ADULT EDUCATION.

LECTURE BY MR. MANSBRIDGE.

An interesting lecture was delivered at the Adelaide University on Monday evening by Mr. Albert Mansbridge, M.A., vice-president and liaison officer of the Workers' Educational Association of England, who has responded to an invitation to lecture in Australia for the purpose of bringing under the notice of the educational authorities and those concerned with adult education the work of the organization throughout the Commonwealth. The work of the WEA is described in an address of the chairman of the association which he is the secretary and founder.

Professor Henderson, who presided, said that, when the WEA was formed in 1879, in consequence of an address by Edward Bell in the House of Commons concerning the need for educational opportunities for workers, it was a small organization with a limited membership of 124. Today, the WEA has a membership of over 100,000 and 2,000,000 people in 120 countries have benefited from its work.

Mr. Mansbridge had a great interest in education, and among those who were interested in education were his brothers and sisters in the homeland. He was the first to point out the importance of education, and he was an example for others to follow. He was a great inspiration to many people.

At the conclusion of the lecture, Mr. Mansbridge was asked a number of questions on details of the work.

HIGHER EDUCATION.

NOT FOR SCHOOL, BUT FOR LIFE.

ADDRESS BY MR. MANSBRIDGE.

Mr. Albert Mansbridge, M.A., founder and secretary of the Workers' Educational Association of England, was accompanied by the President (Hov. A. P. Hay), rector of Education (Mr. M. M. Muir and Hay), and Mr. T. B. Drinkwater, proctor of Education at the Adelaide University, visited the Adelaide High School on Tuesday morning. Mr. Mansbridge was accompanied by a number of students who conducted them through several of the classes and brought them to the notice of the students who were present. The students were delivered by the presence of the students.

The visit was an opportunity for the students to see how the WEA is operating and how it can benefit their education. Mr. Mansbridge pointed out that the WEA is not just for school education, but for life. He said that the goal of the WEA is to provide education that is relevant to the needs of the community and that can be used throughout life. He encouraged the students to take advantage of the opportunities that the WEA offers and to make education a part of their lives.

At the end of the visit, Mr. Mansbridge gave a speech to the students, in which he emphasized the importance of education and how it can benefit their lives. He said that education is not just for school, but for life. He encouraged the students to take advantage of the opportunities that the WEA offers and to make education a part of their lives.
