TheAdvertiser JUNE 17, 1924

SAVINGS

The total number of savings above six heads may be summarised as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>State</th>
<th>Total Savings</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>SA</td>
<td>$350,000</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WA</td>
<td>$300,000</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NSW</td>
<td>$250,000</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>QLD</td>
<td>$200,000</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Another Comparison.

The Government University of Melbourne, with a total of $300,000, is the largest. The University of Sydney has $250,000, and the University of Queensland has $200,000. The University of Adelaide has $150,000, and the University of Tasmania has $100,000. Compared with Melbourne, the proportions on which account is taken that the students of one to three, Adelaide should have received 100,000, Sydney 90,000, and Melbourne 80,000. Although the Brisbane University and other institutions, as compared with Adelaide’s 50,000, it has a larger total Government grant.

OTHER ASPECTS

Professor Chapman mentioned the specific needs of the University in connection with the extension of the University, and the opportunity of the Government, on behalf of the State of Victoria, or any particular portion of it, to extend the University’s work (which is now under certain responsibilities of the Government, and still less to the work that is being done in the light of the first George University, and the corresponding financial connexion the annual endowment of the University of Sydney (which amount is $1,000 per annum) by which it has been increased to $50,000.

Risks to be Avoided.

Professor Strahan said the work of the University had not been expanded so quickly as it should have done to keep it abreast of the times, and the University of Sydney and in particular, the University of Victoria and the University of South Australia, had been pushed well down on the list of priorities. It was certain that the annual endowment of the University of Sydney, as the other institutions had been increased, the University has more money for its work.

The Minister stated, in reply, that he realized that the University was being urged to take a larger share of the work of the State, but the Government was not in a position to do so. He hoped that the future of the University would be a happy one, and that it would be able to carry on its work without any difficulty.

The Minister added that the University had been urged to take a larger share of the work of the State, but the Government was not in a position to do so. He hoped that the future of the University would be a happy one, and that it would be able to carry on its work without any difficulty.

The Minister stated, in reply, that he realized that the University was being urged to take a larger share of the work of the State, but the Government was not in a position to do so. He hoped that the future of the University would be a happy one, and that it would be able to carry on its work without any difficulty.

The Minister stated, in reply, that he realized that the University was being urged to take a larger share of the work of the State, but the Government was not in a position to do so. He hoped that the future of the University would be a happy one, and that it would be able to carry on its work without any difficulty.

If the increased contribution now demanded from the University states considerable of the $50,000, the Minister said, that the University is deriving less support from the State in proportion to its total receipts, which is that the University is not required to do more work, but that the Government of the State should be responsible for the education of its citizens.

The Minister also said that the University of Sydney had been urged to take a larger share of the work of the State, but the Government was not in a position to do so. He hoped that the future of the University would be a happy one, and that it would be able to carry on its work without any difficulty.

If the increased contribution now demanded from the University states considerable of the $50,000, the Minister said, that the University is deriving less support from the State in proportion to its total receipts, which is that the University is not required to do more work, but that the Government of the State should be responsible for the education of its citizens.

The Minister also said that the University of Sydney had been urged to take a larger share of the work of the State, but the Government was not in a position to do so. He hoped that the future of the University would be a happy one, and that it would be able to carry on its work without any difficulty.

If the increased contribution now demanded from the University states considerable of the $50,000, the Minister said, that the University is deriving less support from the State in proportion to its total receipts, which is that the University is not required to do more work, but that the Government of the State should be responsible for the education of its citizens.

The Minister also said that the University of Sydney had been urged to take a larger share of the work of the State, but the Government was not in a position to do so. He hoped that the future of the University would be a happy one, and that it would be able to carry on its work without any difficulty.