THE ADELAIDE UNIVERSITY.

The establishment of the Adelaide University under the University Act, 1870, by a body of persons who had been associated with the University of Adelaide, and who had been successful in securing the establishment of the University, is a matter of the greatest importance to the State.

The University is to be conducted on the lines of the University of Oxford, and is to be open to all persons who have passed the University of Adelaide entrance examination, and who have been appointed to the University by the Board of Visitors.

The Board of Visitors is to consist of a governor, two proctors, and a registrar, who are to be appointed by the Governor, and are to hold office for three years, and are to be re-appointed at least once in every three years.

The University is to be opened on the 1st of January, 1871, and is to be governed by a Board of Visitors, consisting of a governor, two proctors, and a registrar, who are to be appointed by the Governor, and are to hold office for three years, and are to be re-appointed at least once in every three years.
