After 14 years absence Miss Maud Paddy, Mrs. H. H. Davies, daughter of Mr. Albert Paddy, of Barton-terrace, North Adelaide, and one of Australia's most accomplished musicians, returned to Adelaide to-day after a long stay in London. Miss Paddy spent most of her time abroad, in London, where she has studied and has achieved her main purpose of learning and improving. Though she went away a student, she has returned a master of the art of playing the violin. She is a graduate of the Royal College of Music, London, and has been teacher in Vienna, Lechitzky, in Germany, and has been teacher in several countries. Miss Paddy has won many prizes and has given many concerts in London and other parts of England. She returned to Adelaide to take charge of the music department of the Conservatorium, and to give concerts and lessons to students. She is also a member of the Adelaide Philharmonic Society, and has taken an active part in the musical life of the city. Her return was greeted with much enthusiasm, and she was given a warm welcome by friends and supporters. She has been invited to give concerts in various parts of the city, and her engagements are filled with requests for her services.
