CHILDISHNESS ONLY A PASSING PHASE

STUART HEARTBURN (and disapp. Wineyland's Student Expert)

When dealing with students we must always remember the special situation in which students are immature for a start, and this often shows up in the bizarre ways in which they tend to act. Many of them affect 'way-out' appearances to adopt childish and impractical solutions to current problems of which they have little real grasp.

One respectable source told me:

"Stuart, old prince, we are not more numerous than ever before, but we must be careful in reacting with them.

Their childishness is something we must be aware of, and to be earth cold they are, will be more reasonable and tolerant in their approach to the world, which is of the highest order.

Secondly, students are under pressure to study, and although the city has been more reasonable and tolerant in their approach to this, the students are not as tolerant as before.

This would explain the tendency of irrational orthodoxy with which they are sometimes affected in their approach to the world.

But the graph I found most enlightening was the one on page 10, which showed the increasing number of students who are not only study hard, but also take part in sports and social activities.

But we must remember that this is only a phase, and it will pass. In our society, we must be aware of the pressures of life, and not fall into the trap of thinking that as long as we keep our heads down, we can get away with bad behavior.

A psychology friend of mine told me that 'Students are more like us than we think,' and it's true. They are learning to cope with the pressures of life, and they are not as naive as we sometimes think.

But however, not all students are perfect and some will try to be in trouble with others.

These cases, if left to electric shocks, could lead to other students reacting in the same way.

It is essential that we, as a responsible society, react in a responsible way. We must not let our guard down, and we must be aware of the potential for future problems.

Drugs are substances which are taken into the body by students in order to detract from their studies. They are used in the past in a modicum of quantities, but now students are taking drugs in larger quantities.

It is indeed a tragedy that some students are falling into this trap. We must be careful to keep an eye on them, and to keep an eye on the effects of drugs.

Moral: Students are a phase, and they will pass. We must be careful in reacting with them."

ISSUE: Censorship

by the Rev. J. Morgan

Censorship is an important part of our society. Arguing against the many and varied tasks in a democracy, censorship is vitally important to the maintenance of our free way of life and our democracy.

Many films come before the censor's eyes, and although he is bound to be in a position of great responsibility, he is not always correct.

The thought for the week: The censor is like a doctor, and his job is to keep the people healthy. He must be careful not to let his judgement becloud his sense of responsibility.

In the following week, the film "The War" came before the censor's eyes. He saw that the film was not suitable for young viewers, and he banned it. This was because it showed the horrors of war.

"MODERN

"CIVILIZATION"
THE MYTH...

This is one of the best things made in America.

The four-day weekend. With your family. Relaxing.
Or the three-day weekend. Or just Saturdays and Sundays off. And two weeks’ (or more) vacation with pay. And sick leave and retirement benefits.

Are corporate profits excessive?
Not according to the facts.

They all come from the same source. The free enterprise profit system.

Lately there have been some who argue that corporate profits are bloated, unjustified—even immoral.

Not so. After-tax corporate profits average four cents on every gross sales dollar, not 28 cents as the general public is reported to believe today.

Profits make possible leisure time, art, sports, welfare payments, low-cost government housing, foreign aid, the fight against cancer.

Profits make possible leisure time . . . and cancer research.

Profits allow business to accumulate surplus monies in good times so it can get through bad times, with a minimum of layoffs and other economy moves.

Profits let people start new businesses and, in the process, create new jobs.

80 million Americans owe their independence to the profit system.

Profits give working Americans more options to do something other than work. If business couldn’t earn profits, we’d all have to work much longer and harder just to meet the everyday demands of living.

Not to mention doing without those long weekends, sick leave and retirement benefits.

It’s as simple as that.
