ADIEU, DR. MAWSON.

South Australia's Best Wishes.

A Fine Send-off.

Dr. Mawson and his party who are bound for the Antarctic Expedition set off in all good spirits. A grand send-off at the Banqueting Room at the Grand Hotel was the order of the day. The Governor (Sir Dan O’Connor) presided, and the Chief Secretary (Hon. W. F. Webb), Mr. Le Couteur, and other prominent citizens were in attendance. The University of Adelaide sent a delegation, and the Royal Geographical Society and the Royal Society were also represented.

The Governor, in his address, expressed the hope that the expedition would be successful and that Dr. Mawson would be safe in his return. He also referred to the importance of the work to be done in the Antarctic and the scientific value of the expedition.

The Chief Secretary then delivered a speech, in which he congratulated Dr. Mawson and wished him every success. He also referred to the scientific value of the expedition and the importance of the work to be done in the Antarctic.

Mr. Le Couteur also delivered a speech, in which he congratulated Dr. Mawson and wished him every success. He also referred to the importance of the work to be done in the Antarctic and the scientific value of the expedition.

The send-off was a grand success, and the party left for the Antarctic Expedition in high spirits.
