Mr. Swedon's Address.
Mr. W. J. Swedon delivered a speech to the public on the occasion of the opening of the new school building, which was given in another column.

Voluntary Lancaster.
Mr. Davie, in the course of a very able address on the subject of education, said that education was the foundation of society, and that the public schools were the best means of securing a sound moral and intellectual education. He said that the public schools were in a state of great depression, and called upon the government to take steps to remedy the situation. He said that education was the foundation of society, and that the public schools were the best means of securing a sound moral and intellectual education. He said that the public schools were in a state of great depression, and called upon the government to take steps to remedy the situation.

TEACHERS ENTERTAINED.
A dinner was given to the teachers of the new school building by the so-called "Friends of Education." The speeches were made by Mr. Swedon, the principal of the school, and Mr. Davie, the superintendent.

CONCERT IN ELDER HALL.
A concert was given in Elder Hall on Thursday evening, under the direction of Mr. Swedon. The concert was attended by the principal, teachers, and friends. The program consisted of a variety of songs, instrumental pieces, and recitations. The concert was considered a great success.

AN EMPIRE CONGRESS, Fifty-three Universities Represented.
On Saturday, July 2, the Empire Congress of Universities was opened in London today. The congress is attended by representatives of universities from all parts of the Empire.

LONDON, July 2.
The congress of universities was opened in London today. Forty-five universities are represented at the congress, which is attended by representatives of universities from all parts of the Empire.

The congress was opened by Lord Rosebery, who said that the congress was an opportunity for the universities of the Empire to meet and discuss the problems that face them. He said that the universities were the most important institutions in the Empire, and that they must play an important part in the development of the Empire.

The congress was opened by Lord Rosebery, who said that the congress was an opportunity for the universities of the Empire to meet and discuss the problems that face them. He said that the universities were the most important institutions in the Empire, and that they must play an important part in the development of the Empire.

COUNCIL OF UNIVERSITIES.
The council of universities, which is attended by representatives of universities from all parts of the Empire, was held yesterday. The council is attended by representatives of universities from all parts of the Empire.

The council was attended by representatives of universities from all parts of the Empire. The council was opened by Lord Rosebery, who said that the council was an opportunity for the universities of the Empire to meet and discuss the problems that face them. He said that the universities were the most important institutions in the Empire, and that they must play an important part in the development of the Empire.

The council was attended by representatives of universities from all parts of the Empire. The council was opened by Lord Rosebery, who said that the council was an opportunity for the universities of the Empire to meet and discuss the problems that face them. He said that the universities were the most important institutions in the Empire, and that they must play an important part in the development of the Empire.

The council was attended by representatives of universities from all parts of the Empire. The council was opened by Lord Rosebery, who said that the council was an opportunity for the universities of the Empire to meet and discuss the problems that face them. He said that the universities were the most important institutions in the Empire, and that they must play an important part in the development of the Empire.

The council was attended by representatives of universities from all parts of the Empire. The council was opened by Lord Rosebery, who said that the council was an opportunity for the universities of the Empire to meet and discuss the problems that face them. He said that the universities were the most important institutions in the Empire, and that they must play an important part in the development of the Empire.