UNIVERSITY DEGREE CONFERRED.

A NOTABLE SPEECH.

There was a brilliant assemblage in the Eider Hall of the University on Friday evening, May 3rd, to hear the first Vice-Chancellor, Lord John Evans, deliver the Chancellor's address to the graduates. A number of distinguished visitors were present, including Mr. George W. Leckie, M.P., Mr. H. B. Fuller, Mr. E. H. Ellis, Mr. A. E. Shipley, and many others.

The Chancellor, in his address, spoke of the importance of education and the need for a higher degree of enlightenment. He emphasized the importance of maintaining a high standard of academic excellence and encouraged the graduates to continue their pursuit of knowledge.

Mr. Bryce, who received an ovation, expressed his heartfelt thanks for the great honor bestowed upon him. He said that he had always been a great admirer of the University and its work, and he was particularly pleased to receive this degree.

The Chancellor also presented Mr. Bryce with a copy of the University's annual report, which had been compiled with the utmost care and attention to detail.

Mr. Bryce, who is a well-known academic and politician, has made significant contributions to the field of education and has received numerous awards for his work. He is highly respected for his scholarly writings and his dedication to the cause of higher education.

The event was a great success, and the graduates were all very pleased with the speeches and the presentations. A large number of photographs were taken, and the proceedings were recorded for posterity.
