ETHICS IN SCHOOLS.

TEACHING OF GRADUATED SYSTEM.

The subject of ethics is of peculiar importance to the child at the present juncture of his life. In order to obtain a proper point of view in connection with the subject, it is necessary to understand the curriculum of the school and the nature of the child. The curriculum of the school is a part of the child's education, and it is the duty of the teacher to impart to the child the knowledge and understanding of the subject in connection with the curriculum.

The child's education is not confined to the classroom, but it is to be had in all the various activities of life. The child should be taught to live in a moral and ethical manner, and to develop a proper understanding of the subject in connection with the curriculum.

The value of education in ethics is not confined to the classroom, but it is to be had in all the various activities of life. The child should be taught to live in a moral and ethical manner, and to develop a proper understanding of the subject in connection with the curriculum.

The child's education is not confined to the classroom, but it is to be had in all the various activities of life. The child should be taught to live in a moral and ethical manner, and to develop a proper understanding of the subject in connection with the curriculum.

The value of education in ethics is not confined to the classroom, but it is to be had in all the various activities of life. The child should be taught to live in a moral and ethical manner, and to develop a proper understanding of the subject in connection with the curriculum.

The child's education is not confined to the classroom, but it is to be had in all the various activities of life. The child should be taught to live in a moral and ethical manner, and to develop a proper understanding of the subject in connection with the curriculum.

The value of education in ethics is not confined to the classroom, but it is to be had in all the various activities of life. The child should be taught to live in a moral and ethical manner, and to develop a proper understanding of the subject in connection with the curriculum.

The child's education is not confined to the classroom, but it is to be had in all the various activities of life. The child should be taught to live in a moral and ethical manner, and to develop a proper understanding of the subject in connection with the curriculum.

The value of education in ethics is not confined to the classroom, but it is to be had in all the various activities of life. The child should be taught to live in a moral and ethical manner, and to develop a proper understanding of the subject in connection with the curriculum.

The child's education is not confined to the classroom, but it is to be had in all the various activities of life. The child should be taught to live in a moral and ethical manner, and to develop a proper understanding of the subject in connection with the curriculum.

The value of education in ethics is not confined to the classroom, but it is to be had in all the various activities of life. The child should be taught to live in a moral and ethical manner, and to develop a proper understanding of the subject in connection with the curriculum.

The child's education is not confined to the classroom, but it is to be had in all the various activities of life. The child should be taught to live in a moral and ethical manner, and to develop a proper understanding of the subject in connection with the curriculum.

The value of education in ethics is not confined to the classroom, but it is to be had in all the various activities of life. The child should be taught to live in a moral and ethical manner, and to develop a proper understanding of the subject in connection with the curriculum.

The child's education is not confined to the classroom, but it is to be had in all the various activities of life. The child should be taught to live in a moral and ethical manner, and to develop a proper understanding of the subject in connection with the curriculum.

The value of education in ethics is not confined to the classroom, but it is to be had in all the various activities of life. The child should be taught to live in a moral and ethical manner, and to develop a proper understanding of the subject in connection with the curriculum.

The child's education is not confined to the classroom, but it is to be had in all the various activities of life. The child should be taught to live in a moral and ethical manner, and to develop a proper understanding of the subject in connection with the curriculum.

The value of education in ethics is not confined to the classroom, but it is to be had in all the various activities of life. The child should be taught to live in a moral and ethical manner, and to develop a proper understanding of the subject in connection with the curriculum.

The child's education is not confined to the classroom, but it is to be had in all the various activities of life. The child should be taught to live in a moral and ethical manner, and to develop a proper understanding of the subject in connection with the curriculum.

The value of education in ethics is not confined to the classroom, but it is to be had in all the various activities of life. The child should be taught to live in a moral and ethical manner, and to develop a proper understanding of the subject in connection with the curriculum.

The child's education is not confined to the classroom, but it is to be had in all the various activities of life. The child should be taught to live in a moral and ethical manner, and to develop a proper understanding of the subject in connection with the curriculum.

The value of education in ethics is not confined to the classroom, but it is to be had in all the various activities of life. The child should be taught to live in a moral and ethical manner, and to develop a proper understanding of the subject in connection with the curriculum.