PROPOSED NEW STATUTES.

At the meeting of the Senate of the Adel- laide University, on Monday evening, several new statutes and regulations recommended by the Governing Council were considered and passed. These are as follows:

Lauded. Fisher Medal and Lecture of Commerce.

On the 31st of May, 1895, Joseph Fisher, Esquire, paid the sum of $1000 for the purpose of providing a special annual medal and a lecture of commerce in the University. The sum is placed in the University endowment fund and the University Council will consider the subject at some future time.

LOUIS IX., KING OF FRANCE.

UNIVERSITY EXTENSION LECTURE.

Prof. Henderson, at the University on Monday night, delivered a continuation of a series of extension lectures on "Medieval History," and to-day is to begin a new series on "The History of the French Monarchy," with a lecture on "Louis IX., King of France." This lecture is the first of the series and is to be given by Mr. H. K. Hugelberger and Mr. Bryson Trenholme. There is no charge for admission to the audience, admission being by ticket only. It is probable that the student body will be quite crowded, as the lecturer has already been engaged for the past two years.

CONSERVATORY CONCERT.

A large audience was present on Monday evening at the Conservatory Concert, at which were performed the following works:

1. "In the Garden," by J. S. Bach.
2. "The Song of the Unicorn," by A. Bruckner.

The programme was well attended and the music was played with great execution.

ELDER CONSERVATORY.

The same lecturer, Mr. H. K. Hugelberger, at Elder Conservatory on Monday evening, when the staff was present, gave a lecture on "The History of the French Monarchy," with a special reference to Louis IX., King of France. He spoke of the special characteristics of the French monarchy under this monarch, and of the great influence which he exerted for the advancement of learning and religion. He also referred to the great military campaigns of Louis IX., and to his efforts to extend the French language and culture.

The lecture was well attended and was greatly appreciated by the students and the public.

The Melbourne University.

Inaugural projects were entered by individual members of the University Senate and Chartered Chamber of Manufacturers on Monday, at the University on Monday night, when the Melbourne University was granted to what was described as "the stormy limits" (say the Age). Mr. F. Read, President of the Melbourne University, was chairman, and the secretaries of the various institutions were present.

Mr. F. Read stated that he had been requested to present a proposal for the establishment of a University in Victoria, and that the proposal would be submitted to the University Senate and the Chartered Chamber of Manufacturers for consideration. He also stated that the University would be founded on a foundation of $100,000, and would be open to all ranks of society.

The Melbourne University was granted to what was described as "the stormy limits" (say the Age). Mr. F. Read, President of the Melbourne University, was chairman, and the secretaries of the various institutions were present.

Mr. F. Read stated that he had been requested to present a proposal for the establishment of a University in Victoria, and that the proposal would be submitted to the University Senate and the Chartered Chamber of Manufacturers for consideration. He also stated that the University would be founded on a foundation of $100,000, and would be open to all ranks of society.

The Melbourne University was granted to what was described as "the stormy limits" (say the Age). Mr. F. Read, President of the Melbourne University, was chairman, and the secretaries of the various institutions were present.

Mr. F. Read stated that he had been requested to present a proposal for the establishment of a University in Victoria, and that the proposal would be submitted to the University Senate and the Chartered Chamber of Manufacturers for consideration. He also stated that the University would be founded on a foundation of $100,000, and would be open to all ranks of society.

The Melbourne University was granted to what was described as "the stormy limits" (say the Age). Mr. F. Read, President of the Melbourne University, was chairman, and the secretaries of the various institutions were present.

Mr. F. Read stated that he had been requested to present a proposal for the establishment of a University in Victoria, and that the proposal would be submitted to the University Senate and the Chartered Chamber of Manufacturers for consideration. He also stated that the University would be founded on a foundation of $100,000, and would be open to all ranks of society.

The Melbourne University was granted to what was described as "the stormy limits" (say the Age). Mr. F. Read, President of the Melbourne University, was chairman, and the secretaries of the various institutions were present.

Mr. F. Read stated that he had been requested to present a proposal for the establishment of a University in Victoria, and that the proposal would be submitted to the University Senate and the Chartered Chamber of Manufacturers for consideration. He also stated that the University would be founded on a foundation of $100,000, and would be open to all ranks of society.

The Melbourne University was granted to what was described as "the stormy limits" (say the Age). Mr. F. Read, President of the Melbourne University, was chairman, and the secretaries of the various institutions were present.

Mr. F. Read stated that he had been requested to present a proposal for the establishment of a University in Victoria, and that the proposal would be submitted to the University Senate and the Chartered Chamber of Manufacturers for consideration. He also stated that the University would be founded on a foundation of $100,000, and would be open to all ranks of society.

The Melbourne University was granted to what was described as "the stormy limits" (say the Age). Mr. F. Read, President of the Melbourne University, was chairman, and the secretaries of the various institutions were present.

Mr. F. Read stated that he had been requested to present a proposal for the establishment of a University in Victoria, and that the proposal would be submitted to the University Senate and the Chartered Chamber of Manufacturers for consideration. He also stated that the University would be founded on a foundation of $100,000, and would be open to all ranks of society.

The Melbourne University was granted to what was described as "the stormy limits" (say the Age). Mr. F. Read, President of the Melbourne University, was chairman, and the secretaries of the various institutions were present.