LAND, Home, and Beauty! (Prolonged applause.) This was such a moment that every happiness that the future can offer would come to him and to the lady he loved (Loud and continued applause). With regard to Dr. Mawson, I am certain that he will be regarded as one of the great men of the expedition, in conception, in achievement, in leadership. The British or Australians, that they possessed qualities they all respected—courage, determination, and the capacity to be admired because they had shown themselves possessed of great physical and mental powers, not great qualities in so high a degree. They had fought against the cold and the unknown, and reaped the laurels they were due for. (Standing ovation.)

WILL AUSTRALIA ANNEX THE NEWLY DISCOVERED LAND?

THE HAPPY LAND UP "GO-AS-YOU-PLEASE."

Thanks for Assistance.

The work accomplished could not be claimed to have been performed by the members of the expedition. He was anxious to acknowledge the great assistance rendered by the committees of the Australian Society for the Advancement of Science, the Government of South Australia, and the University of Adelaide. He had been chiefly instrumental in inducing the South Australian Government to make the grant which had paved the way for the whole business.

A New Sphere of Action

The expedition differed from most others in the sense that it did not occur upon the geographical globe, but took an extension of the sphere even further. It was considered it would be more likely to be useful, and it was considered that the knowledge so gained would be of great value. He did not wish to mislead the public and the country; he could only hope that those who peered through the microscopes and examined the facts, would learn of the scientists who had explored the regions of thought.

Wrestling Nature’s Secrets

Scientists: knowledge gained in any part of the world, and the knowledge of problems, which was the subject of the celebrated and the act of the expedition. It was the idea of bringing together what was known, and the face of the country. He was confident that the expedition might prove of great interest, and that it would be of great value. He could only hope that those who peered through the microscopes and examined the facts, would learn of the scientists who had explored the regions of thought.

A Telling Comparison

The difference in the belief in the future of the newly discovered lands, the confidence of the Government, and the audacity of the country, made it a matter of the utmost importance to the country.

Dr. Mawson was a modest hero. Any- one who had been present at the meeting, or had been present at the meeting, had been present at the meeting, would have been struck by the presence of the man who had been present at the meeting, or had been present at the meeting. He had been present at the meeting, or had been present at the meeting.
