

99 The Register
April 22nd 1915.

Tribute to the late Dr. Barlow.

The remains of the late Dr. Barlow, C.M.G. (Vice-Chancellor of the University of Adelaide) were laid to rest in the North Road Cemetery on Wednesday. The funeral indicated in striking manner the widespread esteem in which the deceased was held. There was a profusion of floral tributes, and the cortege which journeyed to the graveside was long. The procession left Dr. Barlow's late residence, Lefevre terrace, North Adelaide, at half-past two in the afternoon. The chief mourners were Messrs. J. B. Baker, T. O'Halloran Giles (members of the firm of Baker and Barlow, in which the late Dr. Barlow was once a member, in partnership with the late Sir R. C. Baker), and Mr. C. Horrocks, who for many years had been accountant with the firm. In the second coach were the members of his household staff. His Excellency the Governor was represented by Mr. B. S. Connor, Hon. A.D.C., and the Chancellor (Sir Samuel Way) followed in his carriage. The members of the council, the staff, and the senate of the University and the undergraduates in academic robes formed in procession at the house and walked in double file to Christ Church, North Adelaide. Later they led the cortege upon the last stage of the journey from the church into the cemetery. They were headed by the Warden of the Senate (Mr. F. Chapple, C.M.G.) and Professor Stirling, C.M.G. (senior member of the staff). The Bishop of Adelaide (Right Rev. Dr. Thomas) communicated to the Registrar of the University an expression of regret that he was unable to be present as he was absent from Adelaide. Sir John Downer, M.L.C., Mr. W. Angus, M.P., Mr. M. M. Maughan (Director of Education), and Dr. Poulton (members of the University Council), and Messrs. F. Halcomb (Clerk of Parliaments) and D. J. Byard and Miss E. M. Bunday (members of the Senate) sent apologies for their absence in consequence of illness or other engagements.

Mr. Maughan wrote:—"When I was a mere lad Dr. Barlow showed me an extraordinary kindness I have never forgotten, and from that time on his beautiful character has led me to hold him in the warmest regard and affection. I think no one in the University has been more beloved than he." The Director was represented by Mr. W. A. West (Assistant Chief Inspector). Two beautiful wreaths—one from the Chancellor and one from the members of the council and staff—were sent, and Dr. J. L. Jona, a graduate of the University, who is at present in Melbourne also forwarded a wreath. A special conveyance was required to carry the floral offerings.

At Christ Church the bell was tolling. The officiating clergyman (Rev. G. H. Jose) conducted the Church of England burial service, and the organist played the "Dead march" in "Saul." At the cemetery the proceedings were brief but impressive. The body was laid to rest alongside that of Dr. Barlow's late wife. Among those at the service in the church or at the graveside were members of the Grand Lodge of Freemasons (of which the Chancellor of the University is Grand Master), including the Pro Grand Master (M.W. Brother E. B. Grundy, K.C.), R.W. Brother G. R. J. Glover, P.D.G.M. (Grand Secretary), and V.W. Brother W. L. Ware (Past Grand Treasurer). There was also representation from Lodge St. Alban, of which the deceased was the first Master, Mestyn Lodge, of which he was one of the founders, and Commercial Lodge, of which he was an hon. member. The Ministry were represented by the Attorney-General (Hon. J. H. Vaughan, M.L.C.), the Supreme Court Bench by their Honors Mr. Justice Murray and Mr. Acting Justice Buchanan, the Legislative Council by the President (Sir Lancelot Stirling), the President, council, and members of the S.A. Branch of the British Medical Association by Dr. A. Campbell Magarey (Hon. Secretary), and the Public School Teachers' Union by the President (Mr. W. Bennett). Others present were Bishop Wilson and members of the clergy, members of the legal and medical professions, and numerous prominent business men, civil servants, and leading citizens.

The Council of the Adelaide Chamber of Commerce was represented by Messrs. F. W. Vasey (Acting President), S. J. Jacobs, and R. Buring. Dr. Barlow co-operated with the Chamber of Commerce in taking steps for the foundation of the Chair of Commerce at the Adelaide University, and on one occasion addressed the members of the Chamber on the subject.

At the Adelaide Local Court on Wednesday Mr. Paris Nesbit, K.C., as senior member of the Bar present, asked Mr. Commissioner Russell, who presided, whether he intended to adjourn the Court as a mark of respect to the memory of the late Dr. Barlow, whose funeral was to take place that day. The Commissioner said they all felt the loss of their late dear old friend Dr. Barlow. As a mark of respect to his memory he would on the rising of the Court for lunch adjourn until 2.15 p.m. Owing to the large amount of business to be disposed of he would be unable to grant a longer adjournment, but if any member of the Bar wished to attend the funeral he would be pleased to facilitate him in every way.

The Advertiser

April 22nd 15.

DR. BARLOW'S FUNERAL.

TOUCHING TRIBUTE FROM THE UNIVERSITY.

