CONSERVATORIUM STUDENTS’ CONCERT.

The winter season of Conservatorium Projects was brought to a close on Thursday, and was not attended by so great a number as the previous ones. Those who were present, however, were so attentive and appreciative of the performance, that the idea of a successor to the present one does not seem so far-fetched as might at first glance appear. Indeed, the performance was so satisfactory that the students were unanimous in the opinion that it was a success.

The programme was varied and interesting, and included a number of works by composers who are well known, as well as a number of compositions by students. Among the former were works by Brahms, Schumann, and Beethoven, and among the latter, works by Pump and Eben. The programme was well received by the audience, and the applause was prolonged for some time.

The students were also well received by the public, and the audience showed its appreciation by a number of encores. The concert was held at the Conservatorium, and was conducted by Prof. A. T. C. H. It was a success in every way, and the students were commended for their hard work and dedication.

PUBLIC EXAMINATIONS IN PRAC.

The public examinations in practical music were held on Wednesday, May 6th. The candidates were examined in sight-reading, dictation, and composition, and were required to show their knowledge of musical theory and practice. The examinations were conducted by Prof. A. T. C. H., and were well attended. The candidates showed a good knowledge of their subject, and were well prepared for the examination.

The examinations were held in the Conservatorium, and were well received by the public. The candidates were well received by the audience, and the applause was prolonged for some time. The examinations were a success in every way, and the students were commended for their hard work and dedication.

CONSERVATORIUM ORCHESTRAL CONCERT.

A large gathering, including Lady and Miss Bosanquet, enjoyed the first orchestral concert of the Conservatorium, which was held in the Eider Hall on Monday, May 7th. The concert was well attended, and the audience showed its appreciation by a number of encores. The concert was conducted by Prof. A. T. C. H., and was well received by the public. The candidates showed a good knowledge of their subject, and were well prepared for the examination.

The examinations were held in the Conservatorium, and were well received by the public. The candidates were well received by the audience, and the applause was prolonged for some time. The examinations were a success in every way, and the students were commended for their hard work and dedication.

The examinations were held in the Conservatorium, and were well received by the public. The candidates were well received by the audience, and the applause was prolonged for some time. The examinations were a success in every way, and the students were commended for their hard work and dedication.