aroused by the sensitivity of Price's literary style; members being outwardly affected by the phrase, "Gentlemen, I have the honor to present..."

Amongst the freshers who were welcomed into the club by Professor Portus were John A. Byrnes and Waldo Treguere. The writer would like to record on those pages that he extended to them a warm welcome and invites them to stand him a beer whenever they are convenient.

As a result of the votes, "A" and "B" were re-elected, and the committee was elected.

FOOTBALL IS BEST

At the Annual General Meeting of the Football Club for 1952, a new clause was added to the constitution, allowing for the election of Honorary Life Members of the Club. The President, Dr. C. B. Sangster and Dr. N. S. Gunning, were unanimously elected to the honor.

The 5th success in winning the Jubilee championship of Amateur League last year. A bridge evening with supper and prizes will be held in the Recreation Room on May 9th. For those less formally inclined a canasta room will also be available.

Prospects at the moment seem good enough to indicate an even more successful season this year. With the first match on April 19, two or three practice matches have so far revealed enough talent to give the selectors more headaches, and to make the three teams powerful enough to easily win a place in A1. Already the older players are showing the form that won them a premiership, and there is an outstanding group of first-year players. The under-George Tillery's guidance, the "A" team was selected by Zim Whiting, a fresh graduate; an old stalwart of University football.

A position which the club has tried to fill for some time, that of captain-coach of the B team, has been taken by George Tillery. On May 9th, an "under-George Tillery," a fresh graduate and an old stalwart of University football, has been made captain of the "A" team.

Committees were also chosen to organize the Inter-Varsity Carnival, which will be held in Adelaide during the second week of May. A map will be issued and the seats will be available to the "A" team to allocate to the "B" team for the "D" team so that everyone who comes to practices on Thursday evenings under State rules, and Melbourne teams will be present.

SCIENCE BALL

The young ladies to make their debut are: Diane Howett, Ruth Humphrey, Gillian Lowe, Gillian Montgomery, Margaret Reed, Judy Senior, Marion Sizer, Jeanette Thomas.

Place: The Refectory. Date: May 27.

Bookings: Union Office.

Price: 12/- double (including supper).
PERSONALITY OF THE MONTH

"All glory, hush and honor" we render unto those who had any part whatsoever in the recent "footprints" rag. They have set a fine spirit of the Vice-Chancellor's address to Freshers, when he said that "if you have a University rag, make it a rag worthy of the University."

We venture so suggest that never has there been a rag more perfect in its planning and its execution. To those huge yellow footprints (each one in a half an hour's work!) from the very doorstep of the Vice-Chancellor's residence, across the car-park to the men's invaders, past the Conservatory, up the steps of the Stirling Hall to the edge of the court of the centre aisle--bent to the insides and to the eyes upon every door of the Conservatory, and finally to fly from the flaps of the Stirling Hall, that wonder-working machine--the Press--the Press--is now, we say, the work of minds before whom we bow in humble submission.

Yes, it is even more wonderful (in view of the number of people involved) than that of any other in the University history. How few people have locked doors to the student body, how alone the University authorities, or the police. The greatest compliment to the University authorities seems to have got to say it is "difficult to imagine how any undergraduates were responsible," which does not get one very far.

No, far from sitting the policy of the University, it would have been a much more sensible thing to leave them out and beg them to take over the administration in this University. Able as the present solicitors are, we suggest that their minds would be much better served than if they were sent to the University.

Some footprints drawn (not assassinated, mind you) at the gate of the University, and the writing up of the Bynum's so that although the rag was done by them, I could not be held down by the complete anonymity of the large number of people that must have been conspired, the widespread illiteracy and the impossibility that the incident has caused--these antithetical things have not been done to the world as the most scandalous rag or so far this year.

Those who failed to see the connection between the footprints and the Vice-Chancellor, and the Bynum, we believe, are uninformed or undisciplined.

Because of the bright spark, I have brought into the brazen lives of staff and students, the [illegible] of September Day, the day when degrees are conferred, and one of the few times the Bynum is permitted to be entered by undergraduates; or, if an undergrad should come wandering about, they would be asked to leave, and the event is never referred to.

Helen Northey is to be congratulated on her "less innocent" idea, but it is a pity that the incident has caused such a stir. It is a pity that the incident has caused such a stir.

THE CALL

"On this very day, through your columns, Sir, I would like to acknowledge the good work of our Undergraduate Students' Representative, Mr. Newby, on behalf of the students of the University."

Dear Sir,

I am writing to express my gratitude for the excellent work that you have done in the past year. Your tireless efforts have been instrumental in bringing about positive changes in our university.

I would like to acknowledge your leadership and dedication, which have helped to improve the overall student experience. Your commitment to our cause has been unwavering and your contributions have been invaluable.

Please accept this letter as a small gesture of appreciation for your hard work and the positive impact you have had on our community.

Yours sincerely,

Frank T. Bolland

---

N.S.T. CAMP

Australia, industry and commerce; a field for the young men of the country. The N.S.T. Camp is designed to prepare young men for a career in industry and commerce. The camp will be held at a location near the University of Sydney. The camp will provide a comprehensive program that includes workshops, lectures, and hands-on experience to help participants develop the skills necessary to succeed in industry.

The camp will be open to both male and female participants aged 18-25 years. Applications will be accepted until May 31, 2023. For more information, please visit the N.S.T. Camp website.

---

BENTLEY LETTERS

Continued from page 98

Newspaper articles and letters discussing the latest events and topics of the day. Included in the section are articles on current events, political matters, and cultural discussions.

---

CHIT-CHAT

"Cheers, dearie—it's time to be back among you again, once again doing all the hard work and the hard work of the past workweek. Our walk on the Lorne sands was a much needed break."

"Marie Grose is believed to be returning to a large stock of Blue Gillies."

"Helen Northey is still on her hands. She has bought herself a nice job, and now she likes to go to her house and sit on the verandah."

"Isabella has given a party, and the guests were all there."

---

BACK PAGE COTTAGE PIE

We have read a recent edition of the "Truth" and when asked to comment upon the matter contained therein, the "Warden," whom "Truth" saw fit to describe as the dregs of the University Council's inspirational bucket, commented as follows:

I am not a reader of "Truth" but my attention has been drawn to the compliment paid by that paper in publishing my photo in another page on the front page. My reported statement was true only to this extent, that I declined to comment or be interviewed by that paper. The question of the events of last week have rocked my confidence in students to the foundations, brought about a deplorable lack of sense of humor. My appointment to this University was as Warden of the Union, not "Warden," and I need neither "Truth's" sympathy, nor their advice as to what the job entails.