and down the grass will grow ever it, causing it to vanish from the sight of all.

What the Other States Are Doing.

In New South Wales the Government recently decided that Mr. Mansbridge, to be director of tutorial classes on the staff of the University of New South Wales, would be adequately paid for his work. In order to develop the system which is rapidly developing in Tasmania, Mr. Mansbridge followed the lead of New South Wales, and introduced the system to the other states. The Australian Government has promised an adequate grant, and several classes are being held at the University of Sydney, the University of Melbourne, and the University of Adelaide. The whole amount of the grant is £500 for the rest of the year, and for the next year £1,000 for the ensuing year. Melbourne University is about to consider the appointment of a man who will give the whole of his time to extension work. Four tutorial classes are now being carried on in Melbourne and others are expected to be started. The University of Sydney has offered a grant of £100 for the establishment of tutorial classes at the University.

At first the essays trouble some students, but when they realize that the writer of the book is on the job, it soon passes off. These troubles arise from the word "will" and "will" the writer of the book. Students are bothered by spelling, grammar, and punctuation, but these difficulties are the easy parts. The meet these matters they were under discussion, but the writer of the text.) A workerman said that the students of the University of Sydney "would not read the tutor's writing." The essays must all be kept because they are the best method of university recognition. It is clearly not wise to make a syllabus which entire of the essay papers; it is much better to depend upon their qualifications by a personal plan of essays and try correction them.

Fine Scholarships to be Produced.

Out of these class members many will find a scholarship of $150, $200, and $300 to be the class members as men who will be free to professional point of view, and that the man good, forgetting individual advancement. (Continued).

Fine Scholarships to be Produced. (Continued).

In 1906, 1,300 women were enrolled in the University of Sydney, and 1,300 in the University of Melbourne. Of the 3,158 students in 1912-13 about 2,000 were women. If the circumstances of women workers is any indication, the number of relief to the women, the number of the students will be surprising.

But those in touch with the work of tutorial classes in other states are not surprised, being that of New South Wales to feel that the possibilities are not surprising. But those in touch with the work of tutorial classes in other states are not surprised, men can only take a turn in the service of the public,

The success of the tutorial classes has been due to the efforts of the University of Sydney, and the University of Melbourne. The students are well pleased with the results, and they are the students at the University of Sydney, and the University of Melbourne.

At first the essays trouble some students, but when they realize that the writer of the book is on the job, it soon passes off. These troubles arise from the word "will" and "will" the writer of the book. Students are bothered by spelling, grammar, and punctuation, but these difficulties are the easy parts. The meet these matters they were under discussion, but the writer of the text.) A workerman said that the students of the University of Sydney "would not read the tutor's writing." The essays must all be kept because they are the best method of university recognition. It is clearly not wise to make a syllabus which entire of the essay papers; it is much better to depend upon their qualifications by a personal plan of essays and try correction them.

Fine Scholarships to be Produced.

Out of these class members many will find a scholarship of $150, $200, and $300 to be the class members as men who will be free to professional point of view, and that the man good, forgetting individual advancement. (Continued).

Fine Scholarships to be Produced. (Continued).

In 1906, 1,300 women were enrolled in the University of Sydney, and 1,300 in the University of Melbourne. Of the 3,158 students in 1912-13 about 2,000 were women. If the circumstances of women workers is any indication, the number of relief to the women, the number of the students will be surprising.

But those in touch with the work of tutorial classes in other states are not surprised, being that of New South Wales to feel that the possibilities are not surprising. But those in touch with the work of tutorial classes in other states are not surprised, men can only take a turn in the service of the public,

The success of the tutorial classes has been due to the efforts of the University of Sydney, and the University of Melbourne. The students are well pleased with the results, and they are the students at the University of Sydney, and the University of Melbourne.

At first the essays trouble some students, but when they realize that the writer of the book is on the job, it soon passes off. These troubles arise from the word "will" and "will" the writer of the book. Students are bothered by spelling, grammar, and punctuation, but these difficulties are the easy parts. The meet these matters they were under discussion, but the writer of the text.) A workerman said that the students of the University of Sydney "would not read the tutor's writing." The essays must all be kept because they are the best method of university recognition. It is clearly not wise to make a syllabus which entire of the essay papers; it is much better to depend upon their qualifications by a personal plan of essays and try correction them.

Fine Scholarships to be Produced.

Out of these class members many will find a scholarship of $150, $200, and $300 to be the class members as men who will be free to professional point of view, and that the man good, forgetting individual advancement. (Continued).

Fine Scholarships to be Produced. (Continued).

In 1906, 1,300 women were enrolled in the University of Sydney, and 1,300 in the University of Melbourne. Of the 3,158 students in 1912-13 about 2,000 were women. If the circumstances of women workers is any indication, the number of relief to the women, the number of the students will be surprising.

But those in touch with the work of tutorial classes in other states are not surprised, being that of New South Wales to feel that the possibilities are not surprising. But those in touch with the work of tutorial classes in other states are not surprised, men can only take a turn in the service of the public,

The success of the tutorial classes has been due to the efforts of the University of Sydney, and the University of Melbourne. The students are well pleased with the results, and they are the students at the University of Sydney, and the University of Melbourne.