MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS

EXAMINER'S REPORT

The Register of 30th Nov. 1898 contains the report of the examinations of the Musical Union, which was conducted by the Examiners.

THIEF

In the junior division of the subject there was again evidence of carelessness and inferiority. The playing of the notes was the only task required, but a large number of candidates failed to observe the note values. The component parts of notes were often omitted, and notes were often played out of time. One candidate was known to play the notes in the wrong order. The slow movement of the examiner on the piano was the most noticeable feature of the examinations.

THIEF

Only one passed first class. The chief weakness was the lack of interest in the subject, and the carelessness in note values and in the interpretation of the musical notation. One candidate was known to play the notes in the wrong order. The slow movement of the examiner on the piano was the most noticeable feature of the examinations.

UNIVERSITY OF ADELAIDE

The examinations were held in the University of Adelaide. In the practical part held at the University, the examinations were conducted by the University. The University of Adelaide in conjunction with the University of New South Wales and the University of Sydney, held the examinations. The University of Adelaide was represented by

W. H. WALL

PRACTICE OF MUSIC

We have been asked to forward a report on the examinations of the Union of Music held in the premises of the University of Adelaide.

The examinations were held in the University of Adelaide. In the practical part held at the University, the examinations were conducted by the University. The University of Adelaide in conjunction with the University of New South Wales and the University of Sydney, held the examinations. The University of Adelaide was represented by

W. H. WALL

TECHNICAL EDUCATION

No. 7

THE AGRICULTURAL INDUSTRY

By Our Special Reporter

That technical education received reconnaisance at a conference held in Victoria with the assistance of a factor in agricultural education, at which it was shown that Victoria has been the most progressive state in Australia.

The conference was held in Melbourne, Victoria, and was attended by the Minister of Education, the Chief Agricultural Commissioner, and other officials. The conference was opened by the Minister of Education, who stated that Victoria had been the most progressive state in Australia, and that the conference was held to discuss the question of technical education.

The conference was attended by the Minister of Education, the Chief Agricultural Commissioner, and other officials. The conference was opened by the Minister of Education, who stated that Victoria had been the most progressive state in Australia, and that the conference was held to discuss the question of technical education.

The conference was attended by the Minister of Education, the Chief Agricultural Commissioner, and other officials. The conference was opened by the Minister of Education, who stated that Victoria had been the most progressive state in Australia, and that the conference was held to discuss the question of technical education.