COMMONWEALTH OF AUSTRALIA
Copyright Regulations 1969

WARNING

This material has been reproduced and communicated to you by or on behalf of The University of Adelaide pursuant to Part VB of the Copyright Act 1968 (the Act).

The material in this communication may be subject to copyright under the Act.
Any further reproduction or communication of this material by you may be the subject of copyright protection under the Act.

Do not remove this notice.

External Copyright permission (if applicable) - permission received 2006.

For personal use only.

Further information about the conditions of use of this item is available from Special Collections at the Barr Smith Library.
Disneyland

The happiest kingdom of them all.

inside!... Tinkerbell gets her gear off: Robin Hood shoots through on his Merry Men; Interview with Ferestrabilisi!
Editorial: The Wonderful World of Valt Wisney

"I suppose you're wondering how I make all those films, week after week on television. You know it's an unusual question and many people have asked it to me over the years. Well, actually, I don't make those programmes because I died in 1966.

But I want to introduce you to my film director and executive producer, Kolin the Koalakeros Koala.

He's in charge of my Australian branch, aren't you Kolin? Kolin is a very plentiful little fellow, with plenty of life and a big family.

He goes looking for food at times, but he does all Koalas, I just love animals, though, and that's why I bring them to your living-room so you can see that wild animals still exist when in fact they don't.

We've killed or captured them all for the process of filming, and after we've finished making a family story out of them we skin them and sell their hides to the Bush Indians ... like old Germans over there ... whom we've also captured to make pictures out of.

That way we kill two birds with one stone! We film the hide transaction between our pet Indians and ourselves and make a new film of it.

The Indians buy our skins from us with the money we pay them to act for us ... and that's fun too.

Anyway, Kolin here is going to tell you all a tall story about the wild, wild woods and the clear, non-existent rivers which pass through the extensive forests and quite polluted glades of our Eastern seaboard where Kolin's ancestors came from, in the time of Daniel Stewk, the Big Man, who swept aside a legions of injustices, rode in a Mercury-powered canoe and paid off his enemies ... take it away Kolin...

We think you're more important than your car.

Your worries are over!

With this automatic peanut-grinder, just empty 14 tons of freshly salted peanuts into the catchment (marked A), flick the control-switch (B) and adjust the regulator (marked C) and in only two hours you will have 2 tons of peanut paste and a houseful of surprised visitors! A real whiz for the kids! Guaranteed to give a big lift to any party! The paste shoots out at D and can be collected in any sized container. Don't let the size put you off, as we install it free of charge (for comparative size see inset figure of man). The Automatic Peanut Grinder (we call it 'the Little Crusher' at Consolidated) makes short work of all nuts, bolts, washing machines and pencils. A need in every household. (Yet another Consolidated Product)
MISS SCENIC ROUTES, 1975

NEW PLANT FOR ANSCHLOSS GROUP

Mr. Paul A. Peck, President of the Anschloss Group, today announced plans to build a new oil refinery in the West Gorden.

Mr. Peck, after returning from a recent trip to the West, said that the company's new plan involves the establishment of such a plant and that the construction would be completed by the end of the year.

To please the conservationists, Mr. Peck is planning to plant the new plant with a large number of trees to provide shade and help in the fight against air pollution.

Mr. Peck is also considering the possibility of using the plant to produce electricity, which could help to reduce the country's dependence on foreign oil.

The new plant will be built on a site near the old oil refinery, which was closed down last year due to low demand.

LIBERAL MINISTER DENIES CIA PRESENCE IN AUSTRALIA

"I have no information that the CIA is involved in any way in Australia," said the Liberal Minister today.

"The CIA is a powerful organisation, and I am not prepared to say anything about its activities in any country," he said.

The minister was responding to questions from the opposition about the CIA's presence in Australia.

BOAT LAW CLARIFIED

Under the new state boat regulations, all small craft must be registered and have an engine of not more than 2 hp, and must still be registered. Owners of these craft have been granted a stay of registration, but they do not have to renew their registrations.