MR. GLYNN said that the circumstances in which the Bill had been presented were of very great importance. The Land Clauses Consolidation Act would come under the operation of this Bill. He understood that the Bill was to be read a second time to-night. He did not know whether the hon. Member for Clitheroe would take the Division, but, if he did, he should certainly vote for its rejection. He would do so with the consent of the law, as the right hon. Gentleman the Attorney-General had been in his place throughout the Debate. He should vote against the second reading of the Bill.

MR. GLYNN said that the circumstances in which the Bill had been presented were of very great importance. The Land Clauses Consolidation Act would come under the operation of this Bill. He understood that the Bill was to be read a second time to-night. He did not know whether the hon. Member for Clitheroe would take the Division, but, if he did, he should certainly vote for its rejection. He would do so with the consent of the law, as the right hon. Gentleman the Attorney-General had been in his place throughout the Debate. He should vote against the second reading of the Bill.