the golden days of Florence. It is a favorite theory with the painters of past times that only amongst a leisured class can there be a real beauty and a real love of art; I have the same idea and thus come to the conclusion that the Art Institute of Chicago should receive a greater influence from the world outside of itself. It is this idea that has led me to the conclusion that the Art Institute of Chicago should receive a greater influence from the world outside of itself. It is this idea that has led me to the conclusion that the Art Institute of Chicago should receive a greater influence from the world outside of itself. It is this idea that has led me to the conclusion that the Art Institute of Chicago should receive a greater influence from the world outside of itself.