Dr. Mawson’s Reply.

Dr. Mawson, who received a tumultuous reception at the hands of the members of the expedition, and to the cheers of the audience, expressed his surprise that the party was incomplete owing to the tragic deaths of two of his companions in the Northern Territo-

FROZEN FOOD AND BENT CROWBARS.

The speeches delivered by Dr. Mawson, and Mr. Cecil Madigan at Tuesday’s civic reception, were of a nature to make every man feel that he was a participant in the greatest scientific enterprise ever undertaken by man. Dr. Mawson had the unique distinction of being the first to receive the aurora of the north, and his name will be forever associated with the discovery of the Northern Lights. Mr. Cecil Madigan, on the other hand, had the honor of being the first to receive the aurora of the south, and his name will be forever associated with the discovery of the Southern Lights.

Anecdotes of Antarctica.

The first sulphur was discovered in Antarctica by Mr. Cecil Madigan, who, during his travels, came across a natural deposit of sulphur. He immediately recognized its potential value, and set about collecting as much as he could. This was a difficult task, as the sulphur was hidden in crevices in the ice, and required a great deal of patience and perseverance to extract. Despite this, Mr. Madigan was able to collect enough sulphur to make a valuable contribution to the scientific community.
