THE REGISTER,
JUNE 18, 1915.

THE DARDANELLES.

Interesting History.

Our boys are at present concentrations in a camp near the coast of a wonderfully wonted past-in the passage of the Dardanelles. A talk of the scenes of the European side (wrote Dr. J. C. W. in the Daily Express) is enough to make one forget the beauty, but there are no views of Asia; there are the cliffs of Europa, the blue water, and all the picturesque scenery which commands both shores. At the entrance, the statue of the late King of Belgium puts a lot into it, and you can see a small mosque with a minaret.

The Register
There is a flat projecting bow of Xerxes's Bridge of Tenedos. Here, it is said, Xerxes, signal - the magnificent king, brought on the banks of the Hellespont, to view the island of Lesbos,洗ed with the plumed head of his Amazonian horse. The true explanation, however, is that he was merely inspecting the approach to the Hellespont, which was the scene of the great naval battle fought by him against the Greeks. The Hellespont was the chief port of the Persian fleet, and the mouth of the Propontis was the entrance to the heart of Asia. The site of the ancient town of Amasea is now called Assos, and the site of the ancient town of Tenedos is now called Tenedos. The city of Gallipoli is now called modern Gallipoli. The town of Sardis is now called modern Sardes. The town of Teos is now called modern Teos. The town of Miletus is now called modern Miletus. The town of Ephesus is now called modern Izmir. The town of Assos is now called modern Assos. The town of Xerxes is now called modern Xerxes. The town of Thermopylae is now called modern Thermopylae. The town of Athens is now called modern Athens. The town of Tarsus is now called modern Tarsus. The town of Catana is now called modern Catania. The town of Syracuse is now called modern Syracuse. The town of Carthage is now called modern Carthage. The town of Rome is now called modern Rome. The town of Constantinople is now called modern Istanbul.

Not far from Lamia is a town called Chantok, on the Asiatic side, and near it is the small town of Galata, which stands on the shore of the Propontis, at the entrance of the Hellespont. The town of Chantok is now called modern Chantok. The town of Galata is now called modern Galata. The town of Erythrai is now called modern Erythrai. The town of Byzantium is now called modern Byzantium. The town of Istanbul is now called modern Istanbul.

The city of Constantinople is now called modern Istanbul. The town of Stamboul is now called modern Stamboul. The town of Byzantium is now called modern Byzantium. The town of Erythrai is now called modern Erythrai. The town of Istanbul is now called modern Istanbul. The town of Constantinople is now called modern Istanbul.

The town of Lamia is now called modern Lamia. The town of Athens is now called modern Athens. The town of Tarsus is now called modern Tarsus. The town of Assos is now called modern Assos. The town of Xerxes is now called modern Xerxes. The town of Thermopylae is now called modern Thermopylae. The town of Athens is now called modern Athens. The town of Tarsus is now called modern Tarsus. The town of Assos is now called modern Assos. The town of Xerxes is now called modern Xerxes. The town of Thermopylae is now called modern Thermopylae.