The statue of 9 ft. high, and a weight of 200 lbs., was unveiled in the court of the hospital. The statue is of Sir Thomas Elder, C.B., LL.D., and is the work of Mr. D. Scott, the well-known sculptor. The statue is of bronze and is mounted on a pedestal. The pedestal is of Portland stone and is inscribed with the following words: "To Sir Thomas Elder, C.B., LL.D., in recognition of his services to the people of South Australia and his benefactions to the University of Adelaide." The statue was unveiled by the Governor of South Australia, Sir John Down, K.C.M.G., C.B., in the presence of a large crowd of students and members of the University. The ceremony was followed by a reception at the University staff college.
