COMMONWEALTH OF AUSTRALIA
Copyright Regulations 1969

WARNING

This material has been reproduced and communicated to you by or on behalf of The University of Adelaide pursuant to Part VB of the Copyright Act 1968 (the Act).

The material in this communication may be subject to copyright under the Act. Any further reproduction or communication of this material by you may be the subject of copyright protection under the Act.

Do not remove this notice.

External Copyright permission (if applicable) - permission received 2006.

For personal use only.

Further information about the conditions of use of this item is available from Special Collections at the Barr Smith Library.
“Shoeshine”

Even before the popularization of Shoeshine, the film industry in South America had been quite significant. As an example of the excellence of the cinematic art in the region during this early period, the film Shoeshine has been frequently praised, and has been instrumental in establishing the country as a center of the film industry. It has been praised by critics for its technical excellence and its depiction of the daily life of the shoe-dirters.

In the film, the story follows a young boy named Jose, who works as a shoeshiner for a living. One day, a wealthy man, impressed by Jose's ability, hires him to shine the shoes of a prominent person. This event changes the course of Jose's life, as he becomes more ambitious and strives to improve his social status. The film is a touching portrayal of the struggles and dreams of the working class in Buenos Aires.

“Music for the Millions”

The lyrics of the song “Music for the Millions” by Bing Crosby are a reflection of the optimism and spirit of the time. It celebrates the power of music to bring people together and to lift their spirits. The song was released in 1935 and became an instant hit, reflecting the mood of the country during the Golden Age of Hollywood.

“Lansdowne Crescent, Bath”

The graveyard at Lansdowne Crescent, Bath, is one of the most beautiful and historic cemeteries in the city. It is the final resting place of many distinguished figures, including poets, writers, and artists. The graveyard is known for its intricate and ornate headstones, as well as its beautiful gardens and trees. It is a popular destination for visitors and tourists, who come to pay their respects and to experience the beauty and tranquility of this historic landmark.

“Il mio”

The film Il mio (My) was directed by Vittorio De Sica, a prominent figure in the Italian neorealism movement. The film tells the story of a young boy named Edoardo, who works as a shoeshiner to support his family. The film is a powerful and moving depiction of the hardships of life for the working class in Italy, and it has been praised for its realism and its emotional impact.

“Cinema“

Adelaide's first independent film group, the Adelaide Film Society, launched itself on Friday, July 7, and chose a film titled “The Blue Angel.” It is hoped that this standard of the screen may be maintained in each of the monthly screenings.

Two were unfortunate kindred in a proper appraisal of “The Blue Angel” by Josef von Sternberg’s fine directorial genius. One was a worn sound track and the other was the severe cutting which the film had received from the London Metropolitan Goverment censors. A generous allowance of dialogue could simply not be heard, yet the picture was anything but a dumb show. Other sound norms I wish to state was the fact that the director had re-organized, that is, that sound does not give the place of images. As a result of the poor sound track was the fact of the right composition of short silent, which on their own merits is a form to be set aside at the beginning of the talking era. Nowhere, in the dialogue, could any of the speakers have failed of achieving either beauty in style, expression, wit and natural sound. The glazed, and the voiceless talker were heard. The spatial relations and sense of dialogue: what was the logical way to understand the film?

The plot of the film, in its bald outline, has been well understood. It concerns a profane beverage, and the voice of the singer leads to his disintegration of the family. It is a closing scene in which the province of the school house room is unnecessary. It is a plot that lifts life into the realm of tragedy—nothing more need be added to this. The first scene can be added the cerebellar tract of the cleanser and the shade, and the setting of Britten's wonderful music. The situation is still in a greater distance by Diericke at a lesser extent.

“Science“

“Electronic Valves” (Vols. I and II, Philips Technical Library) is an English edition of works which were published some years ago, in the Dutch and German languages. The contents of Volume II is divided into two sections, the first being a review of fundamental operation of the valves for industrial use and the theory and applications of electronic valves, compiled by experienced engineers. The book contains a wealth of information on the various types of electronic valves, with particular reference to the valve types originated by this firm.

It is proposed to publish additional volumes of this series at a later date, and it is hoped that the new series will be dealt with in a similar manner.

The second section consists of approximately 100 pages, devoted to the various types of electronic valves, with particular reference to the valve types originated by this firm.

The books deal primarily with the electronic valves, but the contents of Volume II is divided into two sections, the first being a review of fundamental operation of the valves for industrial use and the theory and applications of electronic valves, compiled by experienced engineers. The book contains a wealth of information on the various types of electronic valves, with particular reference to the valve types originated by this firm.
Brave!

Sir,—May I, through the columns of your admirable paper, express my thanks to those who are helping the students in building a peaceful and prosperous Australia. I am especially pleased to hear that such a definite response is being given to the appeal for a float in the promotion of 1876 (or was it 1877) by the younger members of the community. It is a source of pride to me to learn that those of the previous generation who took part in the movement have drawn comfort from their exertions. I am not one of the small minority who think that the younger generation has not lived up to our expectations. On the contrary, I believe that the younger generation has done much to improve the social conditions of the country. We must therefore be prepared to support our younger colleagues in their efforts to bring about a better future for all of us.

My sincerest congratulations are due to the organizers of the float appeal and to all who are working towards its success.

Yours, faithfully,

Letter writer.

Socialists!

Sir,—Our dear friends of the "Socialist Club" have reminded us of their existence in the last issue of "In the News," and we have been thinking of the coming struggle against the capitalist forces, which have become a menace to our progress. As long as we continue to fight against the forces of reaction, our cause will be strengthened and our position will be more secure. We must therefore be prepared to support all those who are working towards a better future for all of us.

My sincerest congratulations are due to the organizers of the float appeal and to all who are working towards its success.

Yours, faithfully,

Letter writer.

Electric

Sir,—I would like to add my congratulations to the opinions so admirably expressed by Mr. J. E. T. in his article "On the development of the electric industry," which appeared in the last issue of "In the News." It is a source of pride to me to learn that such a definite response is being given to the appeal for a float in the promotion of 1876 (or was it 1877) by the younger members of the community. I am especially pleased to hear that such a definite response is being given to the appeal for a float in the promotion of 1876 (or was it 1877) by the younger members of the community. We must therefore be prepared to support our younger colleagues in their efforts to bring about a better future for all of us.

My sincerest congratulations are due to the organizers of the float appeal and to all who are working towards its success.

Yours, faithfully,

Letter writer.

A Reply

Sir,—Your recent article "On the development of the electric industry" has been very enlightening to me. I am very much interested in the progress made in the field of electricity, and I congratulate you on your valuable contribution to the discussion.

I would like to add my congratulations to the opinions so admirably expressed by Mr. J. E. T. in his article "On the development of the electric industry," which appeared in the last issue of "In the News." It is a source of pride to me to learn that such a definite response is being given to the appeal for a float in the promotion of 1876 (or was it 1877) by the younger members of the community. We must therefore be prepared to support our younger colleagues in their efforts to bring about a better future for all of us.

My sincerest congratulations are due to the organizers of the float appeal and to all who are working towards its success.

Yours, faithfully,

Letter writer.

Debating

Sir,—I would like to add my congratulations to the opinions so admirably expressed by Mr. J. E. T. in his article "On the development of the electric industry," which appeared in the last issue of "In the News." It is a source of pride to me to learn that such a definite response is being given to the appeal for a float in the promotion of 1876 (or was it 1877) by the younger members of the community. We must therefore be prepared to support our younger colleagues in their efforts to bring about a better future for all of us.

My sincerest congratulations are due to the organizers of the float appeal and to all who are working towards its success.

Yours, faithfully,

Letter writer.

Another Reply

Sir,—I would like to add my congratulations to the opinions so admirably expressed by Mr. J. E. T. in his article "On the development of the electric industry," which appeared in the last issue of "In the News." It is a source of pride to me to learn that such a definite response is being given to the appeal for a float in the promotion of 1876 (or was it 1877) by the younger members of the community. We must therefore be prepared to support our younger colleagues in their efforts to bring about a better future for all of us.

My sincerest congratulations are due to the organizers of the float appeal and to all who are working towards its success.

Yours, faithfully,

Letter writer.

Oh! Peww!

Sir,—I see that "On the move" has hit the headlines again. It is a matter of much regret that all activities under control or influenced by the S.R.C. are on the downward trend. The recent moratorium has caused a marked decrease in popularity and efficiency of the Debating Union. This is probably due to the increasing demand for the purchase of the "Bulletin," but it is also due to the growing interest in other forms of entertainment. It is a pity that the Union cannot be more active in its efforts to attract members. The standard of which has suffered greatly since its reorganization.

There is a Mr. S.R.C. Debates Secretary, but no one seems to be aware of his existence. I believe that the Union should be more active in its efforts to attract members. The standard of which has suffered greatly since its reorganization.

Yours, faithfully,

Letter writer.
WHITESOX AROUND THE ANKLES!

CAN THEY PULL THEM UP?

The record of the baseball side this year has been extremely meagre, and does not indicate that this team is almost identical with the one which won the premier-ship last year. Although it has never been lower than third in the great baseball flight, none of its victories have been convincing, and unless the current form improves greatly the chances of finding in another winning performance must be reckoned as being very remote indeed.

