The latter part of the sentence should be:

"...than their constituency, and the Labour movement in the field of education.

In the interview with Mr. T. Ryan, the Chairman of the Federal Council of Educational Institutions, Mr. Ryan said, "Education is the most important issue in the field of education. We have always realized that if the government in this country is to be successful, the education of the people must be given the highest priority.

We commenced the inquiry in July and examined the documentation of the University, and the evidence of such men as our own State, as the Prime Minister, the Leader of the Opposition (Mr. Sculley), the Leader of the Opposition (Mr. Logie), the Leader of the Opposition (Mr. Neal), the Leader of the Opposition (Mr. Young), a member of the University Council, and the Minister for Education (H. A. Peake), the Leader of the Opposition, and the Minister for Education (Mr. Green), M.L.C., representing the industrial section of the community, and myself as a representative of the University.

What form, to your mind, would the ideal education system be?"
