HIGHER SALARIES WANTED.

Several members of the professorial staff of the University of Melbourne who have been appointed to their present positions since 1904 have taken the opportunity, in the reviewing of the finances of the university at the recent meeting of the board of governors, to make their recommendations to the council. A recent Australian Universities Conference has recommended that the salaries of all professors be increased by from 10% to 25%.

Mr. P. E. Corrigan, of the Adelaide University, a member of the conference, has written to the Chancellor, express the view that the report of the council should be the foundation for the following recommendations:

1. That the salaries of professors be increased by 10% of the current amount.
2. That the salaries be increased by 20% of the current amount.
3. That an additional allowance be made to each professor for teaching duties.

These recommendations are in line with the policy of the conference and are in agreement with the view of the council.

By effusion of time the following notice was published in the daily press:
