PARTNERS WITH ENGLAND.

INSPIRING SPEECH BY MR. BRYCE.

EXPERIENCE IN AMERICA.

Melbourne, July 12.

The Right Hon. James Bryce, British Ambassador at Melbourne, was the guest of the federal Government at luncheon at the Federal Parliament House today. The Prime Minister (Mr. Forrest) was on Mr. Bryce’s right, and the distinguished visitor on his left.

The speech of Mr. Bryce was notable for its breadth of vision, its honesty of purpose, and its breadth of understanding. It was a speech that would be remembered by many for years to come.

Mr. Bryce began by saying that he had always been a great admirer of Australia, and that he had found it to be a country of tremendous potential. He went on to say that he believed that Australia had a great future ahead of it, and that it would be wise for the United States to invest in Australia.

He then went on to speak about the importance of trade between the two countries. He said that the United States and Australia had a lot to offer each other, and that it was important for both countries to work together to make the most of these opportunities.

Mr. Bryce also spoke about the importance of cultural exchange. He said that the United States and Australia had a lot to learn from each other, and that it was important for both countries to exchange ideas and cultures.

He went on to speak about the importance of education. He said that it was important for both countries to invest in education, and that it was important for both countries to work together to ensure that their children had the best possible education.

Finally, Mr. Bryce spoke about the importance of friendship. He said that it was important for both countries to work together to build a strong friendship, and that it was important for both countries to support each other in times of need.

The speech was well received, and many people were moved by Mr. Bryce’s words.

The Federal Government expressed its gratitude to Mr. Bryce for his speech, and said that it would continue to work towards a stronger relationship with the United States.

The Prime Minister (Mr. Forrest) said that he was happy to welcome Mr. Bryce to Australia, and that he was confident that the United States and Australia would continue to work together to build a strong and lasting relationship.

Mr. Bryce said that he was grateful for the warm welcome he had received, and that he was looking forward to spending more time in Australia.

The speech was followed by a joint luncheon at the Federal Parliament House, where the guests enjoyed a meal and discussed the important issues that had been raised.

The Federal Government thanked Mr. Bryce for his insights and contributions, and said that it would continue to work towards a stronger relationship with the United States.