The funeral of Dr. Barlow, C.M.G. (Vice-Chancellor of the University of Adelaide), which took place yesterday at the North-road Cemetery, bore yet another testimony to the love and veneration in which Dr. Barlow was universally held. The floral tokens were profuse, and in the long cortege there was many a tear-dimmed eye. There was not one of the mourners who did not show signs of deep grief, and on all sides there were expressions of esteem and evidences of a sense of personal loss. It is given to few men to have so many loyal friends and sincere admirers. There was a depth of feeling in the general sorrow which indicated how he had endeared himself to all with whom he had come in contact. The most touching tributes were paid to the memory of the departed by those with whom he had been intimately associated. The funeral procession left Dr. Barlow's late residence, Lefevre-terrace, North Adelaide, at half-past 2 in the afternoon. The chief mourners were Messrs. J. R. Baker, T. O'Halloran Giles (members of the firm of Baker & Barlow, in which the late Dr. Barlow was once a partner) and Mr. C. Horrocks, who for many years had been accountant with the firm. In the second coach were the members of his household staff. His Excellency the Governor was represented by Major B. S. Connor, hon. A.D.C., and the Deputy-Governor (Sir Samuel Way) followed in his carriage. The members of the council, the staff, and the senate of the University and the undergraduates, in academic robes, formed in procession at the house and walked in double file to Christ Church, North Adelaide, and later led the cortege upon the last stage of the journey from the church into the cemetery. They were headed by the warden of the senate (Mr. F. Chapple, C.M.G.) and Professor Stirling, C.M.G. (senior member of the staff). The Bishop of Adelaide (Right Rev. Dr. Thomas) communicated to the registrar of the University an expression of regret that he was unable to be present, as he was absent from town. Sir John Downer, M.L.C., Mr. W. Angus, M.P., Mr. M. M. Maughan (Director of Education), and Dr. Poulton (members of the University Council) and Messrs. F. Halcomb (Clerk of Parliaments) and D. J. Byard and Miss E. M. Bunder (members of the senate) sent apologies for their absence in consequence of illness or other engagements. Mr. Maughan wrote:—"When I was a mere lad Dr. Barlow showed me an extraordinary kindness I have never forgotten, and from that time on his beautiful character has led me to hold him in the warmest regard and affection. I think no one in the University has been more beloved than he." The Director was represented by Mr. W. A. West (Chief Assistant Inspector). Two beautiful wreaths—one from the Chancellor and one from the members of the council and staff—were sent, and Dr. J. L. Jones, a graduate of the University, who is in Melbourne, also forwarded a wreath. A special conveyance was required to carry the floral offerings.

At Christ Church the bell was tolling. The officiating clergyman (Rev. G. H. Jones) conducted the burial service, and the organist played the "Dead March" in "Saul." At the cemetery the proceedings were brief, but impressive. The body was laid to rest alongside that of Dr. Barlow's late wife. Amongst those at the service in the church or at the graveside were members of the Grand Lodge of Freemasons (of which the Chancellor of the University is Grand Master), including the programme master (M.W. Bro. E. B. Grundy, K.C.), R.W. Bro. W. L. Ware, P.D.M.G., P.D.M.G. Bro. C. R. J. Glover (Grand Secretary). There was also representation from the Lodge St. Alban, of which the deceased was the first W.M.; the Mostyn Lodge, of which he was one of the founders, and the Commercial Lodge, of which he was an honorary member. The Ministry were represented by the Attorney-General (Hon. J. H. Vaughan, M.L.C.), the Supreme Court Bench by their Honors Mr. Justice Murray and Mr. Acting Justice Buchanan; the president, council, and members of the South Australian branch of the British Medical Association by Dr. A. Campbell Magarey (hon. secretary), and the Public School Teachers' Union by the president (Mr. W. Bennett). Others present were Sir Lancelot Stirling (President of the Legislative Council), Bishop Wilson and other members of the clergy, members of the legal and medical professions, and a large number of prominent business men, Civil servants, and prominent citizens. The council of the Adelaide Chamber of Commerce was represented by Messrs. F. W. Vasey (acting president), S. J. Jacobs and R. Buring. Dr. Barlow co-operated with the Chamber of Commerce in taking steps for the foundation of the Chair of Commerce at the Adelaide University, and at one occasion addressed the members of the chamber on the subject.

Local Court Adjourns.

In the Adelaide Local Court on Wednesday Mr. Paris Nesbit, K.C., as senior member of the bar present, asked Mr. J. G. Russell, S.M., who presided, whether he intended to adjourn the court as a mark of respect to the memory of Dr. Barlow (Vice-Chancellor of the University), whose funeral was to take place that day. The Commissioner said they all felt the loss of their late dear old friend Dr. Barlow. As a mark of respect to his memory he would on the rising of the court for lunch adjourn until 2.15 p.m. Owing to the large amount of business to be disposed of he would be unable to grant a longer adjournment, but if any member of the bar wished to attend the funeral he would be pleased to facilitate him in every way.