Although often looked at as a very recent development, the Drama course at the University of Adelaide actually has a history stretching back to 1968. It was then that the University Council set up a committee to consider the place of theatre in the university. Drama I was established in 1975, complementing and extending the range of subjects within the humanities, and offering the potential of extensive correlation with music. In setting up the Drama I course the university recognised the interest in the theatre that was continually growing, both on and off campus, and the increasing importance of theatre arts in the field of education at all levels. Since 1975 the theatre arts in South Australia (film, television and live theatre) have undergone widespread and vigorous development. Drama has become an accepted and respected academic subject.

Now, in 1980, the University has made a significant move towards the better fulfillment of the aims on which Drama was initially established. For the first time a second year course has been offered, allowing students the opportunity to pursue their interest beyond the first year level. This production of Jean-Paul Sartre's No Exit, then, effectively scores a triple "first" for the University:

- The first Jean-Paul Sartre play presented in South Australia since the playwright's recent death in Paris
- The first ever second year Drama production
- Presented by the first ever intake of second year Drama students.

Staff and students of the newly expanded Drama course wish you a stimulating evening of theatre!

DIRECTOR'S NOTES

THOUGH STRUCTURED AROUND AN EXPLICITLY STATED PHILOSOPHICAL PREMISE, THE PLAY OPERATES WITH EQUAL EFFECTIVENESS ON A VARIETY OF LEVELS. PROMINENT, OF COURSE, IS SARTRE'S PHILOSOPHY OF THE SIGNIFICANT 'OTHER', WHICH CONCERNS THE POWER OF OTHER PEOPLE TO DEFINE WHAT ONE IS ACCORDING TO ONE'S ACTIONS: AN UNTAMED MIRROR THAT WILL NOT BE COERCED INTO REFLECTING ONLY THE IMAGE ITS SUBJECT WISHES TO SEE.

COMPLEMENTING THIS IS AN IMPLICIT THEOLOGICAL UNDERTONE AND AN EXAMINATION OF FREEDOM, SEX ROLES AND TRIADIC INTERACTION, ALL CONTAINED WITHIN A TEXT THAT RANGES FROM THE LUDICROUSLY HUMOROUS TO THE ALL-BUT TRAGIC.

CONSEQUENTLY ANY PRODUCTION OF THIS PLAY MUST BE CONCERNED WITH BALANCE, PARTICULARLY HOW FAR THE CHARACTERS' COMIC POTENTIAL CAN BE EXPLOITED WITHOUT UNDERMINING THE IMPORT OF THE DRAMATIC SITUATION. IN RELATION TO THIS, SARTRE'S OWN DEFINITION OF HIS THEATRICAL WORKS AS "FALSE MELODRAMA" MAY BE A GUIDE.

THIS PRODUCTION HAS BEEN SET IN THE NINETEEN FORTIES IN AN ATTEMPT TO CAPTURE SOME OF THE FEELING OF THE PERIOD THAT GAVE RISE TO THE PLAY.

A. Camus

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

"We don't do what we want and yet we are responsible for what we are."
Jean-Paul Sartre

"I think that to everyone who saw the play the word hell is more likely to evoke that closed room than fire and pitchforks." Peter Brook on "No Exit"

Father Peter Dempsey called Sartre "a neurotic genius, who has rationalised his complexes by writing books and plays."

"It is at the far boundaries of the heart and instinct that Sartre finds his inspiration." A. Camus

"It is a great idea to be... a unity of life. There is no other place of harmony and beauty, only a sweetness that may not even be savorable." Simone de Beauvoir (Sartre's biographer)

"The end of the war and the French army was not only a thousand times, but a hundred thousand times more, a source of comfort to me."
Jean-Paul Sartre

"Sartre's aim was to preserve the phenomenon, the realities of the world." Simone de Beauvoir

"A systematic blasinmer who has disseminated poisonous advice ever poured out for the young by an acknowledged corrupter." Gabriel Marcel on Sartre
