Professor Brown has looked up standard works on International Law and found no evidence of any rule or treaty which would exempt a naturalised German in Australia from the duty of military service even in opposition to the country of his origin.