MUNIFICENT GIFT.

£12,000 for the University.

At a special meeting of the council of the University of Adelaide, held on the 20th of July, on the recommendation of the Chancellor (Sir George Murray) a letter from Mrs. G. A. J. J. was read offering £12,000 to the University to be used for the Chair of Botany for nine months. The offer was accepted, and a committee was appointed to receive the funds. The offer was received with great joy and enthusiasm. The chair was named in honor of the donor, Mrs. J. G. A. J. J., the wife of the late Mr. George Arthur J. J., who resided in North Adelaide and was a prominent figure in the commercial life of the city. After his death in 1910, the business was taken over by a limited liability company, and the chair was given to the University.

BOTANY'S ONWARD MARCH.

Important Research Work.

Professor T. G. B. Osborne, who has the chair of botany at the University of Adelaide, returned to Adelaide after being away for nine months. He left for England last July, and upon arrival at Darlington, on the east coast of Australia, took train to Cambridge University, where he was a visiting professor for the year. While there he was greatly interested in the work being done in the botany department, and visited many of the important laboratories. He also visited the University of London, where he was a visiting professor for the year. While there he was greatly impressed with the work being done in the botany department, and visited many of the important laboratories.

SCIENCE AND THE UNIVERSITY.

Professor Osborne has spent two days at the University of Adelaide, where he has been receiving his new appointment. He has been in close contact with the staff, and has been greatly impressed with the work being done in the botany department. He has been greatly interested in the work being done in the botany department, and has been in close contact with the staff. He has been greatly impressed with the work being done in the botany department, and has been in close contact with the staff.

COLONIAL UNIVERSITY STUDENTS.

Western Australian Decision.

PERTH, April 10.

Some time ago publicity was given to the fact that Australian students were being admitted to the University of Western Australia. This was followed by a great deal of correspondence between the students and the university authorities. The students were greatly excited by the news, and were hopeful that they would be able to attend the university without any financial difficulties.

MONEY FOR RESEARCH WORK.

Professor Osborne arrived in England early in April, and spent the summer in England and Scotland. While there he took part in various scientific meetings, and was greatly impressed with the work being done in the botany department. He also visited many of the important laboratories.

GERMAN SCIENCE AND THE UNIVERSITY.

Professor Osborne arrived in England early in April, and spent the summer in England and Scotland. While there he took part in various scientific meetings, and was greatly impressed with the work being done in the botany department. He also visited many of the important laboratories.

The late Mr. George Arthur J. J., who resided in North Adelaide and was a prominent figure in the commercial life of the city. After his death in 1910, the business was taken over by a limited liability company, and the chair was given to the University.

The University is open to all students, and no fees are charged. The students are encouraged to take part in various scientific meetings, and to visit many of the important laboratories.

The late Mr. George Arthur J. J., who resided in North Adelaide and was a prominent figure in the commercial life of the city. After his death in 1910, the business was taken over by a limited liability company, and the chair was given to the University.

The University is open to all students, and no fees are charged. The students are encouraged to take part in various scientific meetings, and to visit many of the important laboratories.

The late Mr. George Arthur J. J., who resided in North Adelaide and was a prominent figure in the commercial life of the city. After his death in 1910, the business was taken over by a limited liability company, and the chair was given to the University.

The University is open to all students, and no fees are charged. The students are encouraged to take part in various scientific meetings, and to visit many of the important laboratories.

The late Mr. George Arthur J. J., who resided in North Adelaide and was a prominent figure in the commercial life of the city. After his death in 1910, the business was taken over by a limited liability company, and the chair was given to the University.

The University is open to all students, and no fees are charged. The students are encouraged to take part in various scientific meetings, and to visit many of the important laboratories.