ON DIT NEEDS YOU

On DIT or Ego Tip Incorporated, sponsored by the Student Association and sustained by the various bodies of the more active students on campus, is the backbone of the university. It is the outlet of all the students' ideas and just the wilderness of student dissatisfaction, idealism and supreme optimism in the box of daunting odds and dogged determination.

The paper is handled by one or more editors supported by variously described sub editors, who in turn delegate their lack of authority to contributors, under the euphemism of "staff". The paper is produced weekly for the most part from articles which are copied or squeezed out of the selected victims. Should persuasion fail, then threats to life and limb become the order of the day. Despite these moonlightings of some students, ON DIT has a fairly good circulation both here and interstate, and this reputation can only be furthered by new blood and new ideas, blab, blab etc., etc. It believes us to ask why you should consider joining ON DIT.

If you consider yourself to be a frustrated optimisation student, then ON DIT is for you. If you do not, you could consider yourself frustrated then ON DIT is still for you, because there are a hell of a lot of Australians running it and your stake approach would be a unique asset. Should you have more than equanimity to offer so much the better.

If you have a burning desire to write about anything, or you have the potential talent to draw cartoons or illustrations, then it is your solemn duty to approach the editor and say, "Hey, I have a burning desire to write about anything" or "I have the potential talent to draw cartoons or illustrations". To your amazement they will whip out a ballpoint and scratch your name and aspirations down.

Above all don't be shy about approaching the editor, for although you may have numerous hang ups about your secondary school inadequacies, remember that it's not a case of the blind leading the blind, because the editors are also having tiring troubles and need your help more than you realise. There are a thousand and one jobs to do and is getting a paper written, typed and circulated.

Apart from this, there is a certain sneering feeling which overpowers you when you name appears with your contribution in the paper, not to mention the kudos and fame that comes your way when you become an editorial member of ON DIT.

Therefore, if you have any sort of journalistic or artistic aspirations whatsoever, then the auxiliary experience gained from participating in the production of ON DIT will provide you with a good basis for the future. To avoid becoming a "trained" cadet join ON DIT, and become an "educated" student. You will find it extremely worthwhile.
