A GIFT OF £10,000.00

GOVERNMENT SUBSIDY SOUGHT.

ANONYMOUS DONOR

South Australians are all proud of their infant University, which, though a baby, has shown a remarkable vigour in its early stages and is far from being without fair opportunity, to do much more. They are proud of the professors, and they are also aware how much they have done and are doing through the various schools of the University. The country has in the past years, or the preparation of certain eminences, like Mr. J. R. Stuckey, M.A., who was fifth wrangler at Cambridge many years ago; Sir Donald Blaxland, an old St. Peter's College boy, who also distinguished himself in the mathematical tripos at Cambridge; and the late Dr. H. D. Beale, Prince Alfred College boy, who filled the chair of economics at Edinburgh University; Professor E. C. Sirling, Sir John Downer, K.C, Dr. J. C. Vere, the late Dr. E. C. Baker, M.A., who was also a student with the same examination at Cambridge; Professor Jethro Brown, and Mr. H. C. Ellem, Murray. In the younger generation there are also many students to number at Cambridge, who also won a first-class in the examination. The progress, however, is slow; Professor H. R. Robertson, who has a chair at Cambridge, is a good example. The University is now working with the help of the Board of Education, and in the course of time it is hoped to much good can be done. The Board of Education has not been slow in giving the University all the help possible, and all the assistance of the University is most grateful.

The University has had a long and useful history, and its future is promising. The University is not a club for the rich, but a club for all. The University is not a club for the rich, but a club for all. The University is not a club for the rich, but a club for all.

Not a Club for the Rich

The friends of the University do not want a University for the rich, but a University for all. The friends of the University do not want a University for the rich, but a University for all. The friends of the University do not want a University for the rich, but a University for all.

More Expansion Needed

The matter is urgent, for without a steady flow of students the University will not have the necessary financial support to carry on its work. The matter is urgent, for without a steady flow of students the University will not have the necessary financial support to carry on its work. The matter is urgent, for without a steady flow of students the University will not have the necessary financial support to carry on its work.

TO ENDOWMENT OF A LECTURESHIP

South Australia is only a small country, but it has made good progress, and it is not unlikely to be able to make good progress in the future. The University is now making a substantial contribution to the education of the people of South Australia. The University is now making a substantial contribution to the education of the people of South Australia. The University is now making a substantial contribution to the education of the people of South Australia.

The desire of the donor is to bring the University up to a standard that will be in keeping with the high average of the classes in the neighboring States and elsewhere. He is evidently hoping that the University will be able to compete with the universities of the States and elsewhere. He is evidently hoping that the University will be able to compete with the universities of the States and elsewhere. He is evidently hoping that the University will be able to compete with the universities of the States and elsewhere.

The desire of the donor is to bring the University up to a standard that will be in keeping with the high average of the classes in the neighboring States and elsewhere. He is evidently hoping that the University will be able to compete with the universities of the States and elsewhere. He is evidently hoping that the University will be able to compete with the universities of the States and elsewhere.

The desire of the donor is to bring the University up to a standard that will be in keeping with the high average of the classes in the neighboring States and elsewhere. He is evidently hoping that the University will be able to compete with the universities of the States and elsewhere. He is evidently hoping that the University will be able to compete with the universities of the States and elsewhere.