Individual showings have been very good, but the team-work that was so apparent in all of the matches last year is completely lacking. It is probably a good thing, though, that the list of form has come in the middle of the season, as this could enable the players to regain that form before the major round play-offs.

The opening of the season gave no indication of better days to come when Whitesox scraped home against Sydney in a game that was marred by the time-limit rule. More than two hours came from the line-up to score the second run, against Bondi. This was drawn after the opposition led throughout, but the way the side was played to the eighth inning, and a win was recorded, is not clear. Following this, there was an eleven-hour delay due to the second match, against Goodwood, which was drawn after the opposition led throughout. Little point was gained in the first round of the Inter-Club competition (in a game against West Torrens). None of the victories were great, but in more of the games the first half was more than no more than one run. This is certainly standing. With a few improvements, this side that comes from the team that started a No. 1 favourite for the pennant.

In this the local real diameters came. After another close behind-1, the game was won, but the team's form remains an enigma. The Whittets played well, but the fancied same for the Uit, Bledisloe, and all the remaining games to collect the third place at the end of the year. This can be done by runners-up, but the half-backers who are capable of forming a combination of the two points to enable the team to win the premiership. It is probable that the players are thrown off the game completely, but they will still have much to do in the other contests.

On the bright side of the ledger can place the fact that three days have been chosen for this year's State side which will play in front of the全省 various which will be defending.

RED HEN CAFE

(Formerly Richmond Hotel - in Richmond Arcade)

COFFEE LOUNGE AND GRILL ROOM

Open 5.30 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Convivial for Breakfast, Lunches, Luncheons and Civilly Our Mists.

SURGICAL INSTRUMENTS

CHEMICAL APPARATUS

SCIENTIFIC GLASSWARE

From

A. M. BICKFORD & SONS LTD.

42 CURRIE STREET, ADELAIDE

"The House of Quality"

LACROSSE

Although the full cordials, as well as the last reported on "On Time," we've managed to make our best and get just above waster. The score is now 6 matches won and 3 lost, but which still deserves handisense as being our best effort for several years.

For the last two matches we have made important changes in the composition of our team with a view to building up an Inter-Club side for the coming season. The new side, newly play- ing in A Grade for the first time, now include all of the most successful and very well, and we have great hopes of again taking the cup back to Adelaide. The match against West Torrens last Saturday was just lacrosse of reasonably good standard, but we shall have to continue on the completion of our attacks in the next few rounds.

HOKEY

Four players have been selected for the interstate provincial team - Helen Atley, Margot Walls and Margaret Walker. The fourth player is Dinah Pritt, who has done excellently to be selected from B Grade. The first round of matches has been completed in all grades.

Sculptured in the picture again on your eyes for the frolic, with new audiences the best of luck. Feeling, that on the form shown this season, they have been all born on the verge of such an honor for some time.

The A team has a nest of five wins in a row and can now look forward to reaching the stronger teams of the grade. A great battle is taking place between the top six points for a position in the final four, Wat- terlions are on top with Essendon two points behind. Ten points apart are Sunnyside Gram- nery, University and Woodville, separated only by percentage. As none of these teams have yet to meet each other in the record round, nobody can possibly predict the set-up at the end of the order.

On the other side, the A team defeated Wests at Wellignton. The football was not good, but the second half was made very interesting. From Waterlions' point of view, by a round of spectacular high fying from Johnny Sandle, on July 8 and University overwhelmed Alberton Church United on the University Oval.

Peter Latham gave a series of passes on the square to bring the time on the time. The "V" players had to face Mac Cooper, Mac has been boundary umpire for the A team for nearly three years and a "suitable" presentation from the players to the future umpire. If it is compiled. Don Brooker, Mac will study refereeing at Brimington University.

The B team has dropped down to the list of matches due to illness on July 8. The week before they had a match that was played against Grimsby B team, who proved to be far below the standard. However, on picking the players up, a good side was put out by all. The C team has not

PHOTO BY EVERETT WARD AND ROGER LAY

FACULTY'S WINS CONTINUE

Four Varsity players have been named among the 23 to train for the combined Amateur League team that will play a combined Association team on July 22, as a curtain raiser to the South Australian Second Eighteen Carlton match.

Those included are Drummond, Reilly, Reilly, Walsh and Walsh. renewables on board will be in Adelaide at this time with the All-Southern association. Drummond has returned to the tour named above. Drummond, who has had a good season before, but Walsh and Walsh will be making their debut at select in the final eighteen. All members of the football match will be in attendance: the best of luck, feeling, that on the form shown this season, they have been all born on the verge of such an honor for some time.

Your personality

48 times for 96