Found he drove the first winemakers to bring their grapes to the market, and later worked on the development of new varieties of grapes. He was a member of the Board of the Wallaroo and Districts Winegrowers' Society, and also served as the treasurer of the South Australian Winegrowers' Society.

He was a Board member of the Adelaide Steamship Company, a director of the Adelaide Steamship Company, and for several years was a trustee of the Savings Bank of South Australia. He was also a director of the Adelaide's Children’s Hospital, of the board of which body he was chairman. Sir John was one of the founders of the old National Library of South Australia. He was a member of the Legislative Council for the Hurquille electorate, and later President of the Upper House. He was a Member of Parliament for the electorate of the eastern part of the state, and never failed to do everything in his power to improve it.

A Knighted

The deceased gentleman rendered great service to the state, and when on June 25th, 1895, he was knighted by the King, he had the honor of a knighthood in recognition of his services. He was always held in high esteem, and was a man of unqualified merit by the public, who freely acknowledged his kindness and loyalty to them.

Some ideas of the respect in which he was held are evident from the fact that he was presented to the hon. Mr. J. D. H. Acheson, and by the Government of the Colony his portrait was presented to the House of Assembly, and in the capacity he continued a member of the Council until the death of Sir John. He was a man of unswerving devotion to his country, and was a grateful and loyal citizen.

A Veteran Parliamentarian.

Of the gentlemen who sat with Sir John in the House of Assembly, only those who are now present are Sir James Bryce, the Hon. Ephraim Ward, Sir John Wigram, and the present Speaker. Sir John was a very popular and eulogized member of the House. His eloquence and prestige were fully equal to his votes. He was a man of fine qualities, and was always held in the highest esteem by his countrymen.

The Family

Lady Dunsany is a daughter of the late Mr. J. Dunsany, and a sister of the late Mr. J. G. Dunsany. The family is represented by the late Mr. J. G. Dunsany-Hughes and Mrs. Walter, who have all of them denied that the family was in South Australia.

The Funeral

The funeral will be held at St. Patrick's Church, and will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Bland. At noon a special train will convey the deceased to the church, and the train will stop at Gawler and Riverton to enable the accommodation to be taken in the train. The train will arrive at the church at 2 p.m. and will proceed to the grave, where the service will be performed by the Rev. Dr. Bland. The train will then return to the city in the evening.

APPRECIATION BY PUBLIC MEN.

SPLENDID TRIBUTE.

His Excellency the Governor was in full sympathy with the friends of the late Sir John Dunsany, and he expressed sincere regret at his sad passing. He also felt deeply grieved, and as his Excellency was the highest respect for Sir John Dunsany.

The Chief Justice (Sir Samuel Ward), who is residing temporarily at the Grand, expressed sympathy over Wednesday's accident. "We were all shocked when I heard the news," he said. "The passing of Sir John Dunsany had been a great loss to the state, and had the highest respect for his work. We were all of a loss when he passed away.

In various social and philanthropic matters, Sir John Dunsany contributed liberally; indeed, his total contributions to the hospital amounted to several thousand pounds. He was a man of great kindness, and contributed to the needs of the people.

In the University and the Children's Hospital, Sir John Dunsany was a benefactor. He was a man of great kindness, and contributed to the needs of the people.

In the University, Sir John Dunsany's interest in education was reflected, and he contributed to the needs of the institution. The fine statue of Sir Walter Hughes, which stands in front of the buildings, was erected in his honor, and his brother, the late Mr. W. H. Dunsany, was a man of great kindness, and contributed to the needs of the people.

He was known as a statesman, and was a member of the Legislative Council of the state. His views were well known, and he was held in high esteem by his colleagues. His views were not confined to his own state, and he contributed greatly to the needs of the people.

With regard to church matters, Sir John was a man of high religious views, and was connected with several churches. He was a man of high religious views, and was connected with several churches. He was a man of high religious views, and was connected with several churches. He was a man of high religious views, and was connected with several churches. He was a man of high religious views, and was connected with several churches.

The Premier (Hon. A. H. Park) said this afternoon that the late Sir John Dunsany was a man of high religious views, and was connected with several churches. He was a man of high religious views, and was connected with several churches. He was a man of high religious views, and was connected with several churches. He was a man of high religious views, and was connected with several churches. He was a man of high religious views, and was connected with several churches.

He was a man of high religious views, and was connected with several churches. He was a man of high religious views, and was connected with several churches. He was a man of high religious views, and was connected with several churches. He was a man of high religious views, and was connected with several churches. He was a man of high religious views, and was connected with several churches.