SOCIAL EVILS.

GOD NOT THANKED FOR MAWSON'S RETURN.

REV. C. E. SCHAEPER ANNOYED.

EXPECTS LOYAL SUPPORT.

An interesting conversation on the work of God was held in the town on Monday evening, when the meeting of the Methodist Conference was held by the Rev. W. A. Langsford, who mentioned that the total increase of members for the year had been 1,183. (Applause.) There had been an increase in Sunday-school teachers of 985, and the total number of teachers engaged had been 1,350. (Applause.) The Rev. W. H. Rose asked if all the evils had been eradicated from the human heart, and that there was an element of sin in the mind and spirit. It stood firme condoned, and they should endeavor to stamp it out. (Applause.) The evil of gambling was tainting the homes of many. (Applause.) It was spreading the insidious roots everywhere, and it would come in time to be a more serious evil than any other. (Applause.) So far as such matters are concerned, the world would be nearer God. (Applause.)

Rev. W. R. Stephens emphasized the value of the conversion of young people, and quoted instances of great men who had been converted in their youth. The Rev. H. H. Eberhard expressed the desire of the Conference for more spirituality in everyday life. The Rev. C. E. Schaepir asked the Conference to consider the work of Dr. Mawson and his comrades back from their long and arduous journey amid the eternal ice. They had braved the dangers of the ice, and had worn themselves out with the greater warmth in the hearts of the citizens. The reception had been a loving and impressive one. If the gathering lacked the prestige of a royal or the distinguished and wealthy, its value was without any thought to the University function, there was no diminution of esteem for the great and stolid. (Applause.) The visit of an Antarctic expedition was of far greater importance than any other. The reception into the more desolate atmosphere of the Adelaide Town Hall, instead of having given evidence of the University function, there was no diminution of esteem for the great and stolid. (Applause.) The visit of an Antarctic expedition was of far greater importance than any other. The reception into the more desolate atmosphere of the Adelaide Town Hall, instead of having given evidence of the University function, there was no diminution of esteem for the great and stolid. (Applause.)

On Monday afternoon to welcome Dr. Mawson and his comrades, the building was remembered for their daring and persistent work. The achievements of these brave voyagers over the white seas of the Southern Ocean and valuable account of a great work of exploration. The achievements of these brave voyagers over the white seas of the Southern Ocean and valuable account of a great work of exploration. The achievements of these brave voyagers over the white seas of the Southern Ocean and valuable account of a great work of exploration. The achievements of these brave voyagers over the white seas of the Southern Ocean and valuable account of a great work of exploration.

The Commissioner of Public Works (Mr. R. E. Reilly) said that it was a matter of great interest to them that Dr. Mawson's work had been accomplished in such a short time. Mr. R. E. Reilly said that it was a matter of great interest to them that Dr. Mawson's work had been accomplished in such a short time.

The Mayor (Mr. A. M. Simons) said that he had made casual arrangements for the reception of Dr. Mawson, Capt. Davis of the Aurora, and Mr. C. M. Matthews of the Benbow. The reception was to be held at the Town Hall, and was to be attended by the mayor, the council, and the representatives of the public. The Mayor (Mr. A. M. Simons) said that he had made casual arrangements for the reception of Dr. Mawson, Capt. Davis of the Aurora, and Mr. C. M. Matthews of the Benbow. The reception was to be held at the Town Hall, and was to be attended by the mayor, the council, and the representatives of the public.