RETURNED RHODES SCHOLAR.

Impressions Abroad.

After three years as a South Australian Rhodes Scholar, Mr. Henry Thomson has returned to Adelaide to enter the legal profession. Mr. Thomson speaks enthusiastically of the experiences he has gained in Great Britain and the Continent during his absence. While he says that the Rhodes Scholarship is of a great value, he is not yet satisfied with the working of the scheme. He says that the conditions are not yet fully understood and that there are no facilities for the Rhodes Scholars to get on with their work. He is not yet satisfied with the amount of work that he has done, and he feels that he could have done more if he had had more time. He says that the Rhodes Scholars are not yet properly organised, and that they need more help from the Rhodes Scholarship Committee. He says that the Rhodes Scholarship is not yet properly administered, and that there are many difficulties in the way of the Rhodes Scholars in getting on with their work.

THE BUNDEY PRIZE FOR ENGLISH VERSE.

M. E. M. Bunney has paid to the Adelaide University the sum of £200 for the purpose of founding a prize in memory of her parents, the late Sir Henry and Lady Bunney, to be called the "Bunney Prize for English Verse," which is to be awarded annually to the best poem or sonnet submitted by a student of the University. The prize is open to all students of the University, and the winner is to be chosen by a committee of three judges, to be appointed by the Senate of the University. The prize is to be awarded in May, and the winner is to be chosen from the poems and sonnets submitted by the students during the academic year ending in May of the year previous to the award of the prize.
