5. The University Examination Board of the University of Adelaide always keeps on the watch for the discovery of any unfair or instructive reading. Few questions are of more importance to the community than the standards of education attained by the average citizen. The examination which follows is designed to raise the standard of education of the University and to influence largely, both directly and indirectly, the future of knowledge in South Australia.

The extended syllabuses of the faculty are full of advantages and the idea that the University itself is almost exclusively for the education of the community is almost a thing of the past. The examinations are considered as a necessary part of the education process and it is hoped that the next generation of students will have a better knowledge of the world and its affairs.

In this matter, the University is excellently served by the Government, which will certainly see to it that the future generation is more thoroughly instructed in the ways and means of life.

In conclusion, the University examination is a valuable service to the community and it is hoped that in the future the University will continue to give the students the best possible education.

HUMOUR AT THE UNIVERSITY.

Of all the sources of humour, probably the most useful and happy, is the spirit of human nature. The humour of the University is just as much a part of its life as the scenery of the bush. There is a certain sympathy between the work of the student and the work of the teacher, and a certain sympathy between the work of the teacher and the work of the student. The student, therefore, does not feel as if he is working for himself alone, but for the benefit of the whole community.

The student, therefore, does not feel as if he is working for himself alone, but for the benefit of the whole community.

The outcome of these examinations is of great importance to the community, and it is hoped that the University will continue to give the students the best possible education.
