The Funeral of the Late Lady Way: A Representative Gathering.

In the presence of a gathering of many hundreds of the citizens of Melbourne, Lady Way, wife of the Chief Justice (Sir John Way, M.P.), was laid to rest in the memorial at the West Terrace Cemetery on Saturday. The ceremony of the assembly bore eloquent tribute to the love and esteem with which she was universally regarded, and to the extent of the loss that her removal has occasioned. It spoke, too, in a way clearer than words could express of the deep widespread sympathy with Sir Samuel, to whom the State owes so great a debt. Every branch of society was represented—viceregal, borough, county, town, legal, educational, civic, and philanthropic. The scene contained the remains, which rested in the hands of two mahonias in a profusion of beautiful flowers, in a wreath the expression of a symphonious400 harmony.

Lady Katharine Gowan, born April 3, 1851, died May 14, 1914.

While the mourners were assembling, a short service was held at Montefiore by the Rev. Canon Bunting, in the presence of the family mourners and a goodly number of the clergy. The chief mourners were Sir Samuel Way, M.P., and Mrs. Herbert Rynill (son-in-law) and Mrs. Herbert Rynill (sister), Miss Gowan (brother), Mrs. Allan Campbell (nephew), Mrs. W. G. Gowan (niece), and Mrs. W. G. Gowan (niece). The funeral cortège, comprising a car and two baggage wagons, was attended by the local clergy and a number of the citizens.

For the service at Montefiore, the Rev. J. B. Darby, rector of the Church, and W. J. Bridge, rector of St. Peter's, were in the choir. The service was conducted by the Rev. G. H. Innes, and the service was conducted by the Rev. R. H. Innes, and the service was conducted by the Rev. R. H. Innes, and the service was conducted by the Rev. R. H. Innes.
