Mr. Peter Waite.

Mr. Peter Waite was born in the Legislative Assembly on October 10, 1873. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Waite, and was the youngest of their six children. Mr. Waite was educated at the local public school and then went on to study at the University of New South Wales, where he obtained a degree in Agriculture.

Mr. Waite was a man of many talents and interests. He was a successful farmer, a talented musician, and a keen sportsman. He was also a热心的 and active member of the community, serving on the boards of several local organizations.

Mr. Waite's contributions to the community were numerous and varied. He was a strong advocate for the development of the local economy, and he worked tirelessly to ensure that the area remained a vibrant and thriving place.

Mr. Waite died on October 10, 1943, leaving behind a legacy of achievement and service.

Endowments of the University.

The University has been fortunate in receiving generous gifts from a number of donors. These contributions have been used to support the university's various programs and initiatives.

One of the most notable donations was made by Mr. Waite. In 1920, he established the Waite Endowment, which has provided financial support for the university's agricultural programs.

In addition to the Waite Endowment, the University has received many other significant donations, including the Smith Endowment and the Taylor Endowment.

These contributions have been instrumental in ensuring the continued success of the University of New South Wales, and they continue to play a vital role in supporting the university's mission.

Mr. Waite would no doubt be proud of the success of his endowment, and he would be pleased to know that his legacy lives on through the support it provides to the University of New South Wales.
