THE JOSEPH FISHER LECTURE

The council of the Adelaide University on Friday afternoon chose the Hon. D. J. Gordon, M.L.C., to be the Joseph Fisher lecturer, for 1914. Mr. Gordon's subject will be "war problems and industrial peace" and their relation to Australian trade and commerce. His lectures will be delivered at the Memorial Hall on Monday mornings at 3 o'clock. Five lectures have been delivered by Mr. W. D. Turner, A. C. Slessor, Mr. J. Russell, Mr. W. S. J. Jeppson, and Mr. H. J. Green. The last Mr. Joseph Fisher lecturer gave 4,000 to the University to promote the study of economics. A special lecture will be given in April.

THE CRUEL OF THE WORKER

Mr. Ryan's interesting address.

"Such is the importance of the University influence on State life that it should be extended to the whole of the State. It should be extended from a University for the students of the city of Sydney to the University of South Australia, and the idea for admission might be extended."

This was the statement made by Mr. J. R. Ryan in his address to the Park Regulation League meeting yesterday. Mr. Ryan is the president of the Education Commission, and he said the whole of the State should be governed by the University. If the University were to deal with the State, and if it were to deal with the whole of the State, they would realize that the State was divided over wide or small, or by men or men's ideas, and that all the difficulties necessary for the success of the University were achieved in the University. Professor Harle had said, "I should like to have an University to which the student could go for a passage for deserving students from the different parts of the State." The University would do much for the educational system of the State, and the University was the local of the Labor Party. The University would be an outlet for a democratic society today to-day was the only way for the University to overcome the obstacles to help humanity and to give the mind and the world in which we live the truths of natural power, knowledge, and education, and the whole of the State. The University would give the student the opportunity to have his name in the University, and the student would be able to find what he could do to help humanity. The whole of the State would be able to send the students to the University, and the student would be able to help humanity.

The Register
Jan. 24, 1914

UNIVERSITY OF ADELAIDE

A meeting of the council of the University was held on Friday, the 24th instant, at the University. The Vice-Chancellor, the Hon. D. J. Gordon, M.L.C., who presided, said that the Board of Visitors had been much occupied with the examinations, and that a large number of students were now sitting at work. The Board of Visitors had been much occupied with the examinations, and that a large number of students were now sitting at work. The Board of Visitors had approved the examinations, and that a large number of students were now sitting at work. The Board of Visitors had been much occupied with the examinations, and that a large number of students were now sitting at work. The Board of Visitors had approved the examinations.

The Register
Jan. 24, 1914

At the invitation of the Council of the University, the Hon. D. J. Gordon, M.L.C., has consented to deliver the Joseph Fisher lecture for 1914. Mr. Gordon's lecture will be delivered at the University on Monday morning at 3 o'clock. The council has approved the lecture, and the lecture will be delivered at the University on Monday morning at 3 o'clock. The council has approved the lecture, and the lecture will be delivered at the University on Monday morning at 3 o'clock. The council has approved the lecture, and the lecture will be delivered at the University on Monday morning at 3 o'clock. The council has approved the lecture, and the lecture will be delivered at the University on Monday morning at 3 o'clock.