Ghoulies . . .

It appears that three new tenants, two brothers and a sister, had moved into a deserted house in Candeng Grove, which gradually developed into a definite shape. A ghoul's abode, which was coming nearer and nearer to her.

As mentioned earlier, the house is already occupied, but that doesn't matter. It is the shape of the house we are after, not what it is inhabited by. The house, however, has a secret, one that is not easily discovered.

The secret of the house lies in its history. It was once the home of a wealthy family, but something terrible happened there. The family was never seen again, and the house was abandoned. It has since been used for various purposes, but no one knows exactly what.

The house, as mentioned earlier, is very old. It has a lot of history, and it is said that the house is haunted. Some people claim to have seen strange lights at night, and others say they have heard strange noises. But the most interesting thing about the house is its shape. It is said to be a perfect octagon, with each side being exactly the same length.

The brothers and sister, who are the new tenants, are not aware of the house's history. They are just interested in living there, and they don't care about the strange lights or the strange noises. They are not afraid of the house, and they are not afraid of the ghosts that are said to live there.

The house, however, has a secret. It is the secret of the shape. The house is not just a perfect octagon. It is also a perfect sphere, with each side being exactly the same length. The house is a perfect sphere, and it is one of the rarest shapes in the world.

No Orchids...

Dear Sir—Last week before we were locked up on a kind of consolatory trip to a place where we could read the latest issue of your magazine,
I came across an article that recently appeared in your columns.

Dear Sir—While I was reading
what was on the cover of your magazine,
I was struck by the fact that it contained an article about the prospects for the coming season at the Footlights Club.

Dear Sir—Most of the articles in your last issue were very interesting, but I was especially interested in the one about the prospects for the coming season at the Footlights Club.

Yours, etc.
X. Y. THORNBURY.

HEALTH PAGE

ADELAIDE LEADS THE WAY

In providing health services for students, Adelaide University has taken the lead in Australia. Now we have gone further ahead with the institution of a compulsory medical examination for all new full-time students.

It is only in this century that Student Health Services have grown up in Europe and in U.S.A., physical examinations are compulsory when students enter their University courses, but in England they are still voluntary. However, the English provincial universities—those other than Oxford and Cambridge—have Physical Education Departments, and health services which are particularly active. Such one is at Birmingham University.

Birmingham was among the first of the Universities to provide in physical education and the only one to develop its activities during the war years, even before the war there was much interest in Standards which imposed health standards for students on entry. (The appointment of a University Medical Officer and the establishment of a University Health Service). The University of Adelaide has now followed suit, and a special Health Committee has been appointed, and a Medical Officer has been appointed.

MINIMUM POLICY

In 1927 the first series of health standards was published by the Student Union of Students of the University of Adelaide. Under a minimum policy—(1) The appointment of a University Medical Officer and the establishment of a University Health Service. This includes a check-up and a medical examination. (2) Minimum Medical Standards. This involves the appointment of a University Medical Officer and the establishment of a University Health Service. The University of Adelaide has now followed suit, and a special Health Committee has been appointed, and a Medical Officer has been appointed.

HEALTH COMMITTEE

Little has been done in this direction in Australia. Under a minimum policy—(1) The appointment of a University Medical Officer and the establishment of a University Health Service. This includes a check-up and a medical examination. (2) Minimum Medical Standards. This involves the appointment of a University Medical Officer and the establishment of a University Health Service. The University of Adelaide has now followed suit, and a special Health Committee has been appointed, and a Medical Officer has been appointed.

HEALTH CIRCULAR

The latest developments are contained in the following letter and circular from the Assistant Director of Health to the University of Adelaide Health Service.

BASEBALL RECRUITING CAMPAIGN

WHY PLAY BALL
OR LINE 'EM UP

Winter is almost upon us and once again the "boxing" takes the air; the hallowed being to 1 ounce product of man's ingenuity, the baseball.

The season officially opened on Saturday, the 21st, but for the past few weeks the stars, the hopefuls and the die-hards have been at it, vigorously engaged in ALL forms of pre-season training under the able direction of Doug, O'Hama.

There are gaps in the ranks of last season's的办法, but those who are more season seasoned should have fared better by this time. The return of the All Australian team has been delayed, and the "Sexton" has 1 ounce that is usually the crown jewel of the season. This is a very important factor in any team, and it is the best man who will play the way he is. Everyone gets a chance to make up the team.

There are even variances in the game and some are a good deal easier to master than others. The situation is more or less a reflection of the player's type and his progress. "Sexton" is a good deal easier to master than others. The situation is a reflection of the player's type and his progress.

If you are thinking of playing baseball next year, the time to do it is now. The season is just beginning and the attendance at the meeting will be to your advantage. Any and all will be interested in the game and your attendance will be appreciated.

Don't wait to be a baseball player. Play now and enjoy the game. Your attendance will be appreciated by all. The season is just beginning and the attendance at the meeting will be to your advantage. Any and all will be interested in the game and your attendance will be appreciated.

MEN'S BASKETBALL

Within five minutes of being sighted by the St. Mary's basketball selectors, Malay student, Peter, was asked to join the team. He was the stand-out in the University basketball event of the University. The West and Roger Oates. Barrin himself played for the School in Malay and even now is in the University basketball team. Peter's strength is his height. He is 6 feet 6 inches tall. The half-back up in front of him is a tough job to do—"I'm a half-back.

All this is in Malay, and we're asking for a good one. The St. Mary's basketball team, under the guidance of the basketball coach, has been taking good care of the team in the University basketball event. The team has its sights set on the championship. The team has been practicing hard and has been doing a good job of playing basketball. The team has been working hard and has been doing a good job of playing basketball.
