GLENELG v. UNIVERSITY.

The students had no difficulty in passing the score of 234 set them by the seafishers. Varsity were principally aided by the indifferent fielding of the men from the village. Their ground work was shocking, ball after ball being allowed to find its way to the boundary either through the hands or the legs of the fieldsmen. On a fine fielding ground like the University Oval there is no excuse for slovenly team work, the value of which in recent games appears almost an unknown quantity with the seafishers. Varsity's win can be mainly attributed to the fine batting display of Gilbert Jose, who was responsible for a stylish 152. The young captain should have been dismissed early in his innings; in fact, three wickets should have been down for 35, Jose's among the number being badly missed by Wyles on the on-boundary. Profiting by his let-off the batsman gave a delightful display of cricket, hitting all and sundry to all parts of the field. All his shots were perfectly timed and crisply executed. Lance Gun made 35 in fair form. At present the young left-hander is too much restrained, but with a season or two in grade cricket should develop into a good cricketer. The bowling of Glenelg was only moderate, though Rundell bowled fairly well at times, but was unfortunate, several chances being missed off him. Kappler (2 for 53) sent down some good ones, though the bowling throughout lacked accuracy. University won by 42 runs.

THE LOWRIE SCHOLARSHIP. The council of the University, at its last meeting, awarded the Lowrie scholarship for post-graduate research in agriculture to Mr. Eric S. West, who has, by the acceptance of the required thesis, qualified for the B.Sc. (agriculture) degree. Mr. West intends to proceed to the California University to prosecute the research work under the conditions of the scholarship. Mr. West received his early education at the Norwood public school. He then entered the Preparatory School at the School of Mines. He finished his course there in 1913 as dux of the school. He engaged in farm work for the next two years, and then gaining a scholarship for the Roseworthy College, he received a two years' training there, completing his course at Roseworthy in 1915, with a first class diploma. He immediately offered his services for the front, was accepted, and served in France. He was severely wounded and returned to Australia in December, 1917, as unfit for further military service. In 1918 he matriculated and was awarded the John Ridley Memorial Scholarship for the completion of the course for the B.Sc. degree in agriculture. His course at the University was exceptional. In the twelve subjects for which he sat he gained seven first class and five second class passes. Mr. Eric West is a son of Mr. W. A. West, the chief inspector of schools.

RESEARCH SCHOLARSHIP FOR MEDICAL WOMEN.

Miss Maud Margaret Gibson has placed in the hands of the Royal Society of Medicine a sum of money sufficient to provide a scholarship of the yearly value of about £200 in memory of her father, the late Mr. William Gibson, of Melbourne. The scholarship will be awarded from time to time by the society to qualified medical women who are subjects of the British Empire, and is tenable for a period of two years, but may, in special circumstances, be extended to a third year. In choosing a scholar, the society will be guided in its choice "either by research work already done by her or by research work which she contemplates. The scholar shall be free to travel at her own will for the purpose of the research she has undertaken." There is no competitive examination. The Registrar of the Adelaide University (Mr. C. R. Hodge) has been advised of the conditions.

SOUTH AUSTRALIAN ORCHESTRA.

The South Australian Orchestra opens its season at the Town Hall on Saturday afternoon, April 30, when the first of five concerts will be given. The orchestra now numbers 55 performers, and will be under the conductorship of Dr. E. Harold Davies. The choice of works for the first concert augurs well for the cordiality of its reception. The opening number will be the jovial overture from Stanford's Irish overture, "Shamus O'Brien," after which Beethoven's Fifth Overture will be performed. This symphony is recognised as one of the greatest masterpieces of Beethoven's genius. A delightfully piquant suite for strings by Sir Hubert Parry will reveal the delicacy of this English composer's work. In Handel's Concerto in 2 flat for organ and orchestra, Mr. Harold Wyde, F.R.C.O., will be at the organ, and an opportunity to hear one of Handel's organ improvisations will be given. The concluding number will be Sullivan's Overture, "Di Ballo," which, by those who know the work of this gifted English writer of opera, will be thoroughly appreciated. The orchestra will be under the leadership of Miss Sylvia Whittington, A.M.U.A.
