UNIVERSITY SENATE.

A meeting of the University senate was held at that institution on Wednesday afternoon at the University (Mr. F. Chaplin, B.A., B.S.E.E.), president. One important action carried was to repeal Chapter I of the rules relating to the English language employed in the University. It was considered that the language employed was ambiguous, and only served to bring about confusion among the students. In the future, the language employed by the professors will be more clearly defined, in order to ensure that all students understand the instructions given. The senate also discussed the possibility of increasing the number of students, and agreed to provide more resources to support the increased student body.

TO JOIN THE BENCH IN MAY.

The Premier (Hon. A. H. Peake) said on Tuesday afternoon that he had heard from Mr. Justice Murray that he had accepted an appointment to the Supreme Court bench. The Government had offered the position to Mr. J. G. R. Murray, K.C., of the firms of Murray, Hayward, and Macaray, and he had accepted the offer. Mr. Murray had asked to be excused from taking up the position for about a month, so that he might be enabled to wind up his business and arrange for others in the profession to undertake the work in which he had been engaged. To that request the Government had acceded.

It is expected that Mr. Justice Murray will take his place on the bench early in May. The appointment was dealt with in Cabinet yesterday, and it will probably be confirmed by the Executive Council tomorrow.

The salary is £1,700 per annum, as provided by statute.

In September last Mr. Murray was offered an appointment to the Supreme Court bench as acting judge when Mr. Justice Gordon was given six months leave of absence from the State to enable him to take the position of chairman of the Sugar Commission. Mr. Justice Gordon is still connected with the Sugar Commission, and his work on the bench has been done during his absence by Mr. Acting Justice Blackman, who, when appointed as acting judge, was Master of the Supreme Court. Mr. Murray declared the position in September because his partner, Mr. C. W. Hayward, was absent in England at the time.

A Brilliant Scholar.

When a representative of 'The Advertiser' called upon Mr. Murray, and proposed to him a short interview to congratulate him on his appointment, he said: 'Yes, I have accepted the offer of the Government.' Mr. Peake has probably told you all about that from me, I would rather you did not say much about it.' Mr. Murray carried his honors very well and without a semblance of self-consciousness. He has won a position in the front rank of the legal profession in this State, and, probably no member of the Bar, is considered more fitted to take up the onerous position to which Mr. Murray has been appointed.